RACE WAR.

Frank Blaine's Throat Cut by Two Young Negro Men.

Whites Turn Out to Lynch Them But They Made Good Their Escape.

Stephensport, Ky., July 19.—A race trouble occurred here last night, which will end in the death of Frank Blaine and the lynching of two negroes if they can be caught. It is alleged that Frank Blaine, who is a well-known young white man, offered an insult to a colored girl named Daniel last week. Last night Dug and Emmett Daniel, brothers of the girl, met Blaine and commenced a quarrel with him about his insult to their sister, the end of which was that one of them slashed him twice across the throat with a razor, inflicting wounds which will cause his death.

A number of white men armed themselves with the intention of lynching the negroes, but they escaped. They will be lynched if captured.

Intense excitement prevailed for some time, and it was with difficulty that the whites were prevented from killing more blacks. For several hours during the night the negroes were chased through the streets of the town with stones, but, so far as is known, there were no other fatalities. The feeling against the blacks in Stephensport and vicinity is growing more intense, and it looks like the trouble is not at an end.

It is feared that the negroes will show some ugly feeling at the first opportunity, in which case they will be run out of the town without regard to age, sex or condition.

HEARST MAN BOLTS.

Denounces Surrender to Forces He Has Been Fighting.

Des Moines, Ia., July 21.—A. W. Maxwell, who managed the Hearst campaign in Iowa and has been generally recognized as the head of the Hearst faction in the State, in a signed statement issued to-day repudiates the action of the Democratic national convention in St. Louis and declares his intention of bolting the ticket. Mr. Maxwell tenders his resignation as a member of the Democratic State committee and relinquishes all claims upon the chairmanship of that body, to which he was elected by the Democratic convention which has since been in dispute.

Mr. Maxwell, in his statement, says that he can countenance neither the candidate nor the platform of the St. Louis convention. He says: "The party has been bound, gagged and delivered bodily into the control of the very interests I have been fighting for for the past eight years."

Steamship Doric.

IN PORT YOKOHAMA, June 21, 1904. Our stay in Honolulu was one continuous round of pleasure and surprises. From Pacific Heights we looked over the clouds upon old Punch Bowl and Diamond Head, (two extinct volcanoes) and below through the misty haze we could see gardens of tara, the roots from which is made the native "poi." Honolulu, robed in rich green and many colored bloom, lay softly bathed in morning mist. Our next ride was out by Queens Palace to Moana and Waikiki Beach. The clean, white coral, gleaming through the surf, looked pure enough to wash away all the sins of such a peaceful, happy people as our new brothers of the ocean. As we left port the boys came out to dive for coin. They are mermen up-to-date. We go to Tokio to-day. Yours, J. C. B.

KISSING BUG.

Gets in Its Work on Mail Driver Dillard Head.

Was Bitten Saturday Night and Fearful Suffering and Much Swelling Followed.

The "kissing bug" had returned to Owensboro, says the Owensboro Inquirer, and its first victim of the year is Dillard Head, the driver of one of the U. S. mail wagons.

Head was lying down at the City Transfer company stables Saturday night when the bug rushed across his face, imprinted his kiss and got away unharmed. The pain was like fire and the victim had no more sleep that night. His lip swelled to a great size and he suffered very much. A physician was consulted and the proper remedy was applied.

The so-called kissing bug is more properly called the harvest beetle. It is a black beetle about three-fourths of an inch long, with slightly fluted wings, covers of which shine like brocade satin. The color underneath varies from a very bright yellow to a light brown. The bug does not bite, but on being touched or even disturbed it exudes a small drop of an oily, peculiar and ill smelling liquid from its mouth. As a little girl said who was attacked by one of them, "it tastes like fire, only hotter."

The bugs are very much worse some years than others. Five or six years ago they overspread the country and a number of deaths followed their attacks, the irritation resulting in blood poisoning. Nothing has been heard of them for about three years, but they are coming to the front again.

LIKE A SNAKE.

Madisonville Girl Crawls and Thrusts Out Tongue.

Was Bitten by a Viper and Has Since Had Horrible Convulsions.

Madisonville, Ky., July 20.—Miss Stella Castle, a pretty girl of 18, bitten by a snake a few days ago, now acts like a reptile. Her case is a most pathetic one.

Miss Castle was out walking last Friday and stepped on a spreading viper, one of the most poisonous of reptiles. The snake bit her on the ankle. The girl returned home and told her parents about the accident, but as the wound gave her no pain, the family delayed calling in a physician until Saturday, when the girl showed violent symptoms.

Sunday afternoon Miss Castle escaped from her room and jumped into a pond near the house. She was rescued as she was sinking for the last time and removed to the house, where she has been constantly guarded ever since.

Miss Castle has now taken on the ways of a snake. She tries to crawl and at times sticks her tongue from her mouth like a reptile. She is seized with convulsions two or three times a day when she is delirious and attempts to crawl out of bed. At times she is rational and chats with the members of the family and friends who call to see her.

The attending physicians say the case of the young girl is probably hopeless and that she will probably die in one of her convulsions. Miss Castle is one of the most popular girls in Madisonville and attends the high school here.

CARRIE NATION.

The Kansas Hatchet Slinger Slaps Stranger in the Face.

Cincinnati, July 21.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, of the hatchet swinging fame, spent a few hours in Cincinnati. She created quite a sensation at the Grand Central depot by slapping an unknown man in the face.

Her presence in the depot was discovered by a runner from a hotel who met her when she first visited Cincinnati. News of her presence spread about the depot. A fairly well-dressed man approached her for the purpose of introducing himself. He was chewing tobacco and before the stranger was able to strike up a conversation she slapped him on the side of the cheek that bulged out where the weed was lodged and the "chew," being driven down his throat, choked him. He bowed himself out of her presence and disappeared like a ghost in the crowd.

Mrs. Nation left for the West at noon.
