

AFTER EXERCISE.
When men and maidens seek the sport
They find around the tennis court,
Or when upon the diamond field
Their bats the champion players wield,
When walks, or rides, or bending oars,
Bring perspiration from the pores,
Then people all should bear in mind
The best and purest soap to find,
For after some such exercise
The system most in danger lies,
Absorbing then both swift and sure
The poisons found in soaps impure,
And those who keep for face and hands
Or general use as time demands,
The IVORY SOAP, need have no fear
From exercise throughout the year.

A WORD OF WARNING.
There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

TOBACCO NEWS.
LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.
Furnished by GLOVER & MARREY.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 2,734 hds. with receipts of 2,947 hds. Sales on our market since January last amount to 105,493 hds. Sales of the crop of 1888 on our market to this date amount to 73,521 hds.
The offerings of dark tobacco have been relatively small during the week and the market has exhibited no tendency toward improvement. The stocks here are being mainly held by dealers who bought in the country, and the present range of values show no profit in the regular types over the low prices at which purchases were made. The following quotations fairly represent our market for dark tobacco:
Trash, 75 to $1.25.
Common to Medium Leaf, $1.50 to 2.00.
Dark Logs, extra quality, $2.00 to 3.00.
Common Leaf, $3.50 to 4.50.
Medium to Good Leaf, $4.50 to 5.50.
Good leaf, extra length, $5.50 to 6.50.
Rich wrapper tobacco, $6.50 to $10.

ROQUEY ON THE TURF.
That It Exalts Whichever Race Are Run No One Will Deny.

The attraction of betting is easy to understand, but one must think a little more to comprehend why betting on races tends so exceptionally to make men rogues. It is an art which will deny the fact, and to assert, what is perfectly true, that there are honest owners, honest trainers, honest jockeys, and honest bookmakers on the turf; but as a matter of fact, no experienced "sportsman" denies that the amount of roquey in racing transactions is extraordinary. Numbers of owners are utterly distracted, the jockey who never sells a race is praised as a moral hero—just remember the columns of moral laudation lavished on Archer—and as for the bookmaker who always pays—whom he must do if he is to get good custom—he stands on a level with a millionnaire philanthropist.

There is not a betting man in the country who is not full to the lip of stories of roquey, and not a stable-boy who could not enlarge the betting-man's repository if he told all he knew. Nobody connected with races even affects to be surprised when he hears of sharp practices and there are great owners who would no more bet than archbishops, because they know that if they did, even their characters could not escape the mud which more or less smirches every man whose chief interest in human affairs is the comparative racing of horses.

Now, why are these sharp practices and there are great owners who would no more bet than archbishops, because they know that if they did, even their characters could not escape the mud which more or less smirches every man whose chief interest in human affairs is the comparative racing of horses. Now, why are these sharp practices and there are great owners who would no more bet than archbishops, because they know that if they did, even their characters could not escape the mud which more or less smirches every man whose chief interest in human affairs is the comparative racing of horses.

Statistics show that in one year—1876—2,500 persons died of rheumatism in this country, which it is claimed, might have been cured or prevented by the adoption of the remedy mentioned. At least two-thirds of the cases named died of rheumatism, and of rheumatism and its agonizing ally, gout. Small-pox, so much dreaded, is not so destructive as rheumatism, which, it is maintained by many physicians, can be prevented by obeying nature's law in diet. But, if you have incurred it, boiled celery is pronounced unhesitatingly to be a specific. The proper way to eat celery is to have it cooked as a vegetable, and then to eat it in the manner above described. The writer makes constant use of it in this way. Try it once, and you would sooner do without any vegetables, with the single exception of celery, rather than without celery. Cooked celery is a delicious dish for the table, and the most conducive to the health of any vegetable that can be mentioned.—Exchange

Poisoned With Malaria.
Mr. S. D. Price, a native of this State, but now prominent and influential citizen of Dallas, Texas, writes under date of April 12, 1889: "About three years ago I was living in a malarial district of Georgia, and while there I contracted malaria, which all over my body. The poison in my blood was so bad that it ruined my health and prostrated me. I was at length so reduced in health, and apparently incurable after taking large quantities of different medicines prescribed by my physicians, that they, as a last resort, advised me to go to Hot Springs, as it was the only chance of recovery left, and in this they expressed their serious doubts that I would derive any benefit from the trip. I went to Hot Springs, and while there took a thorough course of medicinal waters, and the physicians, which seemed to benefit, but did not cure me, for in one month after my return the malarial fever reappeared. I immediately began taking S. S. S., which made me permanently well—from 1888 until now.

Only 3,600 Lives Lost in the Johnstown Disaster.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 24—The new directory of Johnstown has just been published by C. B. Clarke, of Altoona. At the time of the flood the whole edition, which was in a book form, was destroyed. From the proof sheets, however, the names were obtained and are now printed as they were before the flood as well as a special record of those that were lost. The number of drowned is put at 3,500 and that is considered a close estimate. It being impossible to obtain the exact figures, the names of those who were lost in the disaster are in the book. The names are in the book. The names are in the book. The names are in the book.

A STRANGE EDIFICE.
The Wonderful Architecture of the Church of the Sacred Heart.

The history of this church is as strange as its aspect; it was built by order of Ivan the Terrible, at the expense of the principality of Kazan, an expression of gratitude to God for the Tsar's conquest of that Italy. The name of the architect, an Italian, is unknown, but tradition relates that his eyes were burned out by order of Ivan to prevent his designing in future any more wonderful monument. "I fancy wish." In the interior of the church, the sanctuary remains the unique and glorious monument of the genius of this man. In the basement of the edifice are two chapels, and on the upper story nine chapels, surmounted by nine cupolas, each different in shape, dimensions, color, details, style and structure. The architecture is placed at the east end and at the west, an orthodox demands. The facade, again, are all different, and without describable plan, and the whole structure, with its suggestions of Hlavo, Byzantine, Gothic and nondescript architecture, and its mass of crude, heavy, blue, red and green, forms an admirable and mysterious harmony, the secret of which none can explain, and the charm of which no words can describe. The whole exterior, with its superimposed arches, its profusion of color and gilding, its painting of roses and other flowers in panels all over the walls, is strangely original. On the pedestal formed by the nine chapels and their base are placed bellies and cupolas starting upward from masses of masonry resembling the imbricated foliage of the arbutus, the scales of the pine cone, or the opalescent scales of the Italian element is clearly perceptible in the first three stories, above which is a story resembling an Indian pagoda, which is in turn surmounted by a hexagonal crocketed spire, on the summit of which is a lantern and a cross. The entire building is a mass of masonry, which is a story resembling an Indian pagoda, which is in turn surmounted by a hexagonal crocketed spire, on the summit of which is a lantern and a cross.
