The Breckenridge News,

published weekly at Cloverport, Ky., for April 1, 1916.
State of Kentucky,
County of Breckenridge,

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared John D. Babbage, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor and Owner of The Breckenridge News, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are: Publisher, John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.; Editor, John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.; Managing Editor, John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.; Business Manager, John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individuals, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning 1 per cent. or more of the total amount of stock.) John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent. or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

John D. Babbage.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 31st day of March, 1916.

V. G. Babbage, Notary Public.

My commission expires January 13, 1918.

TO WAR AND YOUR TOOTH BRUSH.

The humble tooth brush will become a luxury if the European war continues another year. Unless peace is declared soon, fifty cents or even one dollar apiece may become the price of the handsome tooth brush that has been selling for twenty or thirty-five cents. The brush towns of France have been desolated by the German army. They are in the valley of the Oise. In those towns are the factories for sorting and bleaching the bristles, piercing the bone handles and preparing them for the peasants to fill with bristles. It is in the valley of the Oise, too, that the peasants, who fasten the bristles in our hand made tooth brushes, live. All through that valley the red tiled stone cottages of the peasants sheltered girls and old women who made tooth brushes during every spare minute of the day. Twelve cents a dozen was the price paid for the work when the American importers went into the toothbrush business in France.

The price of good bristles has doubled and trebled since the European war broke out. All tooth brush bristles come from Russia and China. Every hog that is slaughtered for food is carefully shorn of its bristles. The bristles are seven or eight inches long, and very thick at the base. Inferior bristles used in Japanese brushes come from China where the winters are not so cold and the bristles do not grow so stiff.

Since fighting began in Europe the Russian people have been too poor to eat meat. And there is no time to save the bristles from hogs killed to feed the soldiers. Good bristles cost ten dollars a pound now, and they will go still higher.—Youth's Companion.

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL.

"Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined," wrote Poe many years ago and the adage still holds true. All parents want their children to grow up to be good men and women and they realize that a regular attendance at Sunday school during the time that their young lives are susceptible to the influence of others, will tend to upright and honorable living in later years.

May 7 has been designated by the Kentucky Sunday School Association as Go-to-Sunday School Day and will be observed by all denominations, and churches all over the State which are making preparations for it.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. L. Reid and Conrad Sippel, have been appointed in this city to secure as many in the Sunday schools on that day as possible. The motto for the State of Kentucky is: "One Million in the Sunday Schools." The million mark was reached last year and will be reached again or extended this year.

Cloverport's aim is to have one thousand in the Sunday school that day and could easily be obtained if the day is "talked up" and a little interest shown by more Sunday school workers, "in working it up." This work should not be left to one person, as it is a general movement designed to help everybody and in which everybody can help.

CHEAPER GASOLINE.

The prevailing high prices of gasoline have made possible the adoption of a plan for the extraction of gasoline from dry natural gas, known as the "casing head" process, which has been known for some time, but which hitherto has been too expensive to operate profitably. The Columbia Gas and Electric Company has announced in its annual report plans for the construction of five plants to carry out this process, three of which are already under way.

In the new process the ordinary dry natural gas is liquefied under pressure to permit the extraction of the gasoline and then turned to its regular uses, little effected in either quantity or quality, according to the statements of those who know the process. The result, it is said, is an exceptionally volatile grade of gasoline which is particularly valuable for automobile fuel. The yield usually runs about five gallons to every 1,000 cubic feet of gas.

The Democratic State Central Committee met in Louisville last week and named Lexington as the place and Wednesday, May 24, time for holding the Democratic State Convention to select delegates to the National Convention. County Mass Conventions will be held Saturday, May 20.

Representatives: "I know we will want to be absolutely fair to the railroads," and being fair to the railroads is what every fair minded man in the country wants.

The Stanley-James machine seems to have things going their way. They ordered Beckham back to Washington and give Woodson his walking papers. This is harmony with a big stick.

Work is the foundation of all business, the fount of all prosperity. It has laid the foundation of every fortune in America. It must be loved before it bestows its blessings.

Things are looking mighty good on the farms of Breckenridge county.

About the dearest thing in this county now is politics.

This is go-to-meeting week in Cloverport.

Democratic Times In State of Colorado.

Dear Mr. Babbage: How are times now in old Kentucky? They are Democratic here in Colorado and you know what that means. But we people here are like what I heard Mr. Ludwell Adkisson say at a log rolling at Tom Basham's once. He said, "he always began to enjoy his smoke by the time he was half done eating." That is the way we are exactly. We have been enjoying our prosperity that we are going to have after March 4, 1917, ever since this Democratic administration has been half done. So please find one dollar for which please send The Breckenridge News for one year. I want to read the good news in your paper next November. Yours truly, Pete Robbins, Rocky Ford, Cal.

Churches Gain 653,000 in 1915

The churches of the United States did not, after all, gain so many new members during the year 1915, as during the year previous. In 1914 they gained 782,000. In 1915 they gained only 653. The figures are compiled from the best available sources by the Federal Council of Churches in America.—Elizabethtown News

Planting Corn.

Robert French is planting 100 acres of corn on his farm near Ammons. Henry Dutschke has already planted 40 acres.

Dairy and Stock Farm.

The McQuady Dairy Farm is feeding 100 head of hogs, 25 head of cattle, and have 12 head of mares and colts. They are milking nine cows and shipping 25 gallons of cream every week. They expect to double this output in a short time. They sold recently 22 head of hogs 8 months old, 170 pounds average, at 10 cents. The company is farming and dairying along scientific lines and doing a prosperous business. They have 220 acres under cultivation.

A Mild Protest.

"Breddern and sisters," said Parson Absalom Jonsing, as he surveyed the scant covering of the bottom of the contribution basket with no show of enthusiasm "Ah wouldn't say a wuhd to 'sinuate that anyone of yoh was stingy, but Ah has got to admit that yoh all is mighty thrifty, tryin' to get to for about one ten-billionth of a cent a mile.

Hogs Show Big Gain.

Franklin, Ky.—John Hatter, a Simpson county farmer, purchased six shoats which averaged 80 pounds each and began feeding them on balanced rations consisting of corn, wheat middlings and tankage. At the expiration of sixty days, the time limit for the experiment, the hogs were placed on the scales and weighed 1,045 pounds, a net gain of 566 pounds. The actual cost of the feed was $21.55.

FUNERALS BY AEROPLANE MAY BE ATTEMPTED SOON

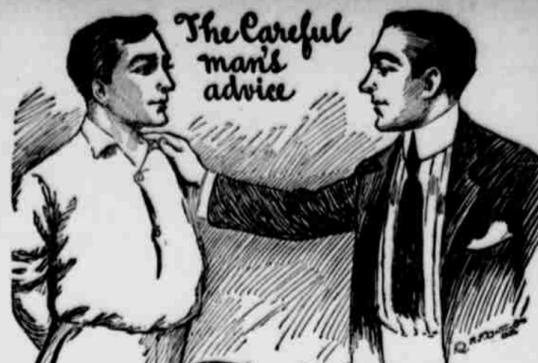

Biplanes to Take Place of Hearses if Plans of Undertaker Materialize.

Funerals in the air are to be the next innovation to which the aeroplane is to be turned. To be in style one must make arrangements to have the mortal remains carried on a swift and somber hued biplane to the final resting place, and the first aerial cortege will probably be seen in New York within a comparatively short time.

So announced the head of a funeral company, at a dinner of the Aeronautical Society of America the other evening. He added that he intended to be the first to cater to the coming demand, and his new establishment is to be fitted with a landing stage for air craft on the roof and all conveniences for mourners who wish to make the trip.

"They laughed when we first talked of motor funerals to supersede the old hearses," he said, "and they may laugh at this. But it's coming, and I'm going to be the first in the new line."

A. Leo Stevens, the dirigible aviator, is working on the plan, and arrangements are being made with an aeroplane construction company for the services of several weight carrying machines until the company can furnish a fottilla of its own. Frederick W. Barker, president of the society, endorsed the plan by remarking that "it was another of the revolutionary plans for utilizing the aeroplane that, while starting, should be perfectly feasible."
