NAMES OF COUNTRIES.

The Meaning of Some Which Are Most Commonly Known.

Everybody knows the origin of the name America, but not so many are aware that Europe means broadface in Greek; that Asia is the land of the dawn; and that Africa comes from a Phoenician word, meaning a black man, and is literally "the land of the blacks."

The origin of the name Canada is unknown. Mexico comes from nextil, the Aztec war god. Honduras means deep water; Costa Rica, rich coast; and Nicaragua, sweet water. Venezuela, meaning little Venice, was so named because some of its people built their houses over the water, as the Venetians did.

Britain is a word of uncertain origin. The name may come from the Celtic britii, painted, applied to the inhabitants, because they painted their bodies; or from the Phoenician baratanic, the land of tin, because the Phoenicians visited Cornwall for tin.

The German Franks, who settled among the Celtic tribes of Gaul, gave their name to France, themselves deriving it from franca, a kind of spear with which they were armed. Belgium takes its name from the Belgae, who possessed one of the three parts of "All Gaul" in Caesar's time.

The name Germany is of uncertain origin. By some it is supposed to be derived from Deshermania, the name of a region in Central Asia.

The name Germany is of uncertain origin. By some it is supposed to be derived from Deshermania, the name of a region in Central Asia. The Germania, a tribe whose name means "followers of Buddha," lived in Persia in the days of Herodotus.

Turkey means tributary people; Persia, the land of brightness; Arabia, the district of the desert man; Hindustan, fixed dwelling place; Siam, dark land, from the color of the soil, and Ceylon, lions. Japan is a corruption of Zipangu, the name of the country as given by Marco Polo.

The derivation of Egypt is unknown. Morocco is the territory of the Moors, and Barbary that of the Berbers. "The Desert of Sahara" is a needless repetition, for Sahara means desert. Gibraltar is "the mountain of Tarif," who, with a Saracen army, built a castle on the rock in the eighth century.

A Neighborly Suggestion.

SHERLOCK HOLMES, JR.

By Wonderful Reasoning He Effects the Capture of a Bicycle Thief.

"Hah!" exclaimed Sherlock Holmes, Jr., the great bicycle thief-catcher, "yonder goes our man. You say the wheel that was stolen from you was a 72 gear, with ram's horn handlebars?"

"Yes," replied the man who had been robbed. "Good," said Holmes. "That is the kind yonder fellow rides. I can see at a glance, too, that he uses a stolen wheel."

"Wonderful!" his companion ejaculated. "How is it possible for you to tell all this by merely glancing at him?"

"Easy enough, my dear sir, if you know how," the great detective answered. "Look at his hands. You see they are sunburned only upon the bony surface just above the thumbs. If he used the old style handlebars his hands would be sunburned all over the backs."

"Most extraordinary deduction I ever heard of," said the citizen. "Now," continued Sherlock Holmes, Jr., "notice his walk. You see it is just an ordinary gait. If he rode a low-gear machine he would move with quick, nervous steps. On the other hand, if his wheel was high-geared, his steps would be slow and firm. But he walks along in just a common way, hence the bicycle that he rides is a medium gear."

"This is simply astonishing," declared the man at the detective's side. "Now tell me how you would know that the fellow rides a stolen wheel."

The great thief-catcher drew a long puff from his cigarette, permitted the smoke to circulate freely through his lungs for about a minute and a half, and then replied: "Look at his nose."

"His nose?" exclaimed the other. "Surely you can't tell whether a man is a thief or not by simply looking at his nose?"

"Not in all cases," Holmes responded, "but in such cases as this it is the simplest thing in the world. You see the end of his nose has been exposed to the sun. It has just begun to peel off. Well, what does that signify? Merely this, my dear sir; the fellow has not dared to buy a cap, for fear of rousing suspicion, so he has been getting along with a common hat, with the result that I have pointed out."

The wonderful man then walked up to the thief, clapped a pair of handcuffs upon him, when the evidence, as set forth here, was in court, there was nothing left for the culprit but to confess and receive his sentence of imprisonment at hard labor for life—Cleveland Leader.

A MISLEADING SIGN.

Well-Known Actor Has His Joke on an Undertaker.

Whenever the elder Sothern arrived at a town one of his first means of diversion was to stroll about the streets and have fun with the natives. He was in Chicago during her early days, and one day he saw a sign over an undertaker's establishment which read: "Everything Furnished for First-class Funerals."

Going inside, he inquired: "Do you furnish everything for funerals?" "Yes, sir," replied the clerk. "Then I want a casket."

He described the kind and the order was recorded. "Do you want carriages?" "Yes; have five carriages ready." "Yes, sir. Anything else?" "Three dozen chairs." "Anything else?" "You might have a hearse ready." "Is that all?"

"Why, no; you couldn't have a funeral with only carriages, hearse and casket. Now I would like to look at the corpse." "Like to look at the corpse? I don't understand."

"I want to see what kind of a corpse you can furnish and know what the price will be." The clerk was amazed. "You advertise to furnish everything for a funeral, don't you?" said Sothern. "Well, you can't have a funeral without a corpse."

The sign had been altered when Sothern passed the following day.—Chicago Journal.

Feat of an Athlete.

A young college athlete at Richmond Hill, Long Island, saved two lives the other day by making a leap of six feet through the air and striking with his shoulder a man and a woman who stood on the edge of a railroad track, with a train almost on them. The shock threw them to the ground just over the edge of the track and barely in time.

High Bridges.

Germany's highest bridge is over the Wuppenthal at Mungsten, near Remscheid, back of Elberfeld. It is 360 feet high and 1,630 feet long, the central arch having a span of 530 feet. The only higher bridge in Europe is the Garabit viaduct, 405 feet high, in southern France. The Mungsten bridge was opened for railway traffic on July 1.

Sometimes a burglar only succeeds in damaging the lock of a safe so that the combination won't work.

Next morning the bank officers can't get at their own money. There may be millions in the safe, but if their credit depended on getting at it in a hurry they would be bankrupt, simply because the combination won't work.

A sick man is in very much the same fix about getting at the nourishment he needs to keep him alive. There is plenty of good food at hand, but the digestive organism is out of order; the nutritive "combination" of his system won't work. He can't possibly get at the nourishment contained in the food. He takes it into his stomach, but it does him no good. It isn't made into good blood. He is just as badly off as if the food was locked up where he couldn't touch it. He gets no strength or health out of it.

All these mal-nutritive conditions have a perfect and scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the nutritive "combination" of the system into perfect working order. It gives the digestive and blood-making organs power to make pure, red, healthy blood, and pour it into the circulation abundantly and rapidly.

It drives out all bilious poisons and scrofulous germs, cures indigestion, liver complaint, nervousness and neuralgia, and builds up solid flesh, active power and nerve force.

Mrs. Rebecca F. Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "I was so sick with dyspepsia that I could not eat anything for over four months. I tried to starve myself, as nothing would stay on my stomach. I was so badly off I could not eat even a cracker. I thought I was going to die. I weighed only 80 pounds. I tried almost everything, and nothing did me any good, until I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I am now as well as I ever was, and weigh 125 pounds."
