PRODUCES COTTON IN COLORS

Southerner Has Succeeded in Growing Green and Brown and is Experimenting on Black.

A. W. Brabham has submitted to the Cotton exchange of Savannah four samples of colored cotton—light brown, dark brown, light green and dark green. They are the results of years of experimentation. Mr. Brabham says that other colors will appear when a number of cotton plants in his garden that are not yet fully grown begin to bear.

The botanist has not yet been able to produce black cotton, but he says he will do so in time. It would have appeared this year, he contends, if a package of the seeds of a blue-tinted cotton, mailed to him by a botanist in Delhi, India, had not gone astray. Mr. Brabham has sent for another package of these seeds, and he is convinced that if he crosses them with certain of the cottons he has already grown the result will be black.

Luther Burbank once told Mr. Brabham that he would produce black cotton for a million dollars. Mr. Brabham replied that he thought he could do it more cheaply, and thereupon started his experiments.

NAVY BLUE

Say, pal I saw you sneer at me just now.

Don't I look good to you? I'm not quite in your class, but what? For being in "Navy Blue."

You think that I'm not good enough For such a guy as you, Well men who wouldn't take your hand Have worn the "Navy Blue."

You bar us from your theatres, And from your dances, too; There's room enough to spare for all But not for the men in "Blue."

Take this from me, men who serve Their flag are strong and true, Stout-hearted, loyal, ready and brave, Not weaklings such as you.

I'm proud to wear this uniform, My ancestors wore it too, And did their bit with Farrogut Way back in "Sixty-Two."

I know I'm not a fashion plate, That's not in my line that's true, But listen pal, it takes a man— To wear the "Navy Blue."

So when you meet a Sailor, I'd mind, if I were you, That God didn't make you better, Than the man in "Navy Blue."

The above poem was contributed to The Breckenridge News by a Cloverport boy, Bernard Teaff, who has been in the Navy six months. Up until Tuesday, Nov. 23, he had been in the Naval Training Station, but on that day he set sail for Japan and China for duty. Mr. Teaff added in his letter that when he landed in the Asiatic fleet his friends in and around Cloverport would hear from him again through the News.

MY KENTUCKY

Where the sweat-brier blooms beside the way Where the humming bee drones through the day, Where summers come and longest stay— That's my Kentucky.

Where the whippoorwill throbs out its song On the old ash-pit the summer long, Where childhood memories thickly throng— That's my Kentucky.

Where fleecy clouds float in the sky, Where cooling springs are never dry, Where mint and willows never die— That's my Kentucky.

Where autumn turns the woods to gold, Where winters are short with little cold, Where spring-time beauties can't be told— That's my Kentucky.

Where the race horse hits its fastest gait, Where the swiftest ball goes o'er the plate Game cocks gamut up to date— That's my Kentucky.

Where fox-hounds bay in the hazy night, Where men don't quarrel but sometimes fight, Where hospitality sees its height— That's my Kentucky.

Where women are held in high esteem, Where lovers stroll by the quiet stream, Where romance dreams its fairest dream— That's my Kentucky.

Where people are friendliest ever met, Where strangers go without regret, Where some men leave but none forget— That's my Kentucky.

—Sam Diggs.

STATE EDITORS TO MEET DEC. 29

Program Announced For Mid-Winter Meeting of Ky. Press Association.

Louisville again was selected for the mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky Press Association, December 29-31, at a meeting of the officers of the association at The Seelbach, Saturday afternoon. The programme of the meeting as now arranged, will be:

Invocation by the Rev. Dr. Russell J. Pirkey, Broadway Baptist Church; address of welcome by George E. Allen, Louisville Convention and Publicity League; response by B. B. Cozine, Shelbyville; a discussion of the newspaper situation by a representative of the Warren Paper Company, Boston, will follow.

Paul A. Plaschke, of the Louisville Times and Grover Page of The Courier-Journal will entertain the visitors with cartoons.

A theatre party will be given by the Convention and Publicity League in the evening.

The second days meeting will be called to order at 10 o'clock in the morning. M. B. Lowman will talk on "Advertising." W. T. Hughes, vice-president of the Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times Company, will address the association on "The Child Labor Law." His address will be followed by a discussion of the law by B. F. Forgey, Ashland.

The members of the association will be entertained at luncheon in The Courier-Journal and Louisville Times building as guests of Judge Robert W. Bingham.

"The Good Roads Question" will be the subject of an address by Lieut. Gov. S. Thurston Ballard at the afternoon session. H. A. Sommers, Elizabethtown, will talk on "The Editorial Page."

MY SHEPHERD—The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.—Psalm 23: 1 and 6.

FEAR THOU NOT, for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isaiah 41: 10.

A GREAT REWARD—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness. II Tim. 4: 7
