CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

Sam Jones Coming a Third Time—Petty Patent Case—Shooting in Muhlenberg—A Housebreaker Caught—The L. & N. Wins a Lawsuit.

Shooting in Muhlenberg County, Owensboro Messenger.

News reached the city only Tuesday of a sensational shooting in Muhlenberg county last Friday. For some time past a man named Invey, a stove buyer from Rockport, had been boarding at the house of Alex Vick four miles south of Greenville. Invey paid court to Vick's daughter and wanted to marry her. Vick objected to the match and drove Invey away from the house, forbidding him ever to set foot on the place again or see his daughter. Invey went away and returned again on Friday to get his trunk containing his clothing and other effects. Vick met him and warned him not to go in the house. Invey went anyhow and was putting some clothing in his trunk when Vick came in with a shotgun and fired. The full charge of shot entered Invey's breast. At last reports he was barely alive, and it is thought by the physician that he cannot recover.

Vick was arrested and is now in jail at Greenville awaiting the result of Invey's injuries.

An L. & N. Victory.

Several days of the week were consumed at Bowling Green in the trial of an important suit against the L. & N. R. Co. for damages, brought by Charley O'Dell for injuries received while in the employ of the company as a brakeman. The petition alleged that in December, 1893, while in the discharge of his duty at Guthrie, he was seriously injured by the gross negligence and carelessness of the railroad company. In attempting to step from one freight car to another they separated and let him fall. He claims that the cars were not properly coupled or the accident would not have happened and that the company's neglect to have them properly coupled caused his injuries. He asked for damages in the sum of $10,000. The jury settled the matter by bringing in a verdict for the defendant.

Lower Court Affirmed

The Court of Appeals Tuesday, in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ebenezer Petty, from Christian county, on the ground that the constitution of the United States secures a limit to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries, held that the Legislature of Kentucky could not pass a law requiring a license tax from such patentees, who is attempting to dispose of his right of territory. This does not include however, the right to tax the products of the patent.

Pete Baker, Feb. 5.

The talented German comedian, Pete Baker, in the new Chris and Lena, will appear at Holland's Opera House on Tuesday evening, Feb. 5. Mr. Baker is too well known to the theatre goers of Hopkinsville to need at extended notice from us at this time. It is safe to say that he will play to a crowded house, as he is one of the most popular stars who ever appeared in this city.

Sam Jones Coming Again.

It is definitely settled that Sam Jones will be in Hopkinsville in March to hold a meeting in the Tabernacle, and will be accompanied by Stuart and Exwell. The exact date of the meeting has not been fixed, but will be announced in two or three weeks.

Captured a Tennesseean.

Chief Fritz arrested Jules Boston, col., of Clarksville, Wednesday, and Chief Stafford, of the latter place, was telephoned and came over after his man the same night, returning yesterday. Boston is wanted on a charge of house breaking.

The Hawkins Meeting.

The revival at the Christian church still continues with services morning and night. Large crowds attend each service and the interest is unabated. Dr. Hawkins is a preacher of acknowledge ability and eloquence. There have been several accessions to the church so far.

Work for the Grand Jury.

In the case of the three colored prisoners charged with breaking open the pantry of Mr. W. H. Fyke, in this city, Saturday night last, Judge Hanberry decided to hold them all over until the grand jury could look into the matter. Their bonds were fixed at $100 each, and as they were not promptly forthcoming they were returned to prison.

DEATHS.

FELAND.—Mr. Samuel Feland, one of the oldest citizens of the county, died on the 21st inst. at the home of his son near this city, aged 84 years. He was the father of Hon. John Feland and Dr. Wm. Feland. The funeral and burial took place Tuesday and the interment followed at Hope-well cemetery. Hon. John Feland and Mr. John Feland jr. and Mrs. Jno Gilmour, of Owensboro, were present.

BOLINGER.—Mr. Jno. T. Bolinger, one of the wealthiest men in Mayfield, dropped dead on the street in that place last Saturday. He was well-known in this part of the State.

McGUIRE.—Mr. Robert L. McGuire one among the most popular business men of Trenton, died Tuesday morning of typhoid fever, after an illness of only about two weeks. Mr. McGuire had been engaged in the furniture business for a number of years at Trenton, and was well and favorably known throughout the country.

Judge John Allen Murray, of Cloverport, Ky., died Jan. 21, aged 55 years. Judge Murray was a grandson of Col. John Allen, who was killed at the battle of the River Raisin, Mich., in 1813. His father was Col. David R. Murray, who was one of the most respected merchants in the early history of Kentucky. His mother, who was so well known as Mrs. Henry Crittenden, came of a family that figured prominently in Kentucky and adjacent States. He was a half brother to the Hon. T. T. Crittenden, who is an ex-Governor of Missouri and is at present United States Consul General at the City of Mexico. His brothers are the Hon. David R. Murray, of Cloverport; Mr. Logan C. Murray, of Louisville and Gen. Eli H. Murray, who was once Collector of Customs for the Louisville district, became the Governor of Utah, and is now residing in San Diego, Cal. A wife and seven children survive Judge Murray. The eldest son, David Murray, is prominently connected with the Rocky Mountain Telephone Company.

BLAKEMORE.—Mr. Alex Blakemore, a brother of Maj. W. T. Blakemore, died in Louisville, Tuesday.

DIXON.—Robert Dixon, Jr., died at Henderson, Tuesday.

COLORED.

SHEROD.—Elias Sherod died in this city Tuesday of consumption, aged 60 years.

Col. Wm. L. Clark, of Nashville, died suddenly last Saturday in that city. He was a relative of Rev. W. L. Nourse, of this city. Growing out of the report of his death, it was circulated on the streets here Wednesday that Mr. Wm. W. Clarke, of Owensboro, was dead. This was quickly corrected, however, by the KENTUCKIAN'S bulletin.

Nothing has been found out to establish the identity of the German shoemaker who was killed near Crofton Saturday night. It was certainly not Sam Roudseau, of this city.

Two young men are in the city working up a trade review of the business interests, which will be issued early in February. It will be profusely illustrated.

The Asylum Board of Commissioners will hold a special meeting in the city to day to discuss the lack of finances and consider plans for borrowing money.

The meat house of Dr. Schmidt, a farmer living a few miles south of the city, was destroyed by fire, last Saturday. His loss is about $100.

ALL WERE KILLED.

MIDNIGHT EXPLOSION IN THE SLOPE AT STURGIS.

Not One Man of the Five Escapes to Tell the Tale—Four Widows and Seventeen Children Left Unprovided For—Cause of the Accident.

DEKOVEN, Ky., Jan 23—An explosion in a coal mine caused by the igniting of gas occurred south of here, near Sturgis, at 12 o'clock last night, and of the five men who were working in the slope not one is left to tell the story of the awful death under ground.

About midnight last night a tremendous shock, carrying with it a muffled roar, awoke everybody in the neighborhood, and a party of citizens rushed in the direction of the sound.

The debris about the old Tate slope, from which an opening was being driven into the Sturgis shaft, soon pointed out the nature and spot of the disaster. Lights were procured and a relief party started into the hole of death to rescue, if possible, the unhappy occupants. Having got through the mass of coal, slate, wrecked cars, etc., left by the explosion, the relief crew came upon the bodies of two dead mules, which were used in the mines, and their worst fears were about to be realized. Loud shouts into the dark pit received no reply, and the stillness of death reigned in the rooms whence a foul odor of gas and powder came.

At the face of the entry, where a wall of coal of about one hundred yards divided them from the men who were working toward them from the shaft, the five miners of the slope side were found in various positions, all dead and nearly all badly burned. The eyeballs of several protruded from their sockets, and the bodies presented a sickening scene.

The dead men are as follows: James Coffee, aged twenty-one, married.

William Walton, aged fifty, large family.

Robert Hall, aged forty, large family.

Al Hall, aged twenty, unmarried.

Miles Fitzsimmons, aged forty-five, large family.

The explosion was so great that it cracked the roof of the mine near the entrance.

When the charred remains of the victims were brought out and recognized by their families their cries and lamentations were heartrending.

Not a few miners think the explosion was caused by dust, but the general opinion is that the gas, which accumulated in the rooms while the mines were abandoned, was rushed forward by the falling of heavy slate into the main opening and there ignited by the lamps of the miners.

Three kegs of powder, one of which was opened were found in the mine, the two unopened kegs being exploded and the one exposed being untouched.

The mines have been working day and night, using a double force, the object being to drive north and south from the shaft and the late slope thus joining the mines together.

Disturbed Their Prayers.

Phinis E. McElroy, of Kelly, was tried before E. q. Myers, at Crofton, Tuesday, on a charge of disturbing public worship, and fined $20 and costs.

Col. Carroll C. Wright has contributed to the February Forum an article entitled "Steps toward Government Control of Railroads" showing how the Chicago strike emphasized the need of legislation for the regulation of strikes, and how it is also a factor in producing the changes in Federal law which are now going on and which tend to government control of railroads.

Mort Powell a lumberman weighing 259 pounds, has agreed to fight a wildcat weighing 27 pounds, in Powell county tomorrow, for $25. The cat has killed as many as seven dogs in one fight and has killed 60 dog all told.

Rev. J. Marston, who eloped with Miss Lizzie Enbanks of Beech Grove, Ky., about a month ago, is missing. His wife was in Madisonville last week hunting for him but could hear nothing of him.
