

Saturday-Weekend-Tuckian.

VOLUME VIII.

HOPKINSVILLE, CHRISTIAN COUNTY KY., MARCH 5, 1886.

NUMBER 19

CHAS. W. MEACHAM. W. A. WILGUS.
ISSUED EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY MORNING BY
MEACHAM & WILGUS,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
One copy, one year, strictly cash in advance
One copy, six months, strictly cash in advance
No subscription taken on time and all papers stopped when out.
One copy free to any one sending us five easy cash subscribers.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder varies. A married party, strength and wholesome. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be sold in competition with the adulterated low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders, sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 105 Wall St., N. Y.

FOR COUGHS, CROUP AND CONSUMPTION USE
TAYLOR'S
"CHEROKEE" REMEDY

"Sweet Gum and Mullen."
The sweet gum, as extracted from a tree of the same name, growing along the small streams in the Southern States, contains a stimulating expectorant principle that loosens the phlegm, purifies the mucous membrane, and stimulates the action of the lungs. When combined with the resinous principle in the mullen plant, the result is a powerful remedy for Croup, Whooping Cough, and Consumption; and is not only a safe, but a reliable, and a certain cure for all these affections. Price 25 cents. Wm. A. Taylor, Atlanta, Ga.

BUSINESS CARDS.

HENRY & PAYNE,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law.
Near Room over Planter's Bank.
HOPKINSVILLE, KY.
117 Jan 1-1881

ARTIFICIAL TEETH
Inserted in Fifteen minutes after natural ones are extracted, by
R. R. BOURNE,
DENTIST.
HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

BREATHITT & STITES,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law.
HOPKINSVILLE, - - KY.
Office—No. 41 North Main Street.
1881-82

Campbell & Medley
DENTISTS.
Over Jones & Co's. Store,
Main St. Hopkinsville Ky.
as-3-18-17

A Clear Skin
is only a part of beauty but it is a part. Every lady may have it; at least, what looks like it. Magnolia Balm both freshens and beautifies.

Did you Suppose Mustang Liniment only good for horses? It is for inflammation of all flesh.

THE UNFASHIONABLE ONE.
A fashionable woman
In a fashionable gown;
Of a fashionable hue;
Fashionable mien;
And a fashionable air;
A fashionable Christian
In a fashionable town;
A fashionable prayer book
And a fashionable choir;
A fashionable chapel
With a fashionable spire;
A fashionable preacher,
With a fashionable speech;
A fashionable sermon,
Made of fashionable reeds;
A fashionable welcome
At the fashionable door;
A fashionable party
To the fashionable poor;
A fashionable Heaven
And a fashionable Hell;
A fashionable Bible
For the fashionable sinner;
A fashionable kneeling,
And a fashionable soul;
A fashionable everything,
But not fashionable to God!
—Merchant Traveler.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

New Rules—The President Philopines on the Mule, the Weather and Corns.

(Detroit Free Press.)
There was a unusually large turnout at the regular Saturday night meeting, and the half dozen Chinese lanterns which Givensam Jones had purchased at his own expense and hung up around the hall produced what Samuel Lyle termed "A spectacular effect of the wildest disorder."

It was announced that the following new rules and regulations would govern until further orders:
"The hour for opening the regular meetings will be 8 o'clock."
"No clay pipes over one year old can be smoked in the library without special permission."
"The eating of peanuts, popcorn, candy, etc., during sessions is calculated to divert attention from the solemnity of the occasion, and is therefore discouraged."
"Members who bring their dogs with them must be prepared for the worst."
"Any member found with his hat on after the triangle has sounded will be fined not less than $400."
"All religious and political discussion is strictly forbidden. Members are also asked to abstain from telling fish stories or relating adventures with snakes and Indians."
"Gentlemen," said the president, as he softly rose up and calmly looked down on the shining plates of Sir Isaac Wallace and Elder Toots, "I am some few things it would be well for you to be discreetly:
"Do man who sets on the fence when de sun shines will be diggin' for grub when it rains."
"Industry may make de back ache, but she fills de stomach and kivers de toten."
"De man who wants satisfaction by law will satisfy de lawyers sooner dan himself."
"Knock it out de door deka he differs wid you don't prove de trut of your own position."
"De less a man knows de mo' anxious he seems to be to make de public believe he am a statesman."
"Let us now attack de regular program and destroy de business which has called us together."
The secretary called attention to the following paragraph in the New York Sun:
"Daniel Smith, a colored resident of Hoboken, was yesterday fined $30 and sent to jail for three months for brutal treatment of his mule. He is said to be a member of Brother Gardner's Lime Kiln club."
"Does his equanimity appear on our lips?" asked the president.
"Yes, ah. He fined his club one year ago, and was particularly recommended for his child-like disposition."
"You will at once notify him that he am suspended for six months, not for violation de mule, exactly, but mo' because he was caught in de act and sent to jail. I owns a mule myself, and while I strive to be placid and forgiving in all matters, de an occasions when I has de old woman lock me up under cellar an' stand at de door wid a shot gun. If she didn't I should jump in on dat mule an' pound him till his life was distinct. While I sympathize wid Brother Smith, he must stand suspended in deference to public opinion."
Givensam Jones offered a resolution to the effect that the club adopt Professor Wiggins' weather predictions up to 1886.
Shindley Watkins objected. He didn't believe in binding the club to patronize any particular prophet's weather. Elder Toots favored the idea. Wiggins had predicted a mild winter, and there was any mild winter lying around loose he wanted one. The Rev. Penstock opposed the resolution. Wiggins had predicted a rainy summer and he had purchased a new pork barrel to put under the weather on the strength of it. The bottom of the barrel had scarcely been wet this season.
"Gentlemen," said the president with a desire to cut short further debate, "I reckon dis club had better take against de late action of the club, and cries of 'No!' no!" were heard from all parts of the hall, and he was promptly hissed down.
"All of de 70 years ago," solemnly observed the president, as he tapped order, "I made up my mind that de man wid a co'n on his toe must either grin an' bar it or suffer ampu-

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—There are one hundred and fifty million tons of coal piled up in the anthracite regions.
—A human life is lost for every fifty thousand tons of coal mined in the anthracite regions.—Philadelphia Post.
—A statistician avers that the average man spends ten dollars a year more for dress than the average woman.
—A patch of land known as House Point Island, off W. End Light, Provincetown, Mass., was swept away in a recent storm.
—A new method of illumination was spoken of in a story published recently. The author depicted a "long, low room, made cheerful by a widow at each end."—Philadelphia Press.
—The estimated loss in Douglas County from hog cholera is forty-five thousand dollars. This is the worst visitation to farmers in Kansas since the grasshoppers in 1874.—Chicago Times.
—In New York when the elevated roads were built horse car stock fell in value. Now, however, the elevated roads are working the horse car industry, and the horse cars were never so crowded.—N. Y. Times.
—It would seem that Nutfield, in Surrey County, Eng., is the most healthy spot in the world, as the doctor has announced that with a population of one thousand two hundred, only one male died last year, and he was eighty-eight years old.
—The much-abused drug clerk is not the only person liable to accidents with his tools. A man in a population of Jeanette, La., in which a father of two sick children gave the medicine prescribed for each of them to the other, thus killing both children.
—An elevator boy is authority for the statement that he has never seen a woman who has become accustomed to the elevator. No matter how often they ride up and down they invariably catch their breath when the elevator starts on its downward journey.—Chicago Times.
—It gives a notion of the cost of royal traveling in the last century that the bill of George IV. at the Hotel d'Ansemp, Namur, for one day was $100,000, including the bill for the carriage and the bill for the dinner, and the charge at the table d'hôte at that time was two francs.
—While Sothorn was in New York he hired an attenuated liver horse for a driver to take him to the city. He rode away side tavern, and while his servant was blanketing the animal McCullough came up and asked: "What do you put that blanket over your horse for, Ned?" He did not seem to be in a hurry to answer, but he said: "Oh, 'tis Sothorn's reply, 'that is to keep the wind from blowing the lay out of him.'"
—A reverend gentleman of Morris-town recently had occasion to visit his father-in-law, who had the small-pox. "I declare," said he, "I forgot to state that fact to him."
—The newest parlor diversion of wealth and fashion is not intellectual, but it has the greatest object in view. It consists in throwing cards into a hat. A silk tile is set on the floor. The player takes a pack of fifty-two playing cards, stands eight feet distant, and endeavors to cast them one by one into the receptacle. The feat is not so easy as it seems, and there is room for much expertise. Twenty out of a pack is a high average.—Chicago Evening Post.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

New Rules—The President Philopines on the Mule, the Weather and Corns.

(Detroit Free Press.)
There was a unusually large turnout at the regular Saturday night meeting, and the half dozen Chinese lanterns which Givensam Jones had purchased at his own expense and hung up around the hall produced what Samuel Lyle termed "A spectacular effect of the wildest disorder."

It was announced that the following new rules and regulations would govern until further orders:
"The hour for opening the regular meetings will be 8 o'clock."
"No clay pipes over one year old can be smoked in the library without special permission."
"The eating of peanuts, popcorn, candy, etc., during sessions is calculated to divert attention from the solemnity of the occasion, and is therefore discouraged."
"Members who bring their dogs with them must be prepared for the worst."
"Any member found with his hat on after the triangle has sounded will be fined not less than $400."
"All religious and political discussion is strictly forbidden. Members are also asked to abstain from telling fish stories or relating adventures with snakes and Indians."
"Gentlemen," said the president, as he softly rose up and calmly looked down on the shining plates of Sir Isaac Wallace and Elder Toots, "I am some few things it would be well for you to be discreetly:
"Do man who sets on the fence when de sun shines will be diggin' for grub when it rains."
"Industry may make de back ache, but she fills de stomach and kivers de toten."
"De man who wants satisfaction by law will satisfy de lawyers sooner dan himself."
"Knock it out de door deka he differs wid you don't prove de trut of your own position."
"De less a man knows de mo' anxious he seems to be to make de public believe he am a statesman."
"Let us now attack de regular program and destroy de business which has called us together."
The secretary called attention to the following paragraph in the New York Sun:
"Daniel Smith, a colored resident of Hoboken, was yesterday fined $30 and sent to jail for three months for brutal treatment of his mule. He is said to be a member of Brother Gardner's Lime Kiln club."
"Does his equanimity appear on our lips?" asked the president.
"Yes, ah. He fined his club one year ago, and was particularly recommended for his child-like disposition."
"You will at once notify him that he am suspended for six months, not for violation de mule, exactly, but mo' because he was caught in de act and sent to jail. I owns a mule myself, and while I strive to be placid and forgiving in all matters, de an occasions when I has de old woman lock me up under cellar an' stand at de door wid a shot gun. If she didn't I should jump in on dat mule an' pound him till his life was distinct. While I sympathize wid Brother Smith, he must stand suspended in deference to public opinion."
Givensam Jones offered a resolution to the effect that the club adopt Professor Wiggins' weather predictions up to 1886.
Shindley Watkins objected. He didn't believe in binding the club to patronize any particular prophet's weather. Elder Toots favored the idea. Wiggins had predicted a mild winter, and there was any mild winter lying around loose he wanted one. The Rev. Penstock opposed the resolution. Wiggins had predicted a rainy summer and he had purchased a new pork barrel to put under the weather on the strength of it. The bottom of the barrel had scarcely been wet this season.
"Gentlemen," said the president with a desire to cut short further debate, "I reckon dis club had better take against de late action of the club, and cries of 'No!' no!" were heard from all parts of the hall, and he was promptly hissed down.
"All of de 70 years ago," solemnly observed the president, as he tapped order, "I made up my mind that de man wid a co'n on his toe must either grin an' bar it or suffer ampu-

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 1, 1886.
TO THE SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
There has just been finished at the Navy Yard here, a large iron rifle which is the first that this Government has ever made, and the second steel rifle of any kind ever built in the United States. When the question of providing the new cruisers with steel armor was discussed in Congress, it was contended by the opponents of the bill that they could not be made by the Government. The Ordnance Department claimed that they could, and so was given an opportunity to prove its assertion. The one just completed will be tested shortly at the experimental battery, at Annapolis, and if the results are what are expected, Congress will make a big appropriation for their making. About 1,000 men will be employed at the yard instead of only 325 as at present. From close estimates, made, it is found that the Government can do the work for less than 50 per cent of what is paid to contractors.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes.—Chicago Tribune.
—Senator Quesada, the new representative of the Argentine Republic at Washington, is a journalist and author. He is a writer on a newspaper in his native land, has filled several prominent posts in the civil service, and for the last four years has been Minister to Brazil.
—Ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, is sixty-three years old, but is still very active. Last summer he went to his son's home in Clifton, and passing through a high gate, was attacked by a savage dog who did not recognize him. Bishop took a running jump and cleared the high gate at one bound like an athlete.—Cleveland Leader.
—A queer old lady, the Baroness Rolfe, has just died in England at the age of ninety years. She was married at twenty-two to a gentleman who was seventy-four years old, and if he were living now he would be one hundred and thirty-five years of age. At his death he settled an income of $50,000 per year upon her, and she has devoted more than fifty years of her long life in charity.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Senator Edmunds' wealth is estimated at half a million.
—Mrs. Dahlgren, the novelist, is a Zanesville (O.) girl. She is wealthy, and she owns several houses in Washington.
—Lotta, Mary Anderson, Emma Nevada and Marie Wilton are all communicants of the Roman Catholic Church.
—The tallest man in Washington Territory is John Hutchinson. He stands seven feet four inches in his stockings.
—Robert H. Newell, the "Orpheus C. Kerr" of popular remembrance, enjoys a serene old age at a cozy home near in Jersey City.
—Hon. Galusha A. Grow and Hon. A. Gilmore are the only surviving members of the Thirty-second Congress.—N. Y. Tribune.
—Mrs. Sophie Mentor, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of three million dollars, left her by a Russian admirer.
—A Calcutta paper says that a native woman has become the editor of a Christian periodical, which she conducts with remarkable ability and success.
—Catherine Gregory, who died in New York the other day, was a school teacher for twenty-two years, and never missed a day during that period until she was taken sick.—N. Y. Post.
—The Mexican Congress proposes to change the press laws to the end that offenses charged against newspaper writers shall be tried before a special jury, and not as is now done, under the criminal code.
—Lord Hotchkiss, one of the swell cowboys of Montana, recently won a heavy wager by walking from his ranch near Helena to the city of Butte, a distance of twenty-two miles, in four hours and four minutes