

WILSON'S SPEECH HIGHLY PRAISED

tion of the real issues upon which the campaign will be fought this fall. I think that it is bound to strengthen Governor Wilson among the thinking people of the country."

Will Ring Through the Country.

Governor George W. Donaghey, Arkansas.—"It was a great speech. It will ring through the country. It is just what he should have said. The people have never felt more confident of success since the first nomination of Grover Cleveland."

Iowa For Wilson.

Judge Martin J. Wade, Iowa.—"For the first time since the state was admitted to the Union Iowa will this year give its electoral vote to the Democratic nominee for president."

Jeffersonian to the Core.

John A. Dix, Governor of New York.—"Governor Wilson's speech of acceptance is marked with broad vision and clear thought, expressed in language every American can understand. As a business man and manufacturer, I am especially pleased with his positive and statesmanlike position on the paramount issue of tariff reform and his demand for an immediate downward revision. In sincerity, precise statement and comprehensive grasp of great principles and their application of the fundamental needs of the country the speech is Jeffersonian to the core. It contains no appeal to passion and excites no prejudice. Governor Wilson has presented to his party and to the nation clear conception of the truth that the real struggle in the pending campaign is between the concentrated powers of privilege and the aspiration of the American people to realize in their government and their economic industrial and social relations the full measures of the principles of freedom, justice and progress, upon which the republic was founded. To all the issues and every national need Governor Wilson applies the rule of right and common advantage." The reforms he advocates are far-reaching, but they are necessary, sound and practical. The speech will awaken and stir the national conscience and lead to a triumph that will restore to the people the control of their government and inaugurate a new and happier epoch in the life and development of the republic."

LABOR AND THE RULE OF RIGHT.

The working people of America—if they must be distinguished from the minority that constitutes the rest of it—are, of course, the backbone of the nation. No law that safeguards their life, that improves the physical and moral conditions under which they live, that makes their hours of labor rational and tolerable, that gives them freedom to act in their own interest and that protects them where they cannot protect themselves can properly be regarded as class legislation or as anything but as a measure taken in the interest of the whole people, whose partnership in right action we are trying to establish and make real and practical. It is in this spirit that we shall act if we are genuine spokesmen of the whole country.—From Woodrow Wilson's Speech Accepting the Democratic Nomination.

between the concentrated powers of privilege and the aspiration of the American people to realize in their government and their economic industrial and social relations the full measures of the principles of freedom, justice and progress, upon which the republic was founded. To all the issues and every national need Governor Wilson applies the rule of right and common advantage." The reforms he advocates are far-reaching, but they are necessary, sound and practical. The speech will awaken and stir the national conscience and lead to a triumph that will restore to the people the control of their government and inaugurate a new and happier epoch in the life and development of the republic."

Worthy Leader of Progressive Americans.

Louis D. Brandeis, Boston.—"Governor Wilson's speech of acceptance is the utterance of a twentieth century statesman. With keen perception he recognizes the evils from which the people are suffering and the dangers which threaten our welfare. With broad vision he points the way by which those evils may be removed and the dangers averted. He proves his understanding alike of business and of social needs and that he is a Democrat in fact as well as in name, and his courage is undoubted. Progressive Americans have in him a worthy leader."

Equable and Moderate.

New York Sun.—"Governor Wilson's speech of acceptance has good luck as well as merit. It comes just in time to contrast sharply with the infernal bedlamite rant of Th. Deontatus Africanus Ferox. And, if with out contempt of campus it may be said, though written by a college president very recently retired, it is in the English language, not anemic and seldom with suspicion of priggishness or donnishness, though it has an air of a certain academic distinction of its own. What will please everybody who has a living to make is Governor Wilson's equable and moderate tone. Governor Wilson is for repair, not for destruction."

Partnership of the People.

New York Times.—"It is applicable. The dominant thought, the very soul of his discourse, is the common interest of all the people, their partnership in our activities and our prosperity. The partnership idea comes from his mind not as a sublimated political theory, but as a practical, immediate remedy."

Straight to the Heart.

New York World.—"Woodrow Wilson's speech of acceptance is the ablest, clearest, sanest statement of high public purpose this country has known in a generation. Without passion, without invective, without abuse, without partisan bitterness, without denunciation, without egotism, without demagoguery, he has driven straight to the heart of the supreme issue of American institutions—the partnership between government and privilege."

STRIKING SENTENCES FROM THE SPEECH OF GOV. WILSON

We must speak, not to catch votes, but to satisfy the thought and conscience of a people deeply stirred by the conviction that they have come to a critical turning point in their moral and political development.

Plainly it is a new age. It requires self-restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little.

The forces of the nation are asserting themselves against every form of special privilege and private control, and are seeking bigger things than they have ever heretofore achieved.

Our common affairs have been determined upon too narrow a view, and by too private an initiative. Our task now is to effect a great readjustment and get the forces of the whole people once more into play.

The tariff question, as dealt with in our time at any rate, has not been business. It has been politics.

The so-called labor question is a question only because we have not yet found the rule of right in adjusting the interests of labor and capital. Here, again, the sense of universal partnership must come into play.

The high cost of living is arranged by private understanding.

We used to be better off with less, because a dollar could buy so much more.

With regard to the development of greater and more numerous waterways and the building up of a merchant marine, we must follow great constructive lines and not fall back upon the cheap device of bounties and subsidies.

The following Smallpox claims were presented to the court, and the court being advised, it was moved and seconded that all claims that were properly itemized and O.
