Rev. Thompson will preach at Sycamore School House next Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Elder George Vercoe, of Waddy, filled the pulpit again on Sunday at the Christian church in the absence of the pastor, Elder F. M. Tinder.

The Baptist have purchased the residence of Mr. Silas Ashley for a parsonage. Mr. Ashley and wife expect to move to Florida at an early date.

There will be an Ice-Cream supper at the Sycamore School House, Saturday night, August 7th, to raise money for the protracted meeting which is to be held soon.

Negro Killed.

Near the colored settlement, known as White Oak, in the Northern part of the county, Timothy Peters, colored shot and killed Geo. Smith colored, Sunday night. It is claimed that the men were drinking when the trouble started. Peters is in jail now awaiting trial.

Beautiful Services.

After some introductory remarks by Rev. C. C. Brown, Rev. Harvey Murdoch, of Buckhorn, Ky., preached at the Union service in the park Sunday night. The music was much improved as there were four instruments besides an organ that assisted in it.

Commissioner's Sale.

At the Commissioner's sale of land before the Court house Monday, the following property was disposed of: The 60 acres of land belonging to Chas. Hume's heirs was sold to Thos. and James Henry for $1832; the lot in Paint Lick, belonging to the Coyles' heirs was sold to A. B. Estridge for $550.

Closed Successful Meeting.

Eld. F. M. Tinder has returned from Waddy Kentucky where he has been holding a most successful meeting for the past two weeks. There were thirty eight confessions made during the meeting, and great benefit otherwise derived from it.

Eld. Tinder will preach at the Christian church Sunday morning.

Methodist Church: Fourth Quarterly Communion.

The official Boards of Lancaster and McKendree Churches, will meet at the Lancaster Methodist church Saturday 2:30 p. m., July 31, for closing business of church year, Rev. D. W. Robertson, District Superintendent, presiding, Sunday Aug. 1st, 11 a. m. communion of both congregations at the Lancaster church.

Dr. Robertson will preach the park service at night.

Barn Burns.

We hear that Wilson Alexander's stock barn with contents, burned in Lincoln county last Friday. The loss is claimed to be about $1,200, while it was only insured for $500.

Georgians Attend Fair.

A suite of rooms is occupied at the Hotel Kenzonia by eight couples who have come from Atlanta to attend the Lancaster Fair. In the party are Mr. Otley, President of the Atlanta Horse Show and his wife; and Mr. Nim McCollough of the same Atlanta organization.

Berry-Pherigo.

Harvey H. Pherigo, formerly of Nicholasville, now a resident of Lexington, and Miss Margaret Berry, of Lexington, were married Wednesday evening at the residence of the officiating minister, Eld. I. J. Spencer, Nicholasville Tribune.

Mr. Pherigo once lived in the Buckeye section of this county where he had many friends.

Everything Ready.

This morning all is in readiness for the greatest fair in Kentucky. Horse men from all sections are pouring in and we expect to have the "best Fair ever."

The Balloon men are already on the grounds, as well as the owners of midway attractions.

Visitors may expect the most courteous treatment while attending the Fair, and not be worried about getting to and from the grounds, as an unlimited number of vehicles will be on hand for that purpose.

Cohen's Great Stable Will Show At Lancaster Fair First

Mat Cohen, of Lexington, will campaign a great stable of show horses this season. The stable makes its first show at Lancaster this week, and it is Mr. Cohen's intention to exhibit at all the leading fairs in Central Kentucky, at the State Fair, and at the Louisville and Chicago horse shows. A new acquisition to his stable is the stallion Red McDonald, the champion saddle stallion of the Kentucky State Fair last year. Other Star performers to be exhibited by Mr. Cohen are Edna Mae, champion saddle mare of 1907-08, owned by Mrs. Mary McDowell Lowndes, of Danville; Princess Patricia, a three gaited mare, also owned by Mrs. Lowndes; Coppini, a four-year old gaited gelding; McIntyre, a walk-trout-canter horse, that was very successful on the show circuit last year; Lady Pearce, a champion road mare, with a public trial of 2:10. This mare has been exhibited at all the leading horse shows in the country except New York, and only two times did she meet defeat.

Analysis of an Umpire.

An umpire is a cross between a pirate, a kidnapper, a horse thief, a chicken stealer and a punching bag. He is employed by a baseball league to give the players something to yell at when they haven't hit the ball quite far enough to reach first base, to give the audience something to throw at when the game isn't interesting them.

The umpire's duty is to decide whether the pitcher has put the ball over the plate and whether the runner has reached a base before the baseman has soaked him in the ribs with the ball. This would be as easy a job as re-arranging the tariff to suit everybody if it wasn't for one thing. Baseball players are very undisciplined and informal in their treatment of umpires. So are baseball fans. After an umpire has been treated by a crowd of players and fans for a few minutes he generally has to be put together with liquid glue. Baseball spectators are very fond of arguing a decision with pop bottles, chair cushions, ball bats, fence boards, bricks, turnips, players benches and clubs. In some parts of the country it takes an unusually durable umpire to last nine innings.

Anyone can become a good baseball umpire after a few years' practice. He must be able to dodge large and small objects from four directions at once, to hypnotize 200-pound players who are peevish by looking them in the eye and saying "410" in firm tones and to watch a baseball in front of him and a base-runner behind him at the same time. A good baseball umpire should be entirely deaf and should possess a voice like a megaphone. He should enjoy being hated by everybody, and should find a deep pleasure in being escorted out of the park by nineteen policemen while two thousand fans clamor for his gore. A very good umpire is regarded as a little worse than a grave robber by most everybody. A very poor one is so much more unpopular that prominent business men sometimes bite holes out of the wire netting in front of the grand stand in their eagerness to get at him.

Baseball umpires sometimes live to a great age in spite of their unhealthy occupation, but no baseball umpire has ever been elected to a public office. An umpire once ran for the office of Dog Catcher in Chicago, and some citizens got up at 5 o'clock and voted all day against him. He lost the office by 3,000,000 votes, though the population of the city at that time was scarcely a million.

Of course we don't mean anything personal, George, and besides this doesn't apply to the ones who umpire our games provided they give us a square deal.

THE NEW YORK OF THE WEST.

The Hair Cannot Be Told.

Seattle Washington, 7 19

Dear Record: After a journey of five days we reached this city, finding our daughter, Mrs. Noland, her husband and their two bright children in good health. I do not use the editorial "we," but mean my wife and I. We are now in favor of expansion, and only such a trip can cause one to realize the magnitude and resource of our great country, which is capable of supporting and maintaining a population of more than 500 millions of people. In passing through the grazing regions of Nebraska and Montana, where residents live several miles apart, we were impressed with the fact that some of our home people should move to that section to be cured of the habit of talking about their neighbors, as they would not be thrown in contact them. At Alliance, Nebraska, mountain time begins and we turn our watch back one hour. At Paradise, Montana, Pacific time begins, and the wheels of time are turned back another hour, though we did not expect to use a watch in Paradise. As it is earlier West, and the difference in time between Seattle and Lancaster is fully three hours, it follows that if you are retiring at 9 o'clock p. m., we are at evening meal here, corresponding to your supper, and when it is midnight at Lancaster we can read here by twilight.

Passing through a rich agricultural country and through the Rocky Mountains, the backbone of the country, we see a manifestation of the wisdom and goodness of God, in holding snow on the lofty peaks to melt, in season, and feed the streams that flow through the fertile valleys and furnish water for irrigating sections where the rain fall is not sufficient. Here we see a decided advantage over the farms of the Middle States, where there is a constant dread of a drought or too much rain, as water can be used, in irrigating, as it is needed, insuring good crops and preventing the removal of soil, which impoverishes one part of a farm and enriches another part.

This city is backed and supported by rich agricultural, mining and lumbering regions, besides being connected, by Puget Sound with the Pacific Ocean putting it in touch with other nations, by navigation, and giving it advantages and possibilities equal or superior to those which made New York and Chicago what they are. In 1900 it had a population of 80,000. It now has 315,000, having gained 25,000 in the last year. It has business houses representing millions of dollars, palatial homes and, in fact, everything that excites and embellishes civilized life. Thousands, from all countries, are attending the A. Y. P. Fair. Three large, fresh water lakes bound the city, one, Lake Washington, being 38 miles long, and many beautiful parks are within the city limits, and when properly known, it will be visited more frequently than Eastern resorts. Mr. Noland and I have crossed Lake Washington, visited four parks and seen much of the city. The finest fruit grows abundantly and it is said that, in some sections, an acre of land will produce 4 tons of hay, 60 bushels of wheat or 400 bushels of potatoes. Kentucky's tobacco and hemp are not grown here.

The climate is delightful—warm (not hot) days and cool (pleasant) nights. There are no buzzards, no thunderstorms, but few colored people and no tatters—the people being busy. Considerable capital is coming here, from the East for investment, and when it is necessary to do so to locate a factory the eternal hills are moved to make room. No better schools are to be found in the nation—eight new school buildings having been erected this year at a cost of $700,000. Tell my partner, Bright Swinebroad, that I am trying to get an option on 400 acres near town at $1000 an acre which will double in value in five years.

M. D. Hughes.

Cox-Hester.

On Thursday morning July 22, 1909, Miss Cassandra Cox and Mr. Virgil Hester drove to Stanford and took the train for Jellico where they were married at five o'clock p. m.

The bridal tour consisted of several different points in the state.

Miss Cox is the daughter of Mr. Robert S. Cox an extensive farmer of Garrard county.

Mr. Hester is the son of Mr. Richard Hester one of Lincoln county's wealthy citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Hester will return home Friday July 30th. Their many friends wish them a happy future.

Dalton.

Little Essie Dalton, the younger daughter of Jas. H. Dalton and wife was buried at Goshen cemetery last Friday afternoon, after the funeral services at the Goshen church. She had been sick only since Sunday noon, having attended church with her father and mother.

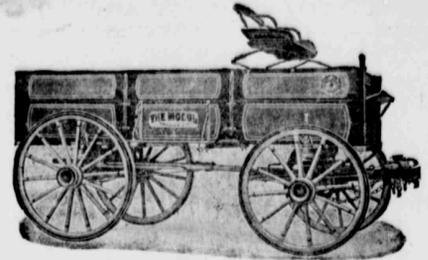

She was a lovely little Christian character, ever shedding abroad the grace and beauty of her innocent pure heart. The community was greatly shocked and sought every means to extend sympathy and christian fellowship.

Elds. Tinder and Livingston as special friends of the family were with them and conducted the services.

Thanks To Mr. Logn.

The writer certainly appreciates the encouraging words from the former Lancasterian, whose departure was felt with regret by the entire county. We hope that his trust in the following letter will be realized ere the three "score year and ten" mark is reached:

I am enclosing $2.00 to pay for the CENTRAL RECORD, the paper has been coming to Cosby, I want you to change it and send to my home address. It sometimes gets lost at the office, then there is a great disappointment at home, for we can't get along without the CENTRAL RECORD. I am glad to see you getting out such a good paper and trust you will be able to increase the subscription list and make a million. You deserve to succeed and I know you will. With kindest regards and wishing you great success. I am Sincerely, J. M. Logan.

Base Ball Notes.

A large crowd watched us get defeated Saturday, by Lexington in a score of 6 to 4. The game was rotten from beginning to end, of course.

Monday we played London, and it was one of the best games of the season, many grandstand plays, but room prevents us from going into the features. This game resulted in a score of 5 to 1 in our favor.

Yesterday's game with London was a good one but very slow the score being 3 to 0 in our favor.

To Feed 200,000 Democrats.

Here is what Gus Jauber, of Lexington, the official barbecuer of Kentucky, says will be required to feed 200,000 persons on the first day of the big Democratic barbecue in Louisville on August 31. Inasmuch as the promoters say 100,000 will be present on both days, Mr. Jauber's figures will have to be multiplied by four.

25,000 pounds of meat.
12,000 loaves of bread.
Forty cords of wood.
Six pits, 50 feet long, 3 feet wide and 2 feet deep.
For 5,000 gallons of burgoo, 2,000 pounds of meat.
100 bushels of potatoes.
15 bushels of onions.
60 cases of tomatoes.
30 cases of corn.
347 gross tin cups.
347 gross tin teaspoons.
40 galvanized tubs.
1 barrel-coarse salt.
10 pounds cayenne pepper.
50,000 five-inch paper plates.
3 dozen buckets.
4 dozen ten-inch butcher knives.
