

ELECTRICITY PUTS THE FINISH- ING TOUCH TO A HOME

SEE BY IT. READ BY IT. COOK BY IT. HEAT BY IT. IRON BY IT. WASH BY IT.

There is no end to the uses to which you can put electricity when it is installed in your home.

If your home is not wired for electricity let us do it for you now. The cost is less than you might imagine. The benefits are greater than you could conceive—unless you have used electricity before.

A personal interview with us will give you all of the details.

BASTIN BROS.

Where to Draw the Line.

A "promising young man" is all right so long as he doesn't make it to her in writing.—Nashville Tennessean.

Property Long in Royal Family.

The London property owned by King George as duke of Lancaster has been held by the British royal family since 1290.

Hickory First in Fuel Value.

Shell bark hickory ranks first in fuel value, with chestnut, white oak, white ash and red ash following in the order named.

Extending His Power.

Jud Tunkins says if the man who talks loudest so frequently gets the best of an argument he's going to buy himself an amplifier.

Thought for the Day.

Reflect that life, like every other blowing, derives its value from its use alone; not for itself, but for a noble end, the Eternal gave it—and that end is virtue.—Samuel Johnson.

Tight Shoes.

To draw on tight shoes, if a shoe horn is not convenient, use two or three thicknesses of newspaper or the inside of a towel. Warm a tight shoe slightly before trying it on.

No Mystery About Prophecy.

Prophecy, after all, is merely the logical continuance of the known into the unknown; and, on the data we have, it should be quite easy to prophecy for at least fifty years ahead.
—James Stephens.

Overpolite Orientals.

When we come to truly groveling politeness there are the orientals. No anxious is the native of Japan to exalt his friend or acquaintance that he sets him on a pedestal, so to speak, and lowers himself to the very dust.
He will not admit that anything he himself owns is even tolerable, no matter how valuable it may be, and to speak with the slightest degree of tolerance of anything he owns is, in his opinion, to arrive at the very zenith of impoliteness.

In the Third Round

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"In the third round, don't forget, kid," Barney had whispered. "Go in for all your worth, and he'll go easy with you. Then in the third you get it on the jaw and goes down—see?"

Abe nodded. The principals faced each other to the ring. Lofsky, the champion, grinned at Abe and tapped him lightly on the cheek. They sparred and broke away.

Abe was dimly conscious of the vast concourse of spectators. It was the great event toward which he had been working for five years past—his ambition, the welterweight championship.
It had been difficult to find a big man willing to meet him. He had fought his way up from the bottom, and he had had tough luck.

And now, at the last, the thing that he had looked forward to so long had become his infancy. Abe had always fought straight. He was the logical man to meet Lofsky. But Lofsky had refused to meet him. And Abe's young wife and the baby were pining in an East Side tenement.

Then temptation had come in the form of Barney. Lofsky would meet him for the purse of nine thousand dollars, if he would take two thousand and a knockout.

Abe had refused scornfully. He knew that he was a fair match against Lofsky. But things at home were going worse, and Minnie was threatened with tuberculosis. In the end Abe yielded.

"It ain't as if it was your finish, kid," Barney had said to him. "Nobody expects you to beat Lofsky, and no one will know. You'll get your chance again some day."

That was the understanding under which they met.

Abe rushed in, pummeling Lofsky fiercely about the body. Lofsky parried and guarded, returning an occasional blow which lacked all of Lofsky's steam. At first Abe thought Lofsky was mindful of the compact, but then he realized that the big man had not trained for the fight. He was lofty, puffy, with too much stomach over his belt.

And then Abe saw that his chance had come. Lofsky had not trained, and he was trained to the ounce. Victory was within his reach, with seven thousand instead of two as his share of the proceeds.

He could redeem himself and fight fair, as he had always done, in confidence of victory, and so avoid the worst offense known to the prize ring.
On the other hand, if he tricked Lofsky and his manager, would he not be guilty of an offense equally bad?

The dilemma was a hideous one, and there seemed no way to escape dishonor.

And suddenly he saw red. He would beat Lofsky at any rate, if he could.
He sprang in and dealt him a blow upon the jaw that staggered him.
After that he fought furiously, standing up under a rain of punches. He heard Lofsky grunt, he saw the look of surprise come into his face.

The round ended amid tumultuous applause. Abe hardly heard the whispered advice of his seconds. When the next round began he rushed at Lofsky and began driving him all around the ring. A fearful stomach blow momentarily crippled him; then he had sent out his left, and Lofsky had reeled and fallen.

The spectators were growing frantic.
Was this another David? There was an ugly look on Lofsky's face as he rose and met Abe's showering blows.
There was a clinch. Then Lofsky got home on Abe's stomach and cheek, two staggering punches that evened things.
Abe grew cool. He had been rushing it too hard. He guarded for the remainder of the second round.

The third round—the men faced one another. Lofsky was sneering. There was a cut over his eye, and his nose was bleeding. There was a look of uncertainty in his eyes. Abe resolved to put forth all his might in this round, the one in which he was booked to go down. He rushed. He beat down Lofsky's guard. And then—

He opened his eyes. His second was stooping over him, sponging his face.
"What's the matter?" he mumbled.
"Did he get me?"

"Got you in the middle of the round, kid. Gee, an ox couldn't have stood up against a punch like that of Lofsky's. Say, you sure put up a better fight than was expected!"

As he staggered to his corner Lofsky came up and shook hands. "Gee, kid, you certainly had me guessing," he remarked. "I thought for sure you'd double-crossed me, till you let down your guard, or I wouldn't have struck so hard."

Abe smiled. There was a great peace in his heart. He had been beaten fairly—and fate had ordained that he was to keep his pact. He would fight fair in future. And Lofsky would have to meet him again. He must be ready next time for that punch of Lofsky's.

Colorful Reading.

Not long ago, writes a contributor, while my nephew was consulting the librarian at the Fresno city library, a small boy entered with a book that his mother wished exchanged. But, since she had neglected to send a list of books to choose from, the librarian was somewhat at a loss to know what book to send. Finally she asked:
"Has your mother read Freckles?"
"No, ma'am," replied the boy.
"They're brown,"—Youth's Companion.

Is This Encouraging Idolatry?

Speaking of exports to the East, there is a certain English firm which, in the course of its ordinary business, produces large quantities of waste spelter and lead. This material is melted up, run into molds and exported in the form of images of various eastern gods.

World's Finest Diamonds.

The following is a list of the most famous diamonds in the world: (1) the Braganza, (2) the Dudley, (3) the Florentine, (4) the Great Mogul, (5) the Hope, (6) the Koh-i-nor, (7) the Nassac, (8) the Orloff, (9) the Pigott, (10) the Pitt or Regent, (11) the Sancy, (12) the Shah, (13) the Star of the South.

Heavy Loss Caused by Fungi.

The annual loss caused by forest fires is enormous, but it is no greater than that attributable to fungi, which rot mine timbers, bridge timbers, telegraph poles and other structures of wood, necessitating their replacement.
The "life" of the average railway tie is seven and a half years; if fungi would let it alone it would last twice that long.

Electrical Hair Cutting.

There is in use in France an electric substitute for the barber's scissors. It consists of a comb carrying along one side of its row of teeth a platinum wire through which flows an electric current. As the comb passes through the locks to be shorn the heated wire instantaneously severs the hairs, leaving them of even length and sealing the cut ends as in the ordinary process of singeing with a taper.

Fortune Told by the Pansy.

The streaks on the pansy are supposed to foretell destiny. If the petal plucked is marked with four lines, it signifies hope; five, hope sprung from fear; leaning toward the left, a life of trouble; leaning toward the right, prosperity unto the end; if the center one is longest, Sunday will be the wedding day; eight lines denote fickleness; nine, a changing heart; ten on one petal foretells riches; eleven a large family.

Chemical Knowledge Spreads.

More and more it is coming to be granted that the chemical elements are made up of identically the same stuff, and that they differ only in their structural arrangements.
More and more the passage from one element to another which has so dumbfounded science when it was first observed taking place spontaneously is coming to be a matter of course and something which we may ultimately hope to control.

Plain Duty of Citizenship.

I have ever considered it as the indispensable duty of every member of society to promote, as far as in him lies, the prosperity of every individual, but more especially the community in which he belongs.—John Hancock.

New Weapon Against Mice.

A way to kill mice (without cats) has been discovered in Australia. A powder recently was tested by sprinkling wheat with it and fastening hungry mice in the bins; mice died without eating the grain.

Scissors as a "Deposit."

According to an old Jewish custom, when a master tailor employs a new worker, the latter leaves his scissors as a guarantee that he will be on hand to start work on the appointed day.

Light and Dark of Moon.

The dark of the moon is that part of the lunar month when the moon is not visible. It may be considered as covering a period of approximately four days, two days before and two days after the time of the new moon.
The rest of the lunar month may be called the light of the moon. These are popular expressions and are not susceptible of precise definition.

Terrifying Visions in Dreams.

Dreams about rain or water are often signs of irritation of the mucous membranes, and the dreamer should not be surprised to wake up with a sore throat. Should you dream of people several times their normal size, it is an infallible sign that the liver is affected, while if has been noticed that when the dreams are of pain in any particular part of the body there is something wrong with that part.

Width of Strait of Dover.

The distance from Dover to Calais across the strait of Dover, is twenty one miles.

Valuable Sea Creatures.

The walrus furnishes about 1,500 pounds of meat, 1,000 pounds of oil and 500 pounds of leather, and the white whale furnishes much more.

Flapper's Definition.

Asked to define "love," a romantic girl replied, "I guess it's love when the fellow you are dancing with steps on your foot and, instead of it hurting, it makes you thrill."

For Punctuation.

Lady (in grocery store)—"I'd like a pound of alphabet crackers, please.
My children make sentences out of them, so will you please put in a few oyster crackers for periods."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Greatness in Patience.

He who walks through life with an even temper and a gentle patience—patience with himself, patience with others—has an everyday greatness beyond that which is won in battle or chanted in cathedrals.—Orville Dewey.

Chopin Was of French Parentage.

Chopin, the celebrated musician, was of French parentage. He was born near Warsaw, Poland, in 1810.
He died in 1849.

May Explain Some Things.

There is no word in the Chinese language that conveys an intimation of what we term public spirit, nor is there any synonym for patriotism.

A Reminder.

It will be quite time enough to talk about the faults and failings of absent friends when we have assured ourselves that we have none of our own of which to speak.

Metal Well Named.

It is said that Ekberg, the Swedish discoverer of tantalum, gave that name to the metal because of the tan-taling difficulties he encountered while investigating it.

Whence the Papal "Bull."

The popes of Rome used to seal their decrees in lead instead of wax, which gained for them the name of papal bulls, from bulls, lead. The first English king to use a seal was Edward the Confessor.

This pretty HOME is located on a nice large corner lot, 155x300 feet on Danville avenue, one of the choice residence streets of the good town of Lancaster, with its splendid schools, fine churches, high class citizenship, three banks, a good business point, etc. A town noted for producing three governors to the grand old Commonwealth of Kentucky and only one Col. Jas. L. Hamilton. We verily believe the Col. thinks that Lancaster is the capital of the U. S. He has often said to us: "I live in the best town, in the best county, and in the best state in the Union."

IMPROVEMENTS: Elegant two-story, seven room residence, two halls, two porches, fully equipped bath room, good cellar, city water and lights, good cistern, spacious lawn, beautiful shade trees, 16 fine fruit trees and quite a bit of grapes. Extra large garden. Good barn, double garage and a world of other outbuildings. All improvements in the pink of condition. An ideal place to live, surrounded by the best of neighbors, just the place for the retired farmer to live and educate his children, enough room to turn around and not be cramped.

Mr. Schooler is a gentleman in all the word means and game to the core.
When he makes up his mind to do anything he usually does it. He has fully made up his mind to let YOU say what this valuable property is worth, and he is going to make a deed on the High Dollar bid on sale day, let the result be as it may. Mr. Schooler will make his home in another town. Homes like this one are scarce. Look it over and be convinced that we are offering something out of the ordinary. We know the more you look the more you will bid.

Terms easy and made known on day of sale.

Remember the day and hour, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9th., AT 3:30 P.
