REMARKABLE TOWN.

Six Thousand Inhabitants * Of Pelzer. S. S., Under Rule.

No Newspaper, No Courts, Lawyers, No Saloons and No Police.

Probably the most remarkable town in the United States is Pelzer, S. C. Though a flourishing, progressive business center, with a population of over 6,000, it has no city government, no Councils, no Mayor and no police. In spite of this extraordinary condition of affairs, the city has the reputation of being one of the best regulated cities in the country.

This strange city has been in existence seventeen years and presents one of the most interesting phases of the study of the municipal problem that ever confronted the student. It has no newspaper, no courts, no lawyers, no saloons, no theaters, no politicians, and in the entire population of 6,000 not one face is black. There is no private ownership, everything in the city, land, buildings and manufacturing industries belonging exclusively to the great corporation which established the town.

In its entire history of seventeen years there has never been a single murder committed, and the city has never experienced a strike or any kind of labor disturbances. The antecedents of all persons coming into the town as residents and employes are carefully investigated, and only those bearing untarnished reputations are permitted to remain.

The town has several fine schools, there are a free circulating library and reading rooms, which are free to every resident. The citizens are industrious and thrifty, and in the only bank in the town have invested over $100,000 of their savings.

One man has supreme authority over the entire town and its inhabitants, and no potentate of Europe is vested with more peremptory powers. This man is the President of the company which founded and owns the town.

At present Mr. Ellison A. Smyth is the autocrat to preside over the destinies of Pelzer citizens and their interests. Mr. Smyth has assistants, but full power is vested in him for the conduct of the city.

When interviewed for the Mail and Express recently, Mr. Smyth remarked:

"Our system does away with all the evils of politics and office-seeking. Of course, you might argue that it vests a great deal of power in the hands of one man and that the abuse of this authority might result in dangerous conditions. There is a certain element of truth in that, but we have been living under this system for seventeen years, and our city is one of the best governed in the country. Our citizens are not burdened with exorbitant taxes, neither are they compelled to maintain useless and expensive office-holders. Every one in Pelzer must work for a living, and time-serving politicians and those who live at the expense of other people give our town a wide berth. It is to this fact that I describe a great measure of our success, for I am firmly convinced that most of the lawlessness which exists in great cities proceeds directly from the pernicious influence of the politicians.

"While Pelzer is essentially a cotton town, this is not our only industry. There are, besides the four great cotton mills, an oil mill, a broom and mattress company and a savings bank. The Pelzer Manufacturing Company bears all the expenses incident to the operation of the city, and does all the municipal work required, including lighting, the sanitary work and the street cleaning and repairing. Eight hours is the limit of a day's work, and we keep Saturday half-holiday the year round.

"Our employes occupy some nine hundred or more cottages, built for them by the company, and each is surrounded by a large garden.

"Large pastures are maintained for the cattle, which the people own and which consist of cows, horses, sheep and goats. Many of our citizens own their own horses and vehicles.

"The public school system is highly efficient, and the schools are kept open ten months in the year. Those who work at the mills are required to leave their work at some stated time each week in order to receive instruction. Education is compulsory, and our system includes all grades. Every effort is made to combine the educational and the practical, and all those students who manifest particular aptitude are selected for advanced educational courses. Women are furnished the same facilities as men.

"We have no local newspaper, and we don't want any. Our reading rooms subscribe to twenty-five leading dailies, which are sent here from all the prominent cities, and contain all the information that is necessary to keep our people in touch with the outside world. We have no law courts, because we don't need any. Our citizens live in peace and friendship. They do not quarrel; they have no financial claims against each other, and the trifling occasional differences which occur I am able to decide myself. If we allowed one lawyer to live here, another would soon move in to fight him, and the result would soon be discord. We have no Aldermen, no courts, no municipal councils, no police. The residents keep the peace and get along comfortably without them. We have no drunkenness, because we don't permit liquor within the city limits, and drunkenness furnishes more than half the business of a police force."

We propose to give the farmers in insurance for about one half that is now being charged by other companies. THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Said to Be The Power Behind the Tennessee Central Railway.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Rumor has it that the Illinois Central is back of the building of the Tennessee Central railway. While confirmation of the rumor could not be obtained to-day, it was not emphatically denied by the officials of the company located here. The Tennessee Central is being constructed from Harriman, Tenn., to Hopkinsville, Ky., on the Princeton branch of the Illinois Central, a distance of 210 miles. Among other cities it runs through Crossville, Smithville, Sparta, Nashville and Clarksville, and from Emory Gap there will be a branch running south to Kingston, a distance of six miles. Its main connection is the Queen and Crescent route at Harriman Junction.

Nearly every foot of the country through which the line will run is rich in deposits of iron ore and coal, which will give the road plenty of freight. The line is being constructed with a view to economical operation and good speed. It is expected that the grading will be completed as far as Monterey by September.

In connection with its new ventures the Illinois Central is to open its Little Rock service about August 30.
