FRIDAY, MARCH 20.

Beckham flayed Stanley at Elizabethtown Monday. Let the good work go on.

A president of the United States can give away his daughters much more rapidly than a college president.

The man in Kentucky who does not like politics is going to get a big dose of what he does not like in the next two years.

In case of intervention in Mexico no pantoon bridges would be necessary to cross the Rio Grande river. In most places one can wade it.

President Wilson don't forget the smallest details politically. He didn't play a "waiting game" in the Democratic Huertas, Villas, Carranzas, etc., revolutionists down in Tennessee. He spoke right out in meeting.

State taxes will be raised from 50 cents on the hundred dollars worth of property to 55 cents by the passage of the bill providing State aid for roads. Seems to us this fund could have been provided without raising taxes, if certain needless offices had been abolished and rigid economy observed by the legislature.

Wonder who Gov. Beckham meant by this paragraph in his speech at Elizabethtown Monday:

"Other voters are sometimes persuaded to support a man because of the fact that he has never had any positive convictions upon any debatable or disputed public question, who cautiously avoids giving expression to his opinions upon such questions, until after it is apparent upon which side there is a majority, and who then loudly proclaims himself to have always been on that side."

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Kentucky legislature adjourned Tuesday night after sixty days of wrangling and it will always be remembered more for what it failed to do than for its accomplishments. During the session often charges were hurled backward and forth among the members and at one time the House organization was challenged by a Democratic member as having been brought about by prominent lobbyists. None of the charges were ever pursued far enough to strike "pay dirt," although several pretenses were made always to stop when it looked like some great scandal might be unearthed. Unless we are very much mistaken some vicious laws have been enacted and some very deserving ones defeated. The new insurance measure is a doubtful experiment. No tax laws were changed, except to provide an increase in the rate for road purposes and this may simply mean the placing of more money in the hands of our present bunglesome road commission to be frittered away in salaries for new jobs. No provision for our immense and fast growing state debt. Temperance was given a black eye in the defeat of statewide prohibition, by refusing to submit that question to a vote of the people. One of the good things which was accomplished, to our mind was the defeat of the woman's suffrage amendment. We give credit for the passage of a workmen's compensation law, although we have not seen the bill itself and cannot say how effective it may be. The two amendments to the constitution, voted upon and carried last year, are again submitted. No changes were made in the game and fish law. The Governor has declared he will not call an extra session to remedy the failure to provide for increased revenues.

BECKHAM ON STANLEY.

In his opening speech at Elizabethtown Monday Beckham made the following salty reference to the well known salty reference to the well known on the saloon question:

"He boasts, too, of his long warfare upon the Tobacco Trust, and yet neither he nor his most ardent friend can point to a single act of his that has ever brought the slightest substantial relief to the tobacco grower, or to the people, from the wrongs perpetrated by that trust.

"Inflammatory and incendiary speeches are the only remedies he has ever given for those evils, and it is a fact, that the only weapon the tobacco growers of Kentucky have been able to use successfully in a contest with that trust, was the act of the General Assembly of 1906, legalizing the pooling of their crops, and that measure was passed with my active assistance, and was signed by me while I was Governor. Neither had that trust any political strength in Kentucky, and it was certainly not to be feared by a candidate for Congress in the Second district of the State.

"But there is a trust in Kentucky whose political power extends like a pall over the entire State, and holds in its strong grasp many politicians who dare not provoke its enmity or wrath. Its pernicious activity has appeared in nearly every primary, convention and legislative assembly held in Kentucky for many years.

"It has sought to dominate the politics of the State in every particular, and it has fought to prevent any limitation upon its market or any restriction upon its business. It has sought to establish saloons in every county, city and hamlet in the Commonwealth. It has put its blight upon more homes, it has wrecked more human lives, and filled more untimely graves, than have all other trusts combined. It rewards those who serve it and punishes those who oppose it.

"It never ceases in its efforts to control the Legislatures, the courts and the executive officers of the State. It demands that it shall have the Senators, and as many as possible of the Congressmen, from this State, in the Federal Congress. The Steel Trust has never exercised more power in Pennsylvania than has the Liquor Trust in Kentucky; and no man ever wore the collar of the Steel Trust more slavishly in that State, than I followed its commands more obediently, than Stanley has done for the Liquor Trust in this State.

"A few of the many well-known instances of his services to that trust will show that I am not misrepresenting him or his record. In August, 1911, a Democratic State Convention was held in Louisville, to prepare a platform upon which the Democratic nominees for State officers should go before the people in the campaign of that year. The chief issue in that convention was whether or not a county-unit plank should be placed in the platform.

"The liquor forces mustered their full strength against the plank; and among the most active leaders on their side was Mr. Stanley, working for them to the full extent of his influence in the front to keep that plank out. When the question came to a vote in the convention on a roll-call, he boastfully cast the votes of Henderson county against the county-unit plank.

"His service to the trust was more devoted than his service to the party or to the State; for intelligent observers know that, without that plank in the platform our State ticket would have had little chance to succeed in the November election. He, of course, defended his position upon the ground that the law would be unconstitutional.

"That is always the last argument made by a trust advocate in a fight against a reform measure. The Court of Appeals had said that the law was constitutional, notwithstanding his opinion.

IS A PROTECTIONIST? THE REASON WHY

The Claim that Tariff Reduction to a Free-Trade Basis Would Hurt Business Has Been Verified.

We are a Republican, among other good reasons, for the principle of Protection. The principle of Protection amounts to the theory of buying at home. The claptrap vote-catching proposition that reduced the Tariff would lower the cost of living has been exploded. The Republican claim that Tariff reduction would hurt business, destroy labor and demoralize manufacturing has been verified. Our mills and factories are shutting down, while European factories are being enlarged. Our garment workers are walking the streets of our cities, while foreign manufacturers are dumping into this country, at the port of New York alone, $6,000,000 worth a week. Our iron and steel industries are closing. The best sugar factories are closing everywhere.

Twenty-five million pounds of meat have come in free from Australia, and your soup bone costs you more. Clothing is not reduced, the home manufacturer has seen his markets legislated away from him, and the importer takes the margin.

The cities are filled with the hungry and unemployed, New York alone having more than 300,000. The rant of the reformer nor the cant of the inquisitor will not change the condition now confronting the nation. The hosts at Washington claim the present Tariff bill was patterned after the Walker bills of 1846 and 1857. Under its operation President Buchanan sent a message to Congress, saying:

"With unsurpassed plenty in all the productions and all the elements of natural wealth, our manufacturers have suspended, our public works are retarded, our private enterprises of different kinds are abandoned, and thousands of useful laborers are thrown out of employment and reduced to want.

We are not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but it is probable that history will vividly repeat itself in the present situation.

News of the Sports.

(By Al.)

The Beaver Dam basketball team defeated Greenville in one of the fastest games ever played in that city Saturday night by the score of 27 to 17. The game while fast was at times rough and a fighting spirit was displayed by both teams throughout the game. This is the second game between these two teams this season, the first having been won by Greenville. Several Hartford people witnessed the game and were well pleased with the exhibition.

Who scared the ground hog?

The robins were getting so thick that we didn't notice them anymore, but ach, this snow!

C. Burton, star catcher on R. R. Riley's team, is the guest of W. P. Midkiff, city.

W. S. Tinsley and E. M. Woodward have returned from Louisville where, it is reported, they met Chas. P. Taft and made an offer for the Chicago Cubs. The deal failed to go thru but another effort will be made later. It is said that in case Tinsley and Woodward should become owners of the Cubs the franchise will be transferred to Hartford.

Two of the latest to announce their candidacy for the team this spring are J. T. Moore and Ike Sandefur. We don't approve of this because if Ike plays it would be impossible to keep Heg out of the line-up and the two together would finally break up the team.

The loss of Outfielder Marks leaves a gap that will be a puzzle to fill. He is undoubtedly one of the most valuable amateurs in this neck of the woods. He could always be found putting forth his best efforts for the good of the team and his stream of talk added pep to the whole bunch. There is a slight chance of his coming back if he doesn't locate in Cuba, and should he do so he may be assured of a hearty welcome by local fans.

McHenry may have a team this year and it is our earnest desire that they will. It is said that Reynolds, the 1911 pitcher, may be back and with Thorpe to do the receiving stunt a good backbone for a team would be formed. Harrisburg has withdrawn from the Kitty League so it is our guess that Thorpe will be with his home team. Hartford and McHenry always get along well together and have had many great battles in the past.

Notice For Change in Road.

Ohio County Court.
In the matter of application for change of road from J. I. Clark's to the lower Paradise road and establishing road from the said lower Paradise road to the upper Paradise road.

To Hon. John B. Wilson, Judge Ohio County Court:

The undersigned, W. C. Overton, W. H. Maddox, et al, petitioners herein, would respectfully show that each and all of them are citizens, residents and land owners of Ohio County, Ky.

Petitioners respectfully ask this honorable court to cause the following change to be made in the Rockport and Paradise public road, viz:—

The Feed Question

Is purely a matter of education with both man and beast. There is a difference in opinion of course between the cannibal and the missionary as to what constitutes good food, but there should be

NO QUESTION in the minds of experienced stockmen as to the value of our Feed over the cheap dirty kind.
