ANNOUNCEMENT.

HON. W. T. RILEY, of Daviess county, is a Democratic candidate for reelection to Congress, subject to the action of the district primary election Sept. 27.

BORROWED FROM NEIGHBORS.

Owensboro Messenger.

It is claimed by the officers of the Bank of Commerce that Henry C. Gans, the deceased cashier of that institution, was short in his cash over $1,900, and the bank is preparing to bring suit against the American Surety Company, which stood as indemnity against losses to the bank for the late cashier, unless the company settles the amount within the next few days.

The jury in the Robert Lucas will case, after being out but a short time, returned a verdict sustaining the will. We suppose, as a matter of course, an appeal will be taken and the case kept in the courts until the lawyers get their prorata of the funds. Messrs. Sims and Burnett were the attorneys for the legatees, and Messrs. Spert and Howell for the contestants.

Madisonville Hustler.

Charley Shackelford, a young man of this place, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Shackelford, who was run over by a hand car last Wednesday week, died last Saturday morning. He received internal injuries which resulted in his death. He was the youngest son of his parents and was the main stay of these people in their declining years.

Henderson Gleaner.

John Gannon, a conductor on the Newport News & Mississippi Valley gravel train, met with injuries near Greenville Tuesday night which resulted in his death. It was raining, the car tops were slippery, and in stepping from one car to another Gannon fell between them. The entire train ran over his right arm and leg.

Elkton Progress.

News has been received here to the effect that Levi Higgins, a well known citizen in the northern part of this county, met the sad misfortune yesterday of getting one of his arms saved off while at work about his saw mill.

Crittenden Press.

A young man named James Beck, living in the Northern portion of Lyon county, was severely injured by a stroke of lightning Sunday.

The Forum for September will contain a political essay on "Money Interests in Political Affairs," by E. L. Godkin, editor New York Evening Post, in which Mr. Godkin traces to the growth of protection the enormous and alarming increase of money in politics, which he regards as the most important political factor of our time. In the same number Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, replies to Senator Chandler's recent article on "The Federal Control of Elections." Other articles in this number will be "The Training of Teachers," by President G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University; "The Christianity of the Future," by Prof. John S. Blackie, of Edinburgh, Scotland; "The Latest Astronomical News," by Prof. Charles A. Young, of Princeton; "Protection Against Tobaccoes," by Lieut. John P. Finley, as well as articles by Simon Stearns, Edward Everett Hale, James R. Murdoch, M. J. Savage, and Alice E. Ives.

Congressman Ellis is coming home from Washington this week for the first time this year. This district has never had a more faithful representative in Congress than Capt. Ellis. Although an announced candidate has been canvassing the district for months, he has refused to leave his post of duty to look after his own interests, and now for the first time since December will take advantage of a lull in legislation to come home and talk to his constituents. Capt. Ellis will make a few speeches before his return, one of which will probably be in this city, although there is no opposition to him of any consequence in this county. The district primary will be held September 27.

Capt. Smith Cook, late doorkeeper of the House, is pretty apt to occupy a similar position with the Con-Con. He is not only a staunch Democrat, but is the biggest man in Kentucky, being 7 feet high and weighing 260 pounds. He is only 33 years of age and unlike most giants is handsome of feature and symmetrical of figure. Capt. Cook is opposed by two or three gentlemen, but it is safe to name the Shelby giant as an easy winner.

The Kentucky State Union, the official organ of the Farmers' Alliance, has this to say of Capt. Ellis: "We are very much gratified to see that the Henderson county Union has endorsed Congressman Ellis; he has made us a faithful servant and should be endorsed. When one of our officers stands by us let us endorse him."

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps' article in the August number of The Forum on "The Decalogue in Modern Life," has caused such demand for that number that a second edition has been issued.

WHEELERS MEET.

The Seebre Meeting Falls to Nominate a Candidate.

A Republican Scheme Exposed.

Owensboro Messenger.

SENREB, Aug. 22.—The meeting of Wheelers of the Second Congressional district was called to order by W. H. Hancock, of Webster.

W. N. Short, of McLean, was elected temporary chairman; I. M. Haynes, temporary secretary.

One vote from each magisterial district was the basis of representation. The following committee on credentials was appointed:

Dan Browning, of Webster; G. W. Gentry, of Hopkins; S. H. Myers, of Christian; Jno. S. Lambert, of Union; G. T. Baldwin, of Henderson; H. G. Smith, of Hancock; John Stevens, of McLean, W. P. Miller, of Daviess.

At the afternoon session the committee on credentials reported the following delegates entitled to seats in the meeting:

McLean—W. N. Short, J. A. Stevens, R. M. Ward, R. M. Givens, C. Noel, Ben Brackett and P. W. Nolen. Hopkins—G. W. Gentry, W. D. Slaton, J. W. Wilson, J. Y. Tilford, W. S. Barnett, W. M. Madison, S. J. Mitchell, W. D. Crow and A. W. Denny.

Henderson—G. T. Baldwin, J. G. Eakins, Ben Tanner, C. C. Eades, W. M. Hatchett, R. M. Schaffer, Lewis Remole, J. W. Hicks, A. S. Denton, J. G. Quinn and J. Tapp.

Webster—David Browning, W. D. Crowley, B. F. Carlisle, J. W. Orr, J. W. Hancock, Richard Tapp, J. C. Springfield and T. J. McGraw.

Hancock—Thomas Fallon, Felix Sadtler, J. L. Brown.

Union—J. S. Lambert, Peter Able, Ben Wright, D. P. Duncan, James Wright, C. W. Bondurant, James A. Turner, P. S. Bennett, Thos. Hayne, Christian—S. H. Myers.

Daviess—J. H. Rudy, E. L. Miles, Tom Handley, B. F. Cox, G. W. Holt, James Noel, Henry Ellis, W. M. Purcell, G. W. Simmet, Wm. Potts, Dabney Robinson, Samuel James.

The report was concurred in. B. F. Cox, of Daviess, was made permanent chairman, Wm. Hatchett, of Henderson, permanent secretary. The committee on resolutions was as follows: R. M. Glover, A. W. Denny, F. G. Eakins, J. W. Hamilton, F. M. Sadtler, Tom Haynes, S. H. Myers, Samuel James.

The committee, through its chairman, Sam James, recommended the adoption of the resolutions passed at the national alliance meeting at St. Louis last December, with an additional clause that to more fully carry out these principles in this Congressional district, we will not support any candidate for Congress who will not fully endorse these sentiments and eschew all affiliation with any caucus, delegate or primary election that may be held by the Republican, Democratic or any other parties, or in any way hamper himself in his independent action for the rights and interests of the masses of the people.

By means of their organization the Republicans were almost able to cook the entire proceedings to their own taste, as they had the committee on credentials and gave credentials only to Republicans where it was possible to adopt this step. Thus it was that many of the best Wheelers in attendance were shut out. Hancock county, which was recently swept clean by the Democrats, had a solid Republican delegation, and the same thing would have occurred all the way round if it had been possible to find enough of them to fill the places.

Hon. Jim Rudy took the lead in opposition to the resolution pledging the Alliance to support no man who would accept a party nomination, and pledging the order to vote only for a man who should be endorsed by the convention. He said this was but a Republican scheme to disrupt the Democratic party in the Second Congressional District, and he did not propose to sit by and see the wires set to such work. He loved the Alliance, but he also loved and would be loyal to the Democratic party, and proposed to withdraw from the convention. James Noel and Charles Noel, of McLean county, and Henry Ellis, of Daviess county, followed him in withdrawing.

Thomas Haynes, of Union county, told the convention that their man would be defeated by 3,000 votes in Union county if the resolution was adopted and asked them if they wanted to go into the fight with such odds against them. Bourland, of Hopkins, and Myers, of Christian, and Hatchett, of Henderson, were also in opposition to the resolution, and their opposition counted in the hot fight that came up, in which the Democrats were finally victorious, killing the resolution and also securing the adjournment of the convention to October 6, at Henderson.

Mr. Thos. Davie and niece, of Ringgold, Tenn., visited his brother Marius this week.

Number two wheat is selling at $1 per bushel at Howell and Herndon, but the shortage of crops in the Northwestern States causes the farmers to hold their wheat for higher prices.

On the evening of the 20th inst. Mr. Wallace West's beautiful residence was the scene of a lovely "moonlight" social. The rain poured down in torrents all night, but the guests amused themselves in various ways; playing "snaps," and dancing were indulged in until the shrill sound of the rooster was heard telling the approach of daylight.

During the epidemic of flux in this county last summer, I had hard work to keep a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. People often came ten or twelve miles in the night to get a bottle of the Remedy. I have been selling part of the medicine for the last ten years and find that it has given better satisfaction in cases of diarrhoea and flux, than any other medicine I have ever handled.

J. H. BENJAMIN, Druggist, Goleonda, Pope Co., Ill. Over five hundred bottles of this Remedy were sold in that county during the epidemic. It was a perfect success and was the only remedy that did cure the worst cases.

Dozens of persons there will testify that it saved their lives. In four other epidemics of bowel complaint this Remedy has been equally successful. Full 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Buckner Leavell.

Theodore F. Hallam is again a candidate for Congress and will leave no stone unturned to defeat Worth Dickerson for the full term in Carlisle's district. Hallam is a brilliant, companionable fellow, but his habits of dissipation and intemperance are not calculated to commend him to the people generally. However, the Sixth district has never attached any great importance to sobriety and moral standing in selecting its party leaders.

Mr. John Carpenter, of Goodland, Ind., says: "I tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea and cramps and pains in the stomach and bowels with the best results. In the worst cases I never had to give more than the third dose to effect a cure. In most cases one dose will do. Besides it's other good qualities it is pleasant to take." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Buckner Leavell.

Messrs. S. H. and H. C. Myers have just received from Spain a fine two-year-old imported Spanish jack, Lyndon, for which they paid $700. They had him in town yesterday having him shod preparatory to exhibiting him at the coming fair. He stands 14 1/2 hands high. The same gentleman also sold last week to Mr. M. L. Walker, Seebre, Ky., Royal Duke, a Spanish bred jack, to be registered before delivery, $400 being the price.

Mr. Hedley Boyd, city editor of the Clarksville Progress, has resigned to accept a position on the staff of the Paducah News. He will be succeeded by Mr. J. R. Wilson, Jr.

CATCHING TROUT BACKWARD.

How a Fisherman Filled His Basket with speckled Beauties.

Did I ever catch trout backward? Of course I did, and as an expert fisherman, who never buys his "trout" at the market nor lies about his catches, I fear that I should do so again in the same circumstances.

I had been fishing all day with different success, and then numerous tumbles, and was wet from the sole of feet to the nose of my neck; my flask was empty and my fish-basket so nearly so that it was no fun at all to return to the hotel and suffer the stings and arrows of my fellow boarders.

In the dusk of the evening I halted by a wayside tavern, with a large drinking fountain in front, and happening to look into it I saw several fine fat, speckled trout—beauties they were—half a pounder and over, and just enough to fill my creel to the bursting point.

How did they get there? Could it be that they had come down through the spout from the spring when they were taken, and had Providence put them there for my especial comfort? I looked at them carefully to see that they were not branded with the name of any body, and when I found that they were not, I turned my eyes to the fountain, wondering how I could catch them. Instantly to myself, of course, my line with baited hook attached fell into the fountain.

Suddenly I felt a terrific tugging and took my pole away from me. I seized it valiantly, and the next I knew a fine fat trout lay gasping and somersaulting on the highway. I looked around to see that no one was looking and hastily transferred the beautiful trout to my basket, and in a moment or two I was off in another fit of abstraction with my back to the fountain.

That night I had the boarders green with envy, and when I had paid for all the wine that was necessary to restore them to a normal color my vacation purse was pretty nearly depleted. Market fishing, even at a dollar a pound, is not the most expensive kind in this hard world.

I did hear that the landlord at a certain wayside inn indulged in a terrific swearing bee next morning, and said something about city thieves and blackguards. Why, I wonder?

But I can best write to the fact that trout may be taken backward—not the trout, but the fisherman—as well as forward, if that is any satisfaction to know.—N. Y. Herald.

AN ARTISTIC WEDDING.

It Will Take a Week in a Salon Resembling that of a New England Parsonage.

At a wedding that will take place shortly after the date of this writing, it is proposed to make the salon where the ceremony will occur so much as possible like a New England forest in late spring. The walls will be decorated with a curtain-like fall of pine, fir and hemlock, interspersed with tufts of the pure, soft white bloom of the meadow rue. Along the arch under which the bride and groom stand will be the creamy blossoms of the hunchberry, and the soft light plumes of the tiarella, white, flecked with salmon pink. The mantels will be trimmed with yellow, striped cinquefoil and little amaranth, with pikes of tiny fragrant blossoms. In the center of this perfume and greenness, the delicate pink-veined flowers of the oxalis will nestle among the trailing leaves. The bride's window, where the ceremony will take place, will be built with a fairy-like background of feathery, graceful ferns, soft, rich mosses of varied tints, from deepest, darkest hue, through olive and golden brown, to palest sea-green, and they in turn are to be contrasted with lichens, in quiet gray and soft drab, touched with scarlet, while gold and little wood rushes with pretty brown flowers rise out of downy leaves. The arch under which the bride and groom stand will be formed of ferns and straw lilies that swing their slender bells, and pure white starflower, and Indian hemp, with its pink coral drops, while intertwined within the meshes of the garland will shine the small heads of red and white clover, Solomon's seal, yellow sorrel, golden ray with buttercup, gold threads and violets. The bride will carry a bouquet of apple blossoms, and the bride's maidens or baskets filled with wood moss and flow lilies.—Art Interchange.

OUR GOODS ARE RELIABLE.

The philosophy of trade forces prices to correspond with quality. No man can buy for a dollar that which is worth two dollars, nor can one man make for a dollar what another and more experienced man can produce for twice as much money. There are prices and prices and qualities and qualities, and every time they correspond. Our advice to buyers, whether they buy washtubs or steamships, is to purchase of a reliable house with a pronounced reputation. The dealer who has one price and maintains it, gives positive evidence of the standard value of his goods. It is worth something to know what you are going to get.
