STATE SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce Dr. A. D. JAMES, of Muhlenberg county, as a candidate for State Senator in the 8th Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

REPRESENTATIVE.

We are authorized to announce Esq. W. L. ROWE, of Centertown, as a candidate to represent Ohio county in the Lower House of the next General Assembly, subject to the action of the Republican party.

EX-PRESIDENT Harrison has retired from the practice of law after a long and most successful and honorable career in that profession.

So far every county in the State which has held its convention has instructed for Bradley save the Little county of Robertson, which has a candidate for Lieut. Governor. Already more than 800 delegates are instructed for Bradley, more than enough to nominate him on the first ballot.

The recent cold snap was pretty general over the country and the damage done to crops will amount to millions. Ice an inch thick is reported from some of the eastern counties of this State, and the fall of temperature from New York to the Mississippi was such as to do immense damage.

SECRETARY Carlisle will come to Kentucky and sound the keynote of the Administration on the currency question, which is at present dividing the Democratic party. Mr. Carlisle stands firmly for sound money. He has made appointments to Louisville, Bowling Green, Lexington and other points.

The otherwise quiet and unknown country of Ecuador is just now being advertised as containing a two-by-four revolution. When things in these Central and South American States begin to grow quiet and thus monotonous some enterprising revolutionists get a handful of men together and they proceed to revolt.

REV. W. H. CHILDERS, of Sardis, Ky., has been engaged to deliver the Oration here on Decoration Day. He was Chaplain of the—Ky., during the war and is Ex-Chaplain of the Department of Ky. G. A. R. Rev. Childers is an able man and he should have a large crowd to hear him.

THE Hon. Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan, one of President Cleveland's most intimate political friends, in a speech at Detroit last Thursday night sounded a patriotic note of warning to Americans regarding the attitude of Great Britain and advised liberal improvements in our Navy, coast defenders and the standing army. The speaker called attention to the fact that very recently Great Britain had completed on the island of St. Lucia in the West Indies one of the strongest fortresses in the world and had also strengthened the fortress of Nassau. He says that the indications are that war is not yet at an end and that the United States owes it to herself and people to increase her military preparations.

TO-MORROW is the convention.

JUNE 17th is the day set apart for the proposed vote on the saloon question—just a month off.

COME out to-morrow and assist in nominating the State ticket that will be elected in November.

UNCLE Sam will soon get a bump on himself in building the Rough River Locks and eighteen months or less will find Hartford with steamers at her wharf. And then, go 'way, railroads.

JACK Frost made a raid on the vegetable kingdom Monday night and in consequence many a row of beans and other member of the kingdom turned its toes to the daisies.

CIRCUIT Court convenes next Monday and with it the Grand Jury. The gentlemen composing this body will have the moral support of all good people in their efforts to crush out the selling of liquor in the county.

THE national game in Ohio county seems to be just about as dead this season as the proverbial last year's bird's nest. So far there has scarcely been a game played in the county and very few teams are making headway in organizing. This state of affairs is hailed by some as a great and abundant blessing and by others as just as great a calamity—depends a great deal upon how you look at it.

THE latest sensation in the gubernatorial race is the announcement that Billy Breckinridge would be the Democratic nominee instead of either Hardin or Clay. Heretofore the Democracy's plight has been a dilemma, for with either Hardin or Clay as their candidate they are beaten beyond serious question. To add Breckinridge merely changes the situation from a dilemma to a trilemma, for neither of them can be elected Governor of this great Commonwealth over Billy Bradley.

YOUNG Shipp was acquitted at Lexington last week for the killing of the negro Brown in that city some time ago. Shipp, who was a young white man from Midway had debauched Brown's wife and on the night of the killing went to Brown's house to meet the latter's wife, and when Brown objected to his insults, Shipp killed him in his own house. In what striking contrast was the decision of this jury with public sentiment in the Gordon-Brown case. In the latter the wronged husband avenged the dishonor of his home and before the bar of public opinion stands justified. In the former the wronged husband is shot down in his own house by the despoiler of that home and the jury justifies the despoiler. The Kentucky Leader, the leading paper of Lexington, commenting upon this unjust verdict says editorially:

"The Leader's denunciation of the acquittal of Shipp is universally commended, and a score of approving messages were received last evening from all classes of citizens. We have never before heard a verdict so universally denounced, and it is possible that the startling miscarriage of justice in this case may arouse a healthier public sentiment as to the value of human life and the punishment of him who takes it under any guise or pretense.

"The most notable and encouraging phase of the aftermath of the Shipp trial is the unanimity with which the white people of Lexington condemn the verdict, although it acquitted a white man of the murder of a negro. The universal expression of disapproval is the strongest proof that the good people of Lexington want to see the law vindicated without regard to color or social condition."

THE Democratic Convention of the First Railroad District met at Owensboro Wednesday and at once went wild on the finance question. The Free Silver and Sound Money men are having a big fight, and no news of the nomination had been received at time of going to press. Dempsey seems to have the advantage but a combination may defeat him.

ALL this hub and cry in Kentucky about the financial question is not alone to shield the Democracy from the responsibility of its miserable failure in the administration of national affairs. Its object farther than that, is to divert the minds of the people away from State affairs and the woful mismanagement which has characterized Democratic supremacy at Frankfort. What the people of Kentucky are now most interested in is the determining which party is most worthy of their confidence in the control of State affairs.

THE Kentucky Educational Association meets at Lexington Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 1, 2 and 3. The committee has published a very interesting program for the occasion and Ohio county talent is liberally recognized. Beside Prof. McHenry Rhoads, who is President, and whom Ohio county claims as one of her favorite sons, County Supt. Shultz is appointed, with others, to discuss the question "Is Teaching a Profession?" Miss Maggie D Williams has been assigned as the subject of an address—"Woman as an Educator," and Prof. J. D. Coleman is appointed, with others, to discuss the question, "How to Grow a School." Our neighboring Superintendents, W. W. Lewis, of Muhlenberg; J. W. Mastio, of Hawesville, and J. R. Ashlock, of Hardin, are also assigned to places on the program. The meeting promises to be the most interesting in the history of the Association, and Ohio county should be well represented. Beside the benefit to be derived from the work of the Association the trip to the Blue Grass Capital will amply repay the expenditure. The railroads will give one fare for the round trip.

YOUNG man, how do you propose spending your vacation? This is a question that should appeal with force to every student. It may be that you have studied very hard during the five or ten months and you may persuade yourself that you will from June 1st to September 1st be entirely free from every care. You will throw every responsibility aside and indulge yourself in every whim and caprice. There is danger here. Rest, of course, but rest does not mean idleness. Have you studied the sciences until your mind feels sore and you want to unband and let the mind go untrammelled? Well, that's all right, but be careful. You can rest the mind best from one course of study, not by absolute idleness, but by changing your employment or the character of your study. Read some useful book during vacation along a different line of thought, from that you have pursued in school. It will do you good, too, if you will only now and then spend a half hour reviewing what you have gone over in school. You can in this way determine how much you have learned and how well you have learned it. By all means rest during vacation, but do not be idle.

A FREAK In Finance is Marion County's Democratic Candidate for Representative.

Spalding is his name and he was Nominated by the Committee.

LEBANON, KY., May 13, '95.
The matter of which I will write, the Legislative race in Marion county, is too remote from the greater number of your readers to be of much interest to them, only so far as it will deal with National issues. The manner, however, in which the Democratic candidate, Mr. C. C. Spalding, would solve the free silver coinage question, had he the power, is so unique, is so original and, at the same time so satisfactory, to himself, it can not fail to be of general interest everywhere.

His theory has been published in the Louisville Commercial, but as your esteemed weekly reaches many that the city daily does not I will give it for the benefit of your readers.

The Democracy of Marion, was unwilling to risk a primary election this time, their favorite method, for settling the claims of several aspirants to Legislative honors by the Democratic road, neither would they call a convention, but to eliminate many serious questions which now confront them, as conditions and not theories, and to avoid, within their own ranks, discussions of many things which they thought had better not be discussed between Democrats, the Democratic Committee for the county took the bit in their teeth, declared themselves sole arbiters of the whole matter and eliminating the desires, to whom on all former occasions they have bowed in the most obsequious manner, by virtue of the power and authority vested in them, which was never before claimed nor asserted, they declared the Hon. C. C. Spalding, a Spalding with a very large S, the regular nominee of the Democracy of Marion county to represent the county in the next Legislature. So now, he and the Committee, call him the nominee, while about two out of every three Democrats one meets will "wink the other eye" when nominee is mentioned.

On the evening of the day, on which he was so declared the nominee, he was approached by a gentleman on the street in Lebanon, and asked his position on the silver question. He said he was for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, declaring that the Government stamp on it gave it value, that anything bearing that stamp, even leather, would be good money, that there was no intrinsic value in money and only as the stamp and credit of the Government gave it value did it possess any. When asked what he would do with the silver from other countries that might be unloaded on us, he said coin it all, all that was brought to us. The silver from England coin and put England's stamp on it. From France coin it and place the stamp of France thereon; from Germany do likewise and so on down the whole line. Becoming, in short, the great international counterfeiter of the world. I will do Mr. Spalding the justice to state here that after these facts were published on him, in the Commercial, and he was advised by better informed friends that such silly stuff would not stand a moment with sensible people, he wrote an article to the Commercial denying having so expressed himself, but the Commercial's correspondent promptly proved it on him by a reputable gentleman, and a good Democrat, and Mr. Spalding now lets the matter rest.

Thus does the man who aspires to again represent this county in the Legislature propose to solve the financial problem. I say again, for he represented this county once before, yes in that long Legislature, during the weary and dreary sessions of which nearly every honest man, and woman too, for that matter, cried out in their soul, Oh! for a Cromwell to prorogue that body. He was elected to that Legislature without opposition in his own party, for the same reason he is declared, in the very peculiar manner we have noted, the nominee of his party now. He is a Spalding. Marion county was a Democratic county then, he had no opposition, from Republicans, they being not only afraid to tackle a Democrat against great odds, but particularly a Spalding. For a long time it has been considered useless to run against a Spalding in this county. There is always a few of them in some of the county offices. The family is a very large one in the county, and a very honorable one, and they are justly proud of the name for many good and honorable citizens have graced it. It has come, however, to be doubted if the name alone is now a talisman sufficient to insure success. An occasional one, who perhaps is not a familiar object within the more circumscribed and charmed circle of Spalding exclusiveness, or maybe who has taken a wife from beyond the plains wherein the true stock tabernacle, even from the plains of Moab, is some times defeated in this county, but it seldom occurs. Mr. C. C. Spalding, is however, from the choicest inner circle. He is the most exclusive of all the exclusiveness of Spalding exclusively. He stands on the top most round of the ledger lines of the staff. Napoleon "wrapped in the solitude of his own originality" was not more alone than is Mr. Spalding so far as being in touch with the common people is concerned.

Born with the proverbial silver spoon in his mouth, he has been reared in the lap of luxury and ease. Has been fenced around with comforts all his life and freed from all care. Has never required the effort of his hand, nor the exertion of his intellect, to aid in his own existence, add to his comfort, or enhance his pleasure. If he knows anything of his fellow men, outside a charmed circle, of their wants and needs, of their desires, hopes and fears, of the great industrial interests of his State or of the Nation, it is in theory only.

A vague, dreary, listless theory, in consonance with the Sybaritian life from his youth up he has led.

Why was one so far removed from the people selected to represent them? Too plain why. Running on his family's name. His family connection, his father's money. Mr. Spalding is a gentleman of good character, good habits, fair understanding, reasonably good education, personally unobjectionable, but there is not a man in Marion county who would think him available timber for the Legislature if he were not the son of Mr. Sam Spalding. That possibly makes him the strongest candidate they could have selected. My views on him, are like his on money. As a candidate, nothing intrinsic in him. It is the Spalding stamp that gives value to him as a candidate, as he believes the Government stamp will give value to money.

It will remain to be seen if the people want that kind of a man, that kind of an influence, to represent them. His idea on silver is about as good as any he may have on current affairs.

The Republican committee for Marion county has ordered a convention to be held in Lebanon the first Monday in August to nominate a candidate for the Legislature. After that the fun will commence, as the Republicans have determined on an aggressive campaign. They fully expect Hon. John W. Lewis to be chosen U. S. Senator by the next Legislature and Marion county is anxious to have a representative who will vote for him.

On Saturday May the 4th the Republicans of Marion elected, by precincts, a new county committee which met in Lebanon, the following Monday, and organized, electing a chairman and secretary, of the committee. Capt. A. Offutt, the old Sherman bumper, as our friends the enemy would call him, but of whom we are proud to speak, as the gallant staff officer of Gen. E. H. Murray, on Sherman's grand march to the sea, was chosen chairman of the committee, Maj. L. M. Drye, who for so many years served the party faithfully in that capacity, by his own request having retired from it.

The most noticeable thing about the new committee was its membership. Three men, who just prior to last November election were three of the most prominent Democrats in the county, two of them being members of the Democratic county committee and one of them a Democratic judge of election at that election and now on our county committee. The delegation from Marion to the Republican State Convention will have in it six of the most prominent Democrats in the county, formerly Democrats, this being their first steps in the right direction. Who says Democracy is not fast playing out? C. J.

The Return of Prosperity.
Democratic contemporaries all over this nation are seizing with feverish grasp every bit of news that seem to indicate that prosperity is returning. Whenever a mill long closed is reopened, editorial praises of the Wilson bill is heard. If a concern raises wages that were formerly reduced the glories of the Wilson bill are resung. Democratic papers are to-day on a steady hunt for prosperity, and it must be admitted that they are finding it. The Times will admit that prosperity is returning. Business is slowly awakening.

But for prosperity to return, it first had to depart. When did it depart? That is the question which most interests the voter of to-day. The nation knows that when Benjamin Harrison left office there was no fear of this late collapse of industry. Mills were running on full or over time. No one spoke of reducing wages. No industries feared for their lives. When Grover Cleveland entered upon his second term he found a full treasury and a happy country. He found himself reinforced with a Democratic Congress that promised the nation untold wealth. The work was undertaken. The pall of Free-Trade fell upon the land. Mills began to close and employers to cut down wages. Had Free-Trade been the outcome of Democratic legislation there would not be even the light revival which business assumes to-day. There would have been no end to the panic of '93 and '94.

Since the Wilson bill went into effect the manufacturer who feared entire Free-Trade and took precautionary measures accordingly, has learned what to fear and has gone back to manufacturing, unless the cut in his tariff was so great that it allowed the entrance of foreign goods into deadly competition with the American goods. There have been many such industries. There has been no return of prosperity for them. They are dead.

There have been industries injured by the Wilson Tariff. By the McKinley Tariff not a machinery ceased to smoke, not a fire was banked. No plants were transferred to foreign shores in search of cheaper labor when the McKinley bill was passed.
