

AN AGED PHYSICIAN

After Years of Experience Gives the Following Advice.

"If you have anything to do with medicines at all be pretty sure you know what you are taking."

Short & Haynes, our local druggists, say this is a strong point in favor of their valuable cod liver preparation, Vinol. Everything it contains is plainly printed on the bottle, therefore it is not a patent medicine.

Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil or grease to nauseate and upset the stomach.

This is the reason that Vinol accomplishes such wonderful results in curing chronic coughs, colds, bronchial and lung troubles, and there is nothing known to medicine that will so quickly build up the run down, overworked, tired and debilitated, or give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, as Vinol.

Mrs. Martha Fraser, of Portland, Me., writes: "I was all run down from overwork and had a chronic cough for years. I had tried so many remedies without help that I had lost all faith in medicine. My daughter bought me a bottle of Vinol. It simply worked wonders for me; it cured my cough and brought back health and strength and I am better than I have been for years."

We can only ask every one in Cloverport who needs such a medicine to try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails.—Short & Haynes, Druggists.

Compromising a Tenor.

Czar Nicholas I. used to walk the streets of St. Petersburg alone wrapped in a large gray cloak. It was forbidden to speak to him, but the czar sometimes forgot that a subject could not obey the prohibition if the emperor addressed him.

Once the czar met in a park the tenor singer of the Italian opera and exchanged a few words with him. The moment the czar was out of sight the police arrested the tenor. That evening the czar attended the opera, where, after a long delay, the manager announced that the tenor could not be found. Nicholas guessed what had happened and sent an aid-de-camp to release the singer.

A few days after the czar again met the tenor and began with an apology: "I was very sorry."

"May I implore your majesty," the Italian exclaimed, "not to speak to me? Your majesty will compromise me with the police."

Measures.

A gallon is exactly ten pounds of distilled water, so when housewives say "a pint's a pound the world around" they are mistaken.

The imperial standard yard, which is the same as our own, is the distance between two fine lines on a bar of bronze, measured at 62 degrees F. The bar is kept mounted on eight rollers in a special steel safe in London.

The standard pound is kept in a silver gilt box contained in a bronze box, the top of which is securely screwed down and the whole placed in a special compartment of the same safe.

The German metric system took the place of more than twenty local measures. The Hesse-Darmstadt foot was less than ten inches, the Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt foot more than fifteen.

London Sunday Closing Riots.

London had its troubles with Sunday closing laws when in 1875 there were riots caused by Lord Robert Grosvenor's bill to put down Sunday trading. A crowd hostile to the measure went to Hyde park to see how the aristocrats kept the Sabbath, as a newspaper of that time put it. Carriages taking the afternoon drive were greeted with yells of "Go to church!" and with hooting that scared many horses into running away. A week later the police prohibited a meeting that was announced, but tens of thousands of people appeared, and there were vigorous struggles with the police. On the third Sunday pure rowdism supervened, footmen were assaulted, and windows were smashed wholesale through the aristocratic districts. Then the trouble died out, and so did the bill.

The St. Bernard Pass.

The examinations made at the Great St. Bernard show that the pass was not only used by foot passengers, but by horsemen in Roman times. It seems that it was a safer route in the time of Vitellius than until the last few years. Excavations demonstrate that there were two buildings, much farther apart than is the present road. There was a temple there, and some fifty votive tablets have been found. It must always have been a place of refuge, though often subjected to attack. Signs of violence are demonstrated by the fact that votive tablets have been discovered broken and thrown into the swamp below. It was in the eleventh century that St. Bernard of Menthon founded the modern hospice.

Will Dredge Ohio Between Louisville and Evansville.

According to assurances given to the Louisville Board of Trade by the United States Department of Engineering, several dredge-boats will soon be employed in dredging the Ohio river between Louisville and Evansville. The dredgeboats which have been working on the upper river have been ordered to proceed at once to Louisville. The Engineering Department will also contract for a new $60,000 boat to work below Louisville.

As the result of this news from Washington the members of the Board of Trade are highly gratified, and feel that they have won a great victory for Louisville's manufacturing and commercial interests.

The good news was received in the report of Judge George Du Relle and James F. Buckner, Jr., of Louisville, who were appointed as a special committee to go to Washington and confer with Secretary of War Taft and Gen. Alexander McKenzie, Chief of the Bureau of Engineering.

The successful visit of the Board of Trade's committee means much, it is thought, to the business men, not only of Louisville, but of all the important places on the river between these two cities. For the last three years river business has come to a standstill late in the summer and has rarely been resumed until the spring rises. In 1900 the river was thoroughly dredged from Louisville south, and the channel was kept open for two years, but is gradually filled. The opening of the channel means that the traffic should be uninterrupted no more than three months of the year.

Doing Well in Illinois.

(Hancock Clarion.)

Mr. John A. Huff, of Manie, Ill., was in town on Saturday. "When a young man Mr. Huff lived in Perry county, Ind., and Breckenridge county, Ky., but he moved away thirty years ago. He has not been in Hawesville since that time, but well remembers attending the Kelly hanging here when he was a boy. He is the half-brother of Mr. Henderson Huff, the well-known Cannelton contractor, and he informs us that he is doing well on the farm in Illinois."

Laughter and Health.

A physician in search of remedies for human ills finds that laughter stands very high in the list of prophylactics. The effect of mere cheerfulness as a health promoter is well known, but an occasional outburst of downright laughter is the heroic remedy. It is a matter of everyday experience, says the authority in question, that one feels the better for a good laugh, an explosion of laughter being in truth a "nervous storm, comparable in its effect to a thunderstorm in nature, doing good by dissipating those oppressive clouds of care which sometimes darken the mental horizon." This authority assures us that the memorable adage, "Laugh and grow fat," rests on a sound philosophical basis. Portly people are not given to laughter because they are fat. They are fat because they laugh.

Burglars and Chloroform.

Doctors agree that the public is wrong in the popular conception that burglars sometimes chloroform the inmates of a house before committing a robbery. The usual story is that the anaesthetic was squirted into the sleeping room through keyholes. A Kansas City surgeon who has had occasion to administer chloroform or ether 500 times says that chloroform administered in this manner would put a quietus on the burglar as well as the inmates of a home. Physicians have tried many times to administer chloroform to sleeping persons and have met with very poor results. The first effect of an anaesthetic is not to lull to insensibility, but to arouse all the mental and physical vigor of the person to whom it is given.—Kansas City Journal.

How to Make Beeswax.

The following recipe for beeswax can be vouchsafed: After the combs have been put through an extractor or crushed and strained through a thin cloth the wax is put in a copper or porcelain lined kettle, with cold water enough to cover it, and boiled for half an hour, or longer if it seems necessary. When the wax is taken from the stove it is strained and poured in a vessel previously dipped in cold water. To make a round cake of beeswax pour the melted wax in a bowl that has been dipped in cold water. To make wax sheets use a board three-eighths of an inch thick, dampened with warm water, then dipped in the melted wax two or three times. The board is next put in water to cool for a little while, after which it is taken out, the edges trimmed with a sharp knife and two sheets of wax peeled off. To make these wax sheets the wax must not be too hot or it will crack.

TONGS.

Tongs were said to have been invented in China B. C. 1122, but representations of them have been found on the Egyptian monuments B. C. 2200. In India they are claimed as in use since B. C. 900, and their principal employment in that country, where fires during the most of the year are superfluous, was to facilitate the handling of dead bodies in the funeral pyres. Seventy pairs of tongs, some bronze, some iron, have been taken from the ruins of Pompeii.

Farmers say there will be a good supply of turkeys for the Thanksgiving market as the "crop" is much larger this year than last, when the demand far exceeded the supply. The fact of the scarcity last year caused many farmers to raise large numbers. This year has been good for turkey raising, as grasshoppers and crickets have been plentiful and ranging birds have fared well.

Sound Waves.

The sensation of sound, as is well known, is produced by a certain to and fro or wave-like movement of the air striking upon the drum of the ear and so setting it in vibration. Each sound wave consists of two portions, in one of which the air is compressed beyond and in the other rarefied below the average pressure. If two sound waves are traveling in the same direction, but one of them starts half a wave length behind the other, the compressed half of one will fall upon the rarefied half of the other, the average air pressure will remain undisturbed, and the two sounds will combine to produce silence. If a sounding tuning fork be slowly rotated near the ear four positions will be found in which the sound will be barely audible. This is due to such interference of sound waves as has been described.

How to Cut Glass.

Glass can be cut without a diamond, and the way is very simple. Dip a piece of common string in alcohol and squeeze it reasonably dry. Then tie the string tightly around the glass on the line of cutting. Touch a match to the string and let it burn off. The heat of the burning string will weaken the glass in this particular place. While it is hot plunge the glass under water, letting the arm go under well to the elbow, so there will be no vibration when the glass is struck. With the free hand strike the glass outside the line of cutting, giving a quick, sharp stroke with any long flat instrument, such as a stick of wood or a long bladed knife, and the cut will be clean and straight as if made by a regular glass cutter.

You may be just as skeptical and pessimistic as you please. Kodol will digest what you eat whether you eat or not. You can put your food in a bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure on it and it will digest it the same as it will in your stomach. It can't help out cure indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is curing hundreds and thousands—some had faith and some didn't. Sold by All Druggists.

Napoleon Before the Convention. When Barras introduced Napoleon to the convention as a fit man to be entrusted with the command the president asked:

"Are you willing to undertake the defense of the convention?" "Yes," was the reply. After a time the president continued: "Are you aware of the magnitude of the undertaking?" "Perfectly," replied Napoleon, fixing his eyes upon his questioner, "and I am in the habit of accomplishing that which I undertake."

"TORICOID GLASSES" are spectacle and eye-glass lenses ground in a peculiar manner, so as to give a much larger, clearer field of vision than any other glasses and a sense of freedom and comfort to the wearer that no other glasses afford, and which can be appreciated only by those who have tried them. They are, without question, the most scientifically constructed glasses that have ever been made; and when made into BIFOCALS (near-sighted and far-sighted glasses combined) can be worn with as much comfort as single-lens glasses. This cannot truthfully be said of any other form of Bifocal Glasses. "TORICOID GLASSES" are made only by T. J. Howe & Co., Louisville, Ky., and are sold by them and their authorized agents under a positive guarantee that if they do not give satisfaction in every way they may be returned, and the money paid for them will be refunded. If you have any trouble with your eyes, or if your glasses have not given you perfect comfort and satisfaction in every way, write to us about "TORICOID GLASSES"—mentioning this paper.
