That the animal instinct is strong in the human being is a fact well known to all who have studied the nature of the man animal and other beasts. It is a fact substantiated by the pages of natural history that a pack of wolves will hunt in company and if possible run to ground the quarry it seeks and that the pack as a whole or as individuals, will leave no bone unpicked of the victim. It is also equally understood that should any of the pack get wounded in the fight with the victim, and get down, the remainder of the pack will just as quickly turn on the unfortunate of the pack and rend him unto death and then proceed to devour the carcass. If a wolf does not want to be eaten by his fellows he must see to it that he does not fall in the race or get hurt in the encounter with an intended victim.

The same sort of fate is pretty sure to befall the human victim in the mad scramble for dollars in the business world. Should misfortune overtake anyone in the attack on the citadel of money and he should happen to get down in the midst of his scrambling fellows he is then regarded as legitimate prey for his "friends." No matter if he were the leader of the pack, as in the instance of the wounded wolf, the others will fall on him and pick his business bones as clean as ever a vulture cleaned the bones of a dead cow.

And all this is called business shrewdness and should any one with a higher sense of right and justice call on the wolves to desist, they will wonder what sort of being he is who would lose the opportunity to feast on the misfortunes of a fellow human being. And all this in light of two thousand years of Christian teaching and centuries of so-called modern civilization. There are some animals that will help a wounded mate to escape to a place of safety, but the wolf, either human or brute, will not show that sort of compassion. More pity to the human brute. Let not the human family boast of its civilization until it has more fully conquered the wolves that wear the semblance of men.

No self-respecting newspaper man will permit the columns of the paper over which he presides to be used for the mud-slinging antics of the politician who is seeking office or who is making an effort to land the candidates of his party in office. In a word no honest man will permit his paper to do those things that would not be tolerated in business transactions. Clean politics can not hurt any honest man or any just cause. When any party or newspaper stoops to the tricks of the dirty ward political heeler it is a sure indication that the cause or candidate espoused is not worthy of the respect and vote of honest men.

And now comes John D. Rockefeller and says "his income has been very much exaggerated." First thing the public knows John will be on his uppers and will be forced to go about the country with a monkey and grind organ trying to make a living.

Fashion notes have it that women's hats will be rather large this autumn. If they are to be any bigger than they were during the summer, frost will not end the troubles of mere man.

The man who deals in futures on the stock exchange is no better than any other kind of gambler. If his futures are bread stuffs or other necessities of life his act is all the more reprehensible.

"It may be better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all," says a married friend of ours, "but both have their advantages."

When a fellow tells a girl he is not worthy of her she should take him at his word and not look for proof.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgement. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by F. P. Frisbie. 1m

For Chronic Diarrhoea.
"While in the army in 1863 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief until Mr A W Miles of this place persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." Where Bullets Flew.
David Parker, of Fayette, N. K., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried electric bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at McRoberts drug store. 1m

The scarcity of water was never so distressing here as at present. People are hauling water for miles. Many had to discontinue plowing for wheat. Corn is all drying up, dust is several inches deep, ponds and wells have shut up shop. Unless it rains soon, the human race will become very weak here.
