SAM'L CASHMAN IS FOUND DEAD

Former Breckinridge County Man Dies in Kokomo, Ind. Wins High Tribute.

Samuel Cashman, aged 62 years, 926 East Monroe street, father-in-law of Clarence Hunt, manager of the Thalman & Levi store, was found dead this morning at 6:30 o'clock, by Paul Gattis, window trimmer lying in front of the hosiery counter, where he had fallen after being fatally stricken with apoplexy while on his rounds of the store as night watchman. Mr. Cashman was last seen by Mr. Gattis Friday night at 11 o'clock, as Mr. Gattis was leaving the store. The men were joking each other, and Mr. Cashman volunteered the remark that he would while away some of the tedious hours by sacking up 200 pounds of sugar some of which he did sack.

Mr. Gattis remarked to the aged watchman that he would be down early this morning as he was preparing a display for the company's booth at the industrial exposition. Mr. Cashman observed that he would not be on hands to give him entrance to the store, and would not let him in if he came. When Mr. Gattis appeared at the store this morning as he had promised and sought entrance he was unable to get the attention of the watchman. At first Mr. Gattis thought that the aged man was carrying out his threat, but repeated hammering upon the door of the East Walnut street entrance failed to elicit any response from Mr. Cashman. It was then that Mr. Gattis made investigation to see if he could discover why Mr. Cashman was not at the entrance. Mr. Gattis' startled eyes beheld the aged man lying prone upon the floor and it was evident at once that the watchman was either sick or dead which could not at the moment be determined.

Mr. Hunt was at once notified and came to the scene, opening the door and finding Mr. Cashman dead, notified Smith & Hoff, undertakers, who removed the body.

A. E. Wolf, department manager, paid high tribute to Mr. Cashman's worth as an employe of the establishment. He said, "The company never had a more faithful employe. He was pure gold. There are mighty few like him."

While the funeral arrangements have not been perfected in detail the funeral and burial will be held Monday morning.

Mr. Cashman was a native of Breckinridge county, Ky., and came from that locality to Alexandria. He came to this city from Alexandria more than eight years ago. During his residence in this city he was employed by the Thalman & Levi company.

The surviving members of the family are the widow, two sons and three daughters as follows:

Clarence Cashman, of Morgantown, Virginia; Geyer Cashman, of Toledo; Mrs. Clarence Cashman who resides at home; and Mrs. John Irvin, of Anderson.—Kokomo Daily Tribune, Kokomo, Ind.

LIGHT PLANT SUPPLIED WITH COAL

Resort to Country Mined Coal Company Paying $6.50 a Ton Having Perilous Times.

The coal situation at the Cloverport Light and Ice Company has been improved in the last few days. The company has been supplied with coal from the country coal mines about here which enabled them to furnish day and night current since Friday.

The latest reports from the miners strike in the Western Kentucky district is to the effect that the miners at the Jennings coal mine have gone to work, and a settlement with the Baskett and Southerland Mines is near at hand.

When the Cloverport Light and Ice Company put in its light plant about ten years ago, the company paid 85c a ton for coal. Today they are paying $6.50 a ton aside from the freight and the extra expense of telephone messages, etc., which it takes in order to get coal at all. The company's expenses have increased to such an extent that, in conformity with a statement made by one of the directors, the light plant will be compelled to increase its rates and unless it is supported by its patrons, the plant will likely be forced to close until conditions improve. A meeting of the directors will be held this week to determine upon a plan for increasing the resources to equal the expense.

GINGHAM DROPPED 20 PER CENT

Fancy Dress Gingham at 35c Are Quoted at 27 1-2 Cents. Quotations Received in Louisville.

Louisville, Sept. 19. (Special)—Gingham aprons and dresses soon will be de trop in the kitchen once more and silk will resume its place in the drawing room.

Gingham goods dropped 20 per cent in price reports made by Louisville wholesale dry goods houses Saturday. Quotations were received from the mill Friday night and became effective Saturday morning.

Fancy dress gingham, which sold on Friday at 35 cents a yard, were quoted at 27 1/2 cents Saturday. Amoskeag staples, from which blue gingham aprons are made, dropped from 27 1/2 to 22 cents a yard at the same time. Brown domestics showed a decline of 3 and 4 cents a yard, now ranging in price from 16 to 22 cents a yard, according to grade.

There were no price changes quoted at any time during the week on calicoes and sheetings, but all indications point to a similar drop in every line of staple dry goods, following the lead set by the Amoskeag factories Friday.

It is the general belief among wholesale dry goods merchants here that the gingham prices now established will hold through the spring of 1921, with other staples inclining to follow a similar course, stabilizing around a level of 15 to 20 per cent below that now prevailing.

In explanation of the drop, merchants say it is the "natural thing". It is agreed that it was not caused by any attempt by any mills at price cutting. The dry goods market, it is pointed out, again is finding itself within the limitations of the law of supply and demand, with the demand side in control for the first time in two or three years. European mills are at work, supplying much of their own needs as well as returning to the South American markets, where dealers from the United States have held undisputed sway since the early days of the war.
