He said three plans for a bridge over Clover Creek had been submitted but on account of the depth of the foundation the government wouldn't approve the first two plans, but the third one has been approved. BRIEF LOCAL ITEMS

The city of Cloverport had a regular fall house cleaning last week. Cart load after cart load of rubbish was carried off by local teamsters and used for filling up sink holes on the river banks. So eager were the teamsters to get everything out of the way that they hauled off a pile of cinders which a resident on the Hill had just purchased for building a walk and had the pile near his front pavement.

The vacant lots about town were rid of the underbrush, and considerable amount of good work was accomplished by the city council.

During the past week many visitors been attracted to the homes of Mr. Leon McGavock and Misses Eva and Eliza May to see the night-blooming Cereus plants in all their glory. Each of the plants had ten and twelve flowers on them and they were marvelous in their perfectness and fragrance.

He is blessed with good health and does not mind any kind of weather hence he has hardly missed a day from his work. His son, Roscoe, is taking his place.

Rev. Father J. F. Knue, of McQuady, Mr. Jas. Dean, of Glen Dean, Moorman Ditto and A. T. Beard, of Hardinsburg, were noted among the visitors from over the county who attended the M. W. A. picnic, Saturday.

Saturday, Cloverport was the scene for another barbecue, the first one since the days of the celebrated Masonic barbecues and those given by the St. Rose church, which has been about five years ago. This year members of the local order of the Modern Woodman of America gave their initial barbecue, and while the crowd didn't equal the ones of previous barbecues, it was estimated that there were from fifteen hundred to two thousand people here.

There were visitors from all sections of the county, and from parts of Hancock, Meade and adjoining counties, who made it a home-coming event.

Local members of the M. W. A. were the Committeemen in charge of the affair of the day, and the festivities begun about the noon hour when the barbecued dinner was served and continued throughout the afternoon and long into the late evening. Arnold's Military band was on the grounds furnishing the music for the dance pavillion which was the popular resort for the younger folks.

Along about 5:30 the last chance was sold, the box where the lucky number was to be drawn from, was thoroughly shaken, and little Miss Eleanor Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Martin, this city, was blindfolded and drew the number 994. The one holding the duplicate number was James Thomas Frank, of Holt. He had bought the ticket late that afternoon.

FREEZING FRUIT LATEST METHOD OF PRESERVATION FOR WINTER USE.

That the utilization of freezing storage for the preservation of berries, other small fruits, and tomatoes could be profitably extended is the belief of specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Many ice cream manufacturers and canners would be benefited by adopting practicable methods of holding purposes, say the specialists.

It is pointed out that the preservation of fruits by freezing is cheaper than canning them, especially when tin containers are scarce and costly as at present; and that the frozen fruit, held at the proper temperatures, has a more natural flavor than canned or dried fruit. The experimenters found fruit preserved by freezing to be fully as satisfactory as fresh fruit and superior to canned or dried fruit for use in making ice creams and sherbets, and for cooking into pies, preserves, jellies and other desserts and confections. The frozen fruits after thawing are not well suited for eating alone in a raw state, but are considered very palatable when eaten before they have completely thawed. When used as ingredients for desserts and confections best results will be obtained if they are combined before they are free from ice.
