The large and conspicuous advertisement of Pitter, Black & Co. on our first page, is in keeping with the immense stock carried by them. They have one of the handsomest furniture houses in Louisville and carry everything known to the trade in their line. It is worth your while to pay them a visit even if you do not want to make a purchase. Mr. W. B. Black, a member of this firm, is a Breckenridge county boy, born and raised at Union Star, who has by economy, thrift and fair dealing, built up quite a reputation in Louisville, and is now recognized as one of the leading business men of that city. He thinks he is entitled to the trade from this section and he ought to have it. Call on him when you go to the city. He is always glad to see his old friends. If you want to make him feel good and at the same time favor us, just tell him you saw his advertisement in the Breckenridge News.

Are you ready for the winter? It is coming. You need an overcoat, perhaps, a pair of shoes. Let us give you a pointer, go to Geo. F. Yeakel & Co., Brandenburg.

It is a fact that goes without questioning that if you could get at the authorship of all the handsome dresses worn by the good women of Meade county, their identity could be traced to the well known firm of Geo. Yeakel & Co., Brandenburg. When a lady wants anything new, stylish and cheap she invariably goes or sends to this house and she always finds what she wants. Their stock is never in bad shape.

In the annual Declamatory Contest between the literary societies of Center College, held at Danville last Friday night, Mr. J. R. Skillman, of this city, who is a student there, was awarded the second medal. There were quite a number of contestants and the declamations were all excellent. Jimmy is to be congratulated on receiving the second honors where there were so many good speeches.

Mrs. Chris Perrigo, of this city, died in Louisville last week. Her remains were brought to Stephensport for burial. Mrs. Perrigo has been an invalid for a long time and a great sufferer, and her death was not unexpected. She leaves a husband and two bright little daughters to mourn her loss. The funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. Harry Lay in Stephensport, and conducted by Rev. W. C. Brandon and quite a number of ladies of this city.

Geo. Yeakel & Co.'s reputation for handling fashionable dress goods is well established both in Meade and Breckenridge counties and is a well earned one, too, for they carry the largest line of any establishment in either of the counties. All you have to do is to call at their mammoth establishment in Brandenburg and you will be convinced of the fact. Their line this year has been selected with unusual care, and a better assortment cannot be had anywhere outside of the large cities.

The Tableau at Fisher's Hall.
The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church at Fisher's Hall last Thursday night was a brilliant success. The night was a miserable one, and out short the attendance somewhat, but a good audience was present notwithstanding the rain and sloop.

For an elegant and recherche affair on this order, you can always count on our Cloverport people. They never fail to equal the best on all occasions.

The tableaux were splendidly selected, and most tastefully executed. No room was left for criticism in all the management, attitudes and effects. The controlling features of every scene were fully apprehended and strikingly presented, bringing hearty echoes from the audience.

We shall risk no mention of any individual. If we singled out one scene or person to speak of, we should do injustice to the others. As the boy said about the roads—"Nary one of 'em is the betterest," and we shall be content to say that the whole affair did the highest credit to all the participants.

A Pleasing Sense
Of health and strength renewed and of ease and comfort follows the use of Syrup of Figs, as it acts in harmony with nature to effectually cleanse the system when constipated or bilious. For sale in 50c and $1.00 bottles by all leading druggists.

A GREAT GAS WELL

THREE MILLION FEET THE SIZE OF IT.

The Whole Country for Miles Around Lighted up by it.

A Real Gusher.
The Mineral Center Gas Company had their well, located near the depot, "shot" last Saturday. It was a beautiful sight; as soon as the nitro-glycerine was exploded, the water and debris shot out with terrific force high into the air, showering fragments over acres of ground all around the derrick. The "go-devil," the weight dropped to explode the charge, a heavy piece of iron, was shattered into thousands of fragments.

But better than all, was the wonderful increase of gas which immediately followed the discharge. A bucket of water was poured into the well, but the force of the gas threw it out in spray. An enterprising individual got himself onto a board placed on the casing and was hurled off instantly for his experiment.

The gas roars so that conversation near the derrick is difficult with open pressure and can be heard a long distance. It was deemed unsafe to lock down the well, for the pressure might displace the casing until it can be securely anchored with timber, which is being done at this writing, and will be finished likely when we go to press.

It is estimated now to be a three million well, but whether it is so great as this or not, it's a well of splendid flow—pouring forth a tremendous flow of natural gas. The "shooting" of this well proves, beyond all doubt, this field to be a rich and profitable one. All our wells can be brought up to large capacity, and there is no doubt that gas sufficient to supply ourselves, and neighboring towns and cities with all the gas they can use, can be obtained here. In addition to this, manufacturing to use gas can be built assured of ample supply. We regard the demonstrations of last Saturday as important as the first discovery of gas itself. It is here, and in large quantities. The Mineral Center well alone can supply every stove and fireplace in the city with all the gas they can consume in the coldest weather and have large quantities to spare.

The other wells need only the powerful and certain agency of nitro-glycerine, skillfully applied, to bring them up to the productive capacity of the Mineral Center, and possibly greatly in excess of it. But a small charge comparatively of the terrible explosive was used. If it had been larger, greater results would, no doubt, have been obtained. On this experience the other wells can improve, and it is safe to predict that some of them can be made larger than the Mineral Center, and all of them greatly enhanced.

Other companies are already taking steps to torpedo their wells, and within a short time we shall know positively the results.

Lucky People.

When it was stated here that Wm. and W. P. Fawcett held ticket No. 63,856 which last month drew the First Capital Prize of $300,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery and had received their money—$15,000—a great many persons thought it was a joke. The Times-Journal man, wishing to know the truth of the matter, saw the parties and was assured that the report was correct. They received the money last Friday week by draft, which was paid by the Bank of Campbellville at this place. They have for several months been buying one or two twentieth tickets in this lottery. They stated to us that they had always drawn enough money to pay for their tickets up to the time of drawing the capital prize.

W. H. Fawcett left last Monday for the West, where he is to visit his brother and to enjoy part of the fortune which came into his hands so easily, $15,000 is no small amount. It is certainly a large amount for a dollar. It will be remembered that some time ago, Mr. Sam Frank Spencer of our neighboring town, Greensboro, drew $15,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery and that several times the adjoining county of Marion has been lucky in holding tickets drawing from $500 to $15,000.—Campbellville (Ky.) Times-Journal, Nov. 6.

Hearing that $15,000 had been drawn by some one in this county in the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery and that the money had been paid and was deposited in the Columbia Banking Co., a Herald reporter called on Mr. Lucius Frierson, the cashier of the above named bank, and learned that Mr. T. H. Neesley, of Bigbyville, a village ten or twelve miles from here, was the lucky man. Mr. Neesley held one-twentieth of ticket No. 63,856, which drew the first capital prize of $300,000 in the drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery Company, held the 15th of last month. The ticket was deposited last week with the Columbia Banking Co. of this city, who collected the same through the New Orleans correspondent, the Louisiana National Bank. We understand that Mr. Neesley, who is quite a young man, not yet having attained his majority, is quite elated over his success. He is a sober, industrious young farmer and this wind-fall of luck will give him a good start in life. This is the first time he ever bought a ticket, and he certainly made a good investment for one dollar.—Columbia (Tenn.) Herald, Nov. 1.

Wheat is looking fine in this section of country. Prospects were never better.

Mr. C. C. Clark went to Brandenburg Saturday last.

Mr. Allie Conrad, a young man who lives near here, had $122.15 stolen from under his pillow while he slept. Conrad and Joe Allen were sleeping in one room and Perry Mock in another, and during the night Mock came into his neighbor's room and took his money from under his stove. On the evening previous the boys were joking and some one made the remark that Conrad had a hundred dollars in his pocket. So when the money was missing and Mock seemed very anxious to leave the country it was suspected that he had the money. An agreement was made among the boys that Sam Elder should go with him, so the two got ready and started. While waiting for a boat Conrad and his companions came up and told Mock they intended to search them. Elder immediately agreed to be searched and, not finding the money, Mock's time came next. They had not searched far when one lifted his hat and found a hundred dollars, which Mock confessed was part of the money which he had stolen in the night, and that the other twenty dollars was hid in Elder's bare, and if Conrad would go with him he would get it. Conrad has his money and Mock is in jail.

Hon. D. H. Murray in Washington
Looking After the Post Office and the Great Fisher Estate.

The Louisville Times' Washington special of November 25, says: "Judge David Murray, of Cloverport, Ky., is in the Capital looking after the post-office, the incumbent after Miss Henly, his incumbent, retained. He has been on a visit to his brother, Logan Murray, the New York broker. The Judge goes from here to Louisville to consult with Col. James Fisher, of that place, on a matter of magnificent interest to all concerned. Many years ago a German emigrant, Ezekiel Fisher, came to this country and finally gravitated to Louisville, where he died and was buried. He left behind him in the Fatherland a bachelor brother, who afterwards amassed a splendid fortune. The bachelor brother left his estate by will to the brother in America, of whose whereabouts he had lost trace. The estate, which has been in the hands of the German government, has accumulated to the enormous sum of $51,000,000, and is ready for distribution to the rightful heirs upon proper proof. The German government, through its Consuls, have been seeking for the lawful heirs. Judge Murray says it has been clearly shown that the ancestors of the Kentucky family was a brother of the unmarried man who left the estate in the old land. Judge Murray's wife is a great grand-daughter of the emigrant."

It is the only one that has been discovered, and it is the only one that has been trained. It is the only one that has been discovered, and it is the only one that has been trained.
