HOWLING SUCCESS

is the Great Free Street Fair Now in Progress.

Thousands of People Attend Each Day and There is Fun Enough For All.

The big free street fair is in full blast and it is a whopper. The crowds surpass all calculations. It is estimated that 10,000 people were present at the opening Wednesday. At least 5,000 were here yesterday, and to-day and tomorrow will probably break all records in Hopkinsville.

Twenty or thirty booths on either side make Main street look like the Midway Plaisance at the World's Fair. The streets are worth coming miles to see. The fair is a revelation to everybody. It is a success that would do credit to a city of 20,000.

The Free Shows.

The free entertainments prove to be great attractions to the thousands who throng the streets. The entire program is carried out three times a day.

The Balloon Ascensions.

Miss Ida Le Roy, the aeronaut, gives the star performance of the day. She goes up at 2:30 each day and descends with a parachute.

The little lady had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday. She came down on a wire fence near the I. C. turntable and was scratched and bruised in her efforts to avoid it and one ankle was sprained. She soon recovered and was able to go up again yesterday.

The ascent to-day will be her 154th ascension. She has been in the business for five years. In a conversation with a KENTUCKIAN reporter she declared that there was a fascination in the danger of her business that was the principal attraction to her. She is thoroughly in love with her calling.

Miss Belmont, the trapeze artist; Mardello, the Contortionist; the Belmonts in the flying rings; Speido with his flying perch; Delano in his mid-air work, and Slackey, the rope performer are all artists in their special lines.

The parade moved in the following order:

Forbes & Bro's traction engine drawing a car containing 25 of the firm's 230 employees. Mayor Dabney and other city officers in a carriage.

Mrs. Max J. Moayan's private trap, competing for the prize. In it were Mrs. Moayan, Mrs. S. A. Edmunds and Miss Westwood Green. It was decorated in yellow roses and green vines and yellow ribbons and was very beautiful.

Two other carriages containing city officials and members of the Press came next.

Five floats of Forbes & Bro., representing as many departments of their business, manned by employees.

Mr. E. D. Jones drove a dilapidated old farm wagon with the date "1871" on the side, this was closely followed by a "1900 Megul wagon."

Ragsdale, Cooper & Co., had a float representing hogsheads of tobacco gaily decorated.

The most attractive of all the floats was that of Gant & Slayden. It was in the form of a pyramid and was beautifully decorated. Some of the prettiest girls of three counties rode upon it. Miss Mamie Massie was Queen of the carnival and the other ladies were as follows:

Misses Mary Herndon, Flora Gunn, Willie Rust, Ethel Gunn, Eloise Nelson, Marie Gardner, Myrtle Lindsey, Nannie Byars, Fannie Wash, Ritchie Burnett, Minnie Armistead and Mrs. George E. Gary. Six out-riders were dressed in suits of black with white knee trousers. They were Messrs. D. W. Kitchen, G. B. Nelson, I. F. Campbell, John P. Burnett, T. L. Morrow and T. L. Gant.

A number of decorated wagons followed, representing Wallis Grocery, the Steam Laundry, etc.

Dagg & Richards had a very handsome float, showing the workmanship of their own employes in the cabinet department, with a gasoline engine in operation, turning machinery.

Woodridge & Chappell, Acme Mills Co, Crescent Mills, Kitchen & Waller and other firms were also appropriately represented.

Jas. E. Cooper's turnout competed for the prize for the handsomest vehicle in line. His elegant new trap was decorated in American Beauty roses, vines and satin ribbons to match. Mr. Cooper, Mrs. N. D. Petty, Mr. Robt. Buckner and Miss Roberta Green rode in the rig, which was awarded the prize competed for.

The Street Parade formed at Ninth and Virginia and traversed the principal streets of the city, and there were cheers along the line whenever it appeared. This feature of the fair was a distinct success.

There are quite a number of side shows, some located in the streets and others in store-rooms. All seem to be doing a good business.

One show had to be suppressed by the city authorities on account of the immoral tendencies. This was done in very short order and the proprietor fined $75 and his license canceled. The fair ordinance expressly prohibited anything unclean and the show in question was warned in advance that it would be held strictly in the bounds of propriety. The manager claimed that it was a decent show, but it turned out to be a regular "Hoochee Coochee" and was stopped inside of two hours, or as soon as its character was learned. The mayor is determined to see that the ordinances are enforced to the letter.

The Prize Winners.

Best industrial display in parade, Forbes & Bro.

Most attractive float, Gant & Slayden.

Most handsomely decorated trap, Jas. E. Cooper.

Handsomest booths—Sam Frankel, first; Forbes & Bro. second and J. H. Anderson & Co. third.

NO ELECTION.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Fill a Good Man's Shoes.

An unsuccessful attempt was made at prayer meeting Wednesday night at the Baptist church to elect Mr. E. M. Flack as the representative of the Baptist church in the Union Tabernacle directory, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. W. W. Ware. Flack was nominated by Mr. R. M. Anderson and Mr. W. T. Tandy was nominated by Dr. Eager. Mr. Tandy suggested that the matter be postponed. Prof. E. Harrison supported the motion, which was voted down. Mr. J. C. Woodridge then stopped any further proceedings with a motion to adjourn, which was carried.

The Democrats in the church probably thought Mr. Flack was sufficiently burdened with official duties already, as he holds two offices now under Republican administrations and is running for Councilman in opposition to the Democratic nominee.

INVITED TO LYON.

Hopkinsville Democrat Wanted in Another County

Mr. James B. Allensworth has been invited to make several speeches in Lyon county and will accept the invitation and fill such appointments as may be made for him after the 20th. Mr. Allensworth is a fine stump speaker and is doing effective work in the present campaign in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

UPON TWO CHARGES

Very little business has been before the City Court since our last report. Herbert Callis, col., was tried on two charges, drunkenness and using profane language, and fined $5 and costs in each case. He was sent to the work house.
