Men's Furnishing Department

Every new idea brought out, is shown here simultaneously with its appearance in New York, and you will always find us authority on correct ideas of dress, as well as lowest in price. The same modest margins that rule in Dry Goods prevail here.

The New Stocking.

Waukenhose

Knit to Fit the Foot. Saves Discomfort; no wrinkles, no cramped toes. (Notice the shape.) "Fatties" brand saves darning; the big toe, having room enough, stays inside the stocking. A sure relief for those afflicted with itching soles, corns, bunions, or natural heat and perspiration of the feet. Made by Waukenhose Co., Boston, Mass. We have a complete line.

Night Robes.

Every Gentleman who appreciates comfort and health wears Night Shirts. We were the first to introduce them in Hopkinsville and the business has grown very rapidly. It is not saying too much to affirm that we have the largest and best stock in KENTUCKY. The prices vary from $1.00 to $2.50 and each price represents its value. All are of the celebrated "Fatties" brand and some are perfect works of art. If you wish to look through them, call on us at our store.

Bon Bon Underwear.

Bon Bon French underwear is recognized the world over as the very best; we have in all sizes, both drawers and shirts at very moderate prices. Ask to see Scriven's Wonderful Elastic seam Drawers, for comfort and durability they are unequalled.

Saturday's Resolutions.
The committee on resolutions returned and Mr. Peay, the chairman read the following which were adopted by sections upon motion.

Resolved, 1st, That we, the Democrats of Christian county, in convention assembled, reiterate and reaffirm our unalterable devotion and adherence to Democratic principles as expressed in our Democratic State and National conventions held heretofore, and as illustrated by the character and conduct of the Democratic party, which has ever been a friend of labor as against capital, a defender of the right and a foe to the wrong.

2nd, That we commend the action of the Democratic majority in the Congress of the United States in putting on the free list so many of the necessary things to the consumer, laborer and farmer, and thus, so far as they can, relieve the tax-ridden people of this country from some of the burdens that oppress them; and for their efforts to again bring back into the channels of economy the legislative department of this government and thus rebuke the unskilled extravagance and license of a former Republican Congress, which spent a billion dollars of the people's money, and thus give further relief to a suffering people.

We commend them for these efforts and bid them God-speed in the good work.

3rd, That we believe in good and sound money, and enough of it to meet all the needs of commerce and trade. That as the Government has the right, and alone the right, to make and issue the money for the people, it ought to be done, in the interest of the whole body of the people, and not according to the direction, or in the interest of any particular class or section.

We believe that gold and silver and greenbacks, the one convertible into the other at the will of the holder, ought to be the money of this country.

That gold and silver were the money of the Constitution, and of our fathers, and should have equal recognition of the law and equal privileges in the mints of the Government, and we condemn in unequivocal language the Republican act of 1874, which demonetized the one and thus exalted and made more valuable the other.

And we request our representative in Congress and our delegates to State and National convention to vote always in furtherance of this resolution.

Resolved, further, that as the circulating medium of the country is insufficient to meet the demands of trade, to afford ample relief to the circulating masses of the country, the circulating medium be so increased by the National Government as to yield a per-capita of fifty dollars to every person in the country.

4th, That we believe that the Democratic party is, and ought to be a great national party; comprehensive enough in the scope of its principles and its policy to embrace the whole country, and legislate alike for its every trade and occupation, discriminating against none for the benefit of another; that its fundamental motto is and ought to be "Equal rights to all and exclusive privileges to none." That we believe this to be a great and truthful doctrine, one upon which alone, our country can live and prosper, and we invite all men who love their country to unite with us in a cause so just, and our party associates to forget their grievances, or right them under the banner of their party, and join heart and hand with us, in giving battle to the common foe.

5th, That it is the right and privilege of every individual Democrat to urge and advocate his views of Democratic policies and measures, and his choice of Democratic candidates, but when this has been done in the fullest liberty, and State and National conventions have met and voiced the will of the majority, it then becomes the duty of all Democrats to accept the will of that majority so expressed, and we hereby pledge ourselves to support the nominees of the National Democratic Convention which meets in Chicago, June 21st, 1892.

Resolved 6th, That we earnestly protest against the leasing of Christian county in a Republican or a doubtful judicial district and earnestly appeal to the Democratic members of the Legislature not to permit such action.

Resolved 7th, That the delegates to the State Convention which are appointed by this convention be, and they are hereby instructed to cast the vote of Christian county in that convention for Hon. James A. McKenzie for delegate to the National convention from the State-at-large, and Charles M. Meacham as delegate from this Congressional district, and to use all honorable means to secure their election.

After the adoption of the resolutions it was moved that the chair appoint delegates to the Louisville Convention. Mr. Meacham moved that the chairman and secretaries names be added to the list of delegates appointed. The motion carried and the Chairman named the following delegates:

- W. A. Garnett, J. F. Dixon, Austin Peay, J. E. Stevenson, Dr. Dan Callis, Dr. J. R. Moore, Matt Cayce, Gus Watkins, Dr. J. B. Jackson, Dr. J. B. Jackson, P. B. Monk, W. H. Martin, S. H. Myers, M. B. King, Dr. J. D. Clardy, Ben Carroll, Marion Lane, John Sargent, F. B. Richardson, Geo. Winfree, Winston Henry, T. M. Barker, J. W. Allen, L. O. Garrett, J. B. Cherry, C. D. Bell, T. A. McKenzie, J. E. Wallace, J. E. Wallace, J. E. Wallace, W. A. Glass, J. C. Moore, G. W. Lander, J. M. P. Pool, Joe W. Cornelius, J. P. Punning, L. R. Salmon, J. H. Major, Joseph Hite, Jr., F. F. McGowan, Judge West, W. S. Barker, John Fariss, J. W. McPherson, W. W. Clarke, E. M. Carroll, William Cowan, Frank Bell, W. J. Withers, L. A. Syper, C. M. Meacham, Hunter Wood, J. W. Dabney, M. D. Brown, D. H. Holland, John Phelps, W. E. Ragsdale, D. L. Johnson, W. P. Winfree, W. R. Howell, Dr. B. W. Stone, J. J. Morrow, W. M. West, G. M. Bell, J. T. Hanberry, and all other good Democrats.

There being no further business the convention then adjourned.

How Unpleasant
It is to see a beautiful child's face disfigured with warts, burrowing through the skin in pimples, blotches, and sores, and sadder still, when the young and innocent are laughed at and twitted in all such cases. Parents should give them that good and pure remedy Sulphur Bitters, which will search and drive out of the blood every particle of humor.—Health Gazette.

4,000 pounds of amber is obtained annually from the Prussian shore of the Baltic. Amber is manufactured into beads and mouthpieces for pipes.

Four-fifths of the steam engines of the world have been constructed within the last quarter of a century, and of these the United States takes the lead.

The latest fad among the ladies is suspenders.

PARROTS AND THEIR FOOD
Why Nature Has Equipped Them With a Powerful Beak.

Parrots are vegetarians; with a single degraded exception, to which I shall refer hereafter, Sir Henry Thompson himself couldn't find fault with their regimen. They live chiefly upon a light but nutritious diet of fruit and seeds, or upon the abundant nectar of rich tropical flowers. And it is mainly for the sake of getting at their chosen food that they have developed the large and powerful bills which characterize the family. You may have perhaps noted that most tropical fruit eaters, like the hornbills and the toucans, are remarkable for the size and strength of their beaks. If you have a chance, you will generously take my word for it.

And, per contra, it may also have struck you that most tropical fruit eaters have thick or hard or waxy rinds, which need to be forced off by the monkeys or birds for whose use they are intended can get at them and eat them. Our little northern strawberries and raspberries and currants, and whorlberries, developed with a single eye to the petty robins and finches of temperate climes, can be popped into the mouth whole and eaten as they stand; they are meant for small birds to devour, and to disperse the tiny undigested nutlike seeds in return for the bribe of the soft pulp that surrounds them. But it is quite otherwise with oranges, shaddocks, bananas, plantains, mangoes, and pineapples; those great tropical fruits can only be eaten properly with a knife and fork, after stripping off the hard and often acid rind that guards and preserves them. They lay themselves out for dispersion by monkeys, toucans and other relatively large and powerful fruit eaters; and the rind is put there as a barrier against small thieves who would rob the sweet pulp, but be absolutely incapable of carrying away and dispersing the large and richly-stored seeds it covers.

Parrots and toucans, however, have no knives and forks to cut off the rind with; but as monkeys use their fingers, so the birds use for the same purpose their sharp and powerful bills. No better nut-crackers and fruit-parsers could possibly be found. The parrot, in particular, has developed for the purpose his curved and inflated beak—a wonderful weapon, bent as it is, and scissored on either side of the face which bring together the cutting edges with extraordinary energy. The way the bird holds a fruit gingerly in one claw, while he strips off the rind dexterously with his under-hung lower mandible, and keeps a sharp lookout meanwhile on either side with those sly and stealthy eyes of his for a possible intruder, suggests to the observer the whole living drama of his native forest. One sees in that vivid world the watchful monkey ever ready to swoop down upon the tempting tail-feathers of his hapless prey, and the cunning parrot ever prepared for his rapid attack, and ever eager to make him pay with five joints of his tail for his impudent interference with an unoffending fellow-creature of the aboriginal community.—Cornhill Magazine.

HOUSEHOLD BREVITIES.

To prevent hair from becoming prematurely gray take one ounce of glycerine, one ounce bay rum and one pint sugar. Tie the skins on. Add a few drops of the oil of bergamot.—Detroit Free Press.

To freshen old velvet, place a wet cloth over a hot iron and the velvet over this. While the steam is rising brush the velvet lightly with a soft brush. This not only raises the pile, but is, to a certain extent, cleansing also.

Broiled Macaroni.—Blitz the fish down the back, and remove the backbone. Boil the broiled with butter or a little lard to prevent sticking. Broil the inside, turn and broil till brown. Serve with cream sauce.—Housekeeper.

Bolled Apples with Syrup.—Halve and remove the cores of a half dozen nice apples, leaving the skins on. Put till tender in sufficient water to cover them. Take out with a fork into a glass dish. Add to the juice three or four slices of a large lemon; boil for ten or fifteen minutes, sweeten to taste, then pour over the apples and cool.—Good Health.

Delicious Morning Chocolate.—Put four ounces of chocolate, dissolved in a little hot water, into a saucepan with three cups water and two ounces sugar. Set over the fire. Beat yolks of two eggs to a foam in a cup of water and stir; then add a small teaspoonful of rose water, also one of orange-flower water. Let the mixture stand several minutes to simmer but not boil; serve with toasted rusk or coffee cake.—Ladies Home Journal.

Roast Chaf's Liver.—Put the liver on a hot plate over a small flame, and in a small dripping-pan under the grate of the range, which must be raked down clear and hot; baste often over the paper with the oil in which it was improved. It will be cooked in half an hour or a little more. Five minutes before it is done remove the paper, brown on both sides, basting with the drippings and serve. A Dutch oven is excellent for this style of cooking, but the grate will do nicely. If a blower is put in front to concentrate the heat.—N. Y. World.

Beef with Curried Rice.—Take two pounds of lean beef cut from the round, sliced, not chined, and stew it in a little water with a carrot, a stalk of celery, half a turnip, an onion and some parsley, all chopped very fine, until it is quite done season with salt and pepper; the vegetables should be boiled to a pulp and the gravy thick and rich. Boil some rice in slightly salted water; when it is done and quite dry add to it a lump of butter and some curry powder. Put the beef on a platter with an edge of the rice, and serve very hot.—Household Monthly.

Gold Cake.—Rub a generous half-cup of butter to a cream, add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, the beaten yolks of four eggs and a half cup of milk, in the order given. Sift together a pint of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder, and stir it into the mixture. Beat until perfectly smooth, add a teaspoonful of lemon extract and bake in a shallow tin, lined with buttered paper, for twenty minutes to half an hour, in steady oven, being careful not to open the oven door suddenly upon it. Powdered sugar sifted thickly over the top just before baking, improves its appearance, or you can cover it with icing. Cut in square blocks.—Boston Budget.

GREASE IN CARPETS.
You Can Remove It If You Use Ether as Chloroform.

In the weaving of pile fabrics a little oil is occasionally used to facilitate the movement of the wires, and this oil, less weaver may in handling the oil can allow a few drops to fall on the fabric. No mark of this may appear at the time, but when the carpet is on the floor the dust which would otherwise be swept off by the broom is attracted and held by the oil, and a spot becomes visible. When the spot is on or near the edge of a breadth there is another explanation. Sometimes the cars in which carpeting is carried south or west have been previously used for the transportation of oil, and the bottoms of these cars are liable to become saturated with the drippings and leakage of oil barrels. Wooden carpeting placed in such cars may absorb the oil, and the fact may not become evident to the dealer until a carpet so damaged has been laid on a floor or shown in his salesrooms often enough to catch some dust. When such spots appear in ingrain one explanation may be that the wool was not properly scoured. But of course, in most instances where complaints concerning spots are made, the cause need not be looked for outside the house in which the carpet is laid. Children or careless servants are responsible for most of these spots as well as for a great deal of the "sprouting." Fortunately the remedy for the trouble is simple. A mixture consisting of equal portions of chloroform and ether will remove the spots at once.—Carpet Trade Review.

Charming Costumes.
Very pretty light-weight silk—sarah, mervillous, satin, bengaline, etc. polka dotted with silk of contrasting color, make charming toilets with a skirt and a low-cut corselet of the dotted silk, and a glimpse of plain sarah or China silk the color of the dot. A pretty costume of fawn-colored sarah, dotted with pale mauve, has a bell skirt of the goods, with a tiny pinked ruche at the foot of pleated mauve sarah. The corselet is quite low and pointed front and back, and to be worn with it is a glimpse of plain mauve sarah with full long sleeves with cuffs and collar of the seeded silk; scraps of mauve moire ribbon go over the shoulders from the corselet, with graceful bows at the top. A black-satin sarah dotted with gold and gray with rose-color, and a soft doe-color China silk seeded with vivid Roman red were severely made up in similar fashion, black lace in two instances being substituted for ruffles. Olive-green velvet ribbon was dotted with gold effect on a dress of shot silk, dressed with old rose.—N. Y. Post.

For Brushing Gowns.
A bit of old crape is the best thing for dusting one's gowns. The ordinary brush used for the purpose is death and destruction to silk, passementerie or any of the soft materials in use nowadays. Silk every particle of dust off with the crape, whose corrugated surface will make the job an easy one, and then, if there is a good deal of heading, use the trimming, lay between sheets of tissue paper, where nothing will rub against it; for passementerie with some of the beads missing or with the gloss gone, is the most distressing spectacle imaginable. If a brush must be used get a soft camel's hair one, and use it with a light, quick motion as sparingly as possible.—Household.
