ANNOUNCEMENTS. For State Senator. We are authorized to announce HON. A. S. BENNETT as a candidate for State Senator from the seventh senatorial district, subject to the action of the Republican party.

At seventy years of age Uncle Joe Cannon will become Speaker of the House, a distinction Mrs. Cannon has enjoyed for well nigh fifty years.

Why not go a step farther here in Ohio county and abolish all civil and criminal laws, and substitute a new law for the better and more humane protection of lopp-eared pole cats?

If the sale of indulgences in Germany three centuries ago had excited no more popular resentment than the sale of indictments in Ohio county, Martin Luther would not have fathered a revolution.

Those who have observed the able, conscientious administration of justice by Judge Owen for the past twelve years, will regret to see him retire from the bench, and more especially so, because of the possible succession of the very incompetent Mr. Birkhead.

HERB KRUPP, the great German cannon-maker, has made an immense fortune on his inventions of heavy ordnance, but he has gone now, and, unfortunately, he could take neither cannon nor money with him.

As a Republican, we are well pleased to see the Democrats hold a primary election next year to nominate candidates for State offices, but as a citizen, whose birthday can occur but once a year, we regret to see the 3rd of May desecrated by a Democratic primary, which will make the Music Hall convention look like thirty cents.

If there is anybody in Kentucky who wants to kill anybody else in Kentucky and has conscientious scruples about being hung or going to the penitentiary, we advise him to allure his victim to Ohio county, do the job, get his certificate of good character and a chrono from the Ohio Circuit Court and go on his way rejoicing.

The Hartford Herald does Jailor Black a very great injustice, inadvertently, we suppose, this week, by insinuating that he confined female prisoners in the same cell with men. Commenting on the inadequacy of the jail, which is timely, it says there should be a separate department for women. In fact, Jailor Black has never, during his term of office, confined a female prisoner in a cell with men.

In this issue of THE REPUBLICAN will be found the announcement of Dr. A. D. Park, of Rockport, for the Republican nomination for Representative. Dr. Park is a well-known Republican whose merits, political and personal, deserve the highest praise and earnest consideration of the Republicans of Ohio county. If nominated, Dr. Park will make a successful race and will serve his county in the Lower House of the General Assembly with credit to himself and to his constituents.

The biggest gun in the world will be floated down the Hudson from the Watervliet arsenal and mounted for coast defense at Sandy Hook next month. It weighs 130 tons without its carriage. It will use 1,000 pounds of powder in sending a 2,370 pound shell 21 miles. It shows the highest development in the manufacture of weapons of modern warfare. What an immense stride from the rude club of primeval man!

seen too much of it. We regret the Herald could not take a higher view of this ominous evil than to twaddle about Republicans being a party to it. We took Catholic grounds in the matter, shifting not all the blame to the Democratic party. Our readers are not fools and we shall not try to fool them. They know that both parties in county, State and National elections collect and disburse corruption funds, that that party spends the most that is able to collect the most, and everybody but fools know it and everybody but knaves acknowledge it.

JINED THE DIMMYCRATS.

Mr. Thomas C. Park Changes From the Sublime to the Ridiculous.

"EDITOR HERALD: I think there is a stopping place. I have this to say about the Republican party: I now see that my belonging to the Republican party is a mistake. I have made all my life, so from this time on I will be a Democrat. If any one doesn't think me sincere, time will tell." THOMAS C. PARK.

"Nov. 25, 1902. Clear Run, Ky." Mr. Thomas C. Park, of the Clear Run country, has "joined the Dimmycrats," and he advertises the fact, as above, in the Hartford Herald. It is a very witty, as he announces his change in a very few words. He doesn't offer any reason for his change of political garments, but just says: "I'm gwine over and I'm in earnest about it."

We are not devoting this space to bewailing the loss of Mr. Park, however, we don't like to see a good boy go wrong, but we are just filling our mission of giving our readers the news. Young Park is a very nice boy, but he is not personally a man of such importance that the public would be deeply interested in his political whims, but the very fact of a Republican "joining the Dimmycrats" in Ohio county, is so unusual that it is really sensational.

We have never written a line bragging on ourself as a scooper, but we know our readers will credit us with what with scooping the Herald in this matter. That paper had the first word about this sensation, but said a raw wash about it editorially or otherwise. Except a fellow up about Batztown, Mr. Park is the first Republican in Ohio county to "jine the Dimmycrats" in for about twenty years. The Batztown fellow fell with a long letter, or Dr. Motherhead or Dr. Rattlehead, or whatever his name was he wrote it for him, setting forth his reasons for changing. Mr. Park don't give any reasons for jining, but contents himself by a public announcement that he has jined.

Perhaps Mr. Park's patriotism prompted him to recognize the danger of the country becoming politically anomalous, or maybe he "jined the Dimmycrats" out of unbounded sympathy for the under dog, but anyway, his jining is a bit of sensational news for which our readers should give us credit for reporting.

SAGE ADVICE. Trieler, Ky., Nov. 18, 1902. EDITOR REPUBLICAN: It seems to me that a long autumnal night, (until it is necessary to sink into the embrace of morpheus) cannot be better spent than in giving helpful advice to that honorable and honored class who are now busy in discharging the duties of their vocation. I refer to the teachers in our public schools.

Understand, however, that I do not claim to be able to advise as to the manner of conducting their schools, but an old enough, had experience enough as a teacher of "Ye Olden Time," and have given the subject sufficient thought to have some claims to being qualified to advise as to what to study—to some extent—to elevate our standard. I have in my intercourse with teachers, and others, having claims to scholarship, discharging a lamentable deficiency in literature, both ancient and modern.

To many it were as well that Eschylus or Shakespeare had not been born. I once asked a teacher, holding a first-class certificate, who was the first great epic poet of Ancient Greece and he answered Plato, he believed. I then asked him who wrote the Iliad and he answered he did not exactly remember, but believed it was Plato. I really thought he had Plato on the brain—a bad case of platitosis. And again I asked another who, however, held only a second-class certificate, who were, to the best of his recollection, the three most prominent philosophers of old Greece (pre-tending to ask for information) and he answered Demosthenes was one, he thought, and as to the others he had forgotten. I suggested that probably it was Socrates and Aristotle, and he in an uncertain way answered, he rather thought it was. I considered it best to let Plato rest this time and avoid Demosthenes, the great orator of antiquity, to stand as one of the trio of Great Philosophers of Greece.

Many teachers, too many, have neglected to inform themselves in modern, as well as ancient, literature. As rare Ben Johnson said, in substance, in his address to and from Shakespeare the Swan of Avon, as he calls him. "Poets are made as well as born," and to make such verses as that of his friend, the author "must sweat and take the second heat." To compose such a work as Hume's history of the rise and fall of the Roman Empire requires immense labor, and exhaustive investigation. In truth, a long array of English authors, poets, essayists, historians, &c., as well as our own American productions, no less interesting, loom up imitatingly, but are woefully neglected by the majority of our educators and scholars of every calling.

The more we read of Homer in his Iliad or Odyssey, the more we love him for his virtuous sentiments and admire his transcendent genius. One never tires of pouring over these masterly lines. And what of Socrates, the greatest philosopher of antiquity? Who can fail to be benefited by perusal of his philosophy when we find that our author was born, bred and resided in a country, believing in a plurality of Gods, the extinction of man in every form with death, and where virtue had no reward save in this life, yet, notwithstanding, he reasoned from Nature up to one Supreme being, the immortality of the soul, and the reward for a well spent life after death, and this without any aid from the sacred writings of the Jews? A perusal of his writings will strengthen our often waning faith in the grandest of all literary productions included in the Iliad of the Holy Bible, for if Socrates could, from Nature and strength of intellect, discover the true God and man's duty and relation to him, it must be true that God is, and a reward of the deeds done in the body, since the scriptures, with the superadded advent of The Babe of Bethlehem, since the day of the philosopher bears out his doctrine, and establishes its truth. I know that the last lines are rather a digression from the line I had marked out, but my earnestness on this subject must be my apology.

If I could, I would have every lover of learning, to profit by the God given genius and stupendous labors of those renowned authors and actors, who have so splendidly illuminated the pages of the world's progress in letters. It may be asked why I so earnestly insist on the study of literature, a something I have partially answered in the body of this writing, or what practical bearing will it have on the duties or success of life? All certainly must know the importance of understanding references to authors and works of bygone ages, and must know that some acquaintance with them is of great value in acquiring a thorough knowledge of our own language, and a correct estimate of our own literature. I do not in this connection dwell on the love of the beautiful, the thirst for knowledge that should spring up and dwell in every youthful breast. Surely the gems which sparkle in the casket of the "Iliad," "Odyssey," "Aeneid" and the "Merchant of Venice" ought to attract the gaze and call forth the admiration of every youth in our land. J. W. MEADOR.

Rev. Irl Hicks' 1903 Almanac. To say that this splendid work of science and art is finer and better than ever, is stating it mildly. The demand for it is far beyond all previous years. To say that such results, reaching through thirty years, are not based upon sound sense and exactness, is an insult to the intelligence of millions. Prof. Hicks, through this great Almanac, and his famous family and scientific journal, Word and Works, is doing a work for the whole people not approached by any other man or publication. A fair test will prove this to any reasonable person. Added to the most luminous course in astronomy for 1903 forecasts of storms and weather are given, as never before, for every day in the year, all charmingly illustrated with nearly two hundred engravings. The price of single Almanac, including postage and mailing, is thirty cents. Word and Works with the Almanac is $1.00 a year. Write to Word and Works Publishing Co., 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., and prove to yourself their great value.

A Liberal Offer. The undersigned will give a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to any one wanting a reliable remedy for disorders of the stomach, biliousness or constipation. This is a new remedy and a good one. All druggists.

WYMAN. Mr. Editor: Your timely warning in regard to political corruption in Kentucky, last week, was to the point, and should be regarded by all right thinking people. We have a large number of voters in McLean county who are easily influenced by money, strong drink, bad music or excitement. This vote is composed of both white and black. They will participate in a Republican convention and then vote for the Democratic nominee. They will hurrah for one candidate and vote for the other. They hold the balance of power and can elect or defeat any man they please. Many ignorant blacks suffered to be let out of town on last election day and kept drunk all day. Your remedy, to educate such creatures, is, indeed, an uphill business, from the fact they cannot and will not read, or even listen to sensible advice. I have thought that an educational pre-quisite might be required of each voter, with good results. Mrs. Sue Landrum, wife of Judge Ben F. Landrum, died at her home in Calhoun Sunday of typhoid fever. Mrs. Landrum was a most excellent lady and will be greatly missed by the people of Calhoun. She was the mother-in-law of Prof. Chas. H. Ellis, principal of Calhoun College.

DEMOCRATIC WAR

State Central Committee calls State Primary and is Enjoined.

The Final Act of Democratic Rascality that will Disrupt the Party and Assure Republican Ascendancy in Kentucky.

The Democratic State Central Committee met at Frankfort Tuesday and called State Primary Convention for May 3, 1903, to nominate candidates for State offices next year. Thirty minutes after the order was made, calling the State primary, a member of the committee, more fond of his party than of the Goebel element of it, filed a suit enjoining the holding of a State Primary election.

The petition in the injunction suit sets forth the facts that a State Primary election would cost $36,000 and that the State Central Committee had no authority to assess and collect from the candidates, for State offices, the money necessary to defray the expenses of the primary. The injunction suit was brought in tyrant Cantjill's court, and he being a rank Goebelite, will, of course, dismiss the injunction.

The Goebel element of the party has fixed a slate with Beckham at the head of it, and will put up the money for the primary and freeze out the poor Democratic candidates.

Twenty pounds of white "B" Sugar for $1 at the New Cash Grocery.

The Ball Opening. Rockport, Ky., EDITOR REPUBLICAN: Rockport has grown in prosperity to such an extent, during her latter days, that she, now, can announce two candidates for Representative of this county. Both are full-fledged Republicans, subject to the action of the Republican party.

The first of the two to make the announcement was Dr. A. D. Park, one of Rockport's best citizens, but formerly of Olaton. The doctor has made this place his home for the past two years, and has made many warm friends who will take pleasure in assisting him for the nomination at the general election.

Next comes the announcement of Mr. Geo. M. Maddox, who is too well known in this county, to require any newspaper reputation. He has been a life long Republican, and one that has always worked for the benefit of his party and fellow-citizens. J. R.

Grip's Grim Grasp Caused Heart Disease. Could Not Lie On Left Side.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve Cure Me. Mr. H. R. Lebe, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., writes from Eldridge, the same state, as follows:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Dr. Miles' Nerve and Heart Cure. I only wish that I could tell every sufferer how much good they have done me. Last winter I had a severe attack of La-Grippe, which left my heart in a very bad condition. I could not lie down for the smothering spells that would almost overcome me and the feeling of oppression about my heart. I had not long for the cure to lie on my left side as well as my right. Formerly I had suffered for years with nervous prostration. I had tried so many remedies that I had got clear out of heart of getting anything that would help me. The nerves of my heart were so affected that sometimes it would beat so it would seem to stop altogether. It was on the advice of a lady friend that I tried your Restorative Nerve. I felt better after the first few doses and two bottles of Nerve and one of Heart Cure made me feel like a new man. My heart is all right and my nervousness is all gone. I never fail to recommend it to others afflicted as I was." All druggists sell and guarantee first book Dr. Miles' Restorative. Send for free book on Nerve and Heart Disease.
