NINETY-SIX BILLS.

Thirteen of Them Against Prominent Republicans.

County Officers Among Those Indicted—Liquor Men Hit Hard.

The grand jury that adjourned Wednesday afternoon after a session of 15 days has left behind it a record as a working body seldom equaled in the county. W. W. Radford, an energetic young farmer of Howell, was the foreman and the way he turned out business has established a record that future grand juries will find it hard to equal.

He took Judge Cook at his word when the court directed an investigation of election frauds and summoned witnesses from both parties to testify in regard to violations of the law. The result is that thirteen indictments were returned against prominent Republicans, white and colored, for all sorts of violations of the much abused election law. Commonwealth's Attorney Howell has shown commendable activity in uncovering these offenses and is determined to break up these violations of law by a vigorous prosecution. He says the indictments returned by no means represent the full extent of corruption disclosed. At least 20 indictments for fraudulent registration and false swearing, against white and black Republicans, might have been returned, but there was not time to handle the mass of testimony brought before the grand jury without taking another week. Much of this evidence will come out, he says, in the trials of the parties indicted, and the public will be astounded at the disclosures.

The following list shows that some of the most prominent Republicans in the county have been indicted:

- Jno. P. Prowse, making false registration book precinct No. 1.
- Jno. P. Prowse, same, precinct No. 3.
- Jno. P. Prowse, interfering with election in precinct No. 1.
- Polk Cansler, same.
- Elbert Wiley and John Wicks, same.
- V. M. Williamson, unlawfully opening ballot box and obtaining ballots.
- Elbert Wiley and John Wicks, aiding and abetting above offense.
- Jordan Barker, col., interfering with school election Oct. 6, 1900.
- John Knight, col., same offense.
- Henry Quarles, col., minor, false swearing to vote.
- Chas. Shelby, col., illegal registration.
- Lucian Wilcox, col., false swearing.
- Lucien Bowling, col., false swearing.

The indictments against County Clerk Prowse, Judge Cansler and the other white men are the outgrowth of the irregularities of the court house precinct last year that resulted in invalidating the election in that precinct. The indictments were found on the testimony of several prominent citizens.

The indictments against Simon Wilcox and Chas. Shelby are examples of numerous others that might have been found. Wilcox registered at the supplementary registration by affidavit and Shelby appeared upon the books as registered in one ward when he lived in another. The other colored men were indicted on the testimony of colored witnesses, the alleged offenses having been committed in the election of a colored school trustee last Saturday.

Other Court Matters.

In addition to the above indictments, 41 others were returned this week. A large number of these are against the saloon men for viola-

A SCENE IN COURT.

Youtsey Acts Life a Crazy Man and Says Goebel is Not Dead.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 11.—There was a scene in the court Tuesday night that was intensely dramatic while it lasted. Arthur Goebel was put on the stand to testify regarding a conversation he had with Youtsey soon after the arrest of the latter. He said that he had talked on the subject of the killing of his brother, but before he could give any of the conversation Youtsey jumped up, and waving his hands wildly, said, "It is not true; it is a lie. I never spoke a word to that man in my life."

All efforts to quiet him were fruitless until the deputy sheriffs forced him to a seat. His wife arose and stood by him and said to Arthur Goebel, "Now you have killed my husband. I hope you are satisfied." Youtsey cried out, "I am innocent. There is no blood on my hands. These men are trying to swear my life away."

When he was at last reduced to quiet by the deputy sheriffs the prisoner moaned and said, "Goebel is not dead. All the demons in hell could not kill him." By this time the excitement had thoroughly overcome him, and the court was compelled to adjourn. Youtsey was carried to the jail being unable to walk. He spent the night in a critical condition.

The attorneys Youtsey appeared in court yesterday and asked for a postponement of the case, which was granted until this morning at 9 o'clock. The defendant was in a stupor nearly all day yesterday, and was constantly attended by two physicians. The general belief is that Youtsey was only temporarily unbalanced, and that he is not insane. Belief in his guilt is growing since his actions Tuesday night. Youtsey's attorneys, it is believed, will keep up their fight to delay the case, but nothing but a serious change for the worse in the defendant's condition will prevent a trial.

BROKE HIS NECK.

L. & N. Brakeman Fleets Instant Death Near Nortonville.

Henry Lockett, an L. & N. brakeman on the local run between this city and Earlington, fell from his train Wednesday afternoon, near Nortonville, and broke his neck, death being instantaneous.

He was sitting on top of the cupola of the caboose when the wind blew off his hat and it is thought that in making an effort to catch it he fell.

Lockett was about 25 years old and unmarried. His home was in Henderson. He served in the Spanish-American war, and on returning engaged in railroading.

FIGHT WITH A BIRD.

Young Lady's Encounter With a Hungry Hawk.

Miss Ollie Carter, of Pee Dee, had an exciting encounter with a big hawk Wednesday. Hearing a commotion among the chickens she went out and found that the hawk had caught one too large to fly away with and was on the ground with it. She bravely caught the hawk, when it closed its claws upon her hand. With great presence of mind the young lady ran into the house still holding the bird and her mother caught it by the head and helped to kill it and released Miss Carter's hand. Her injury is painful but not serious.

FLORIDA'S ORANGE CROP.

Prospects That It Will Be Larger Than Any Year Since 1884.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 9.—Well informed railroad men and fruit growers say Florida's coming orange crop has prospects of being larger than any year since 1884. Fully 1,000,000 boxes will be shipped. The fruit is selling fast at $2 per box on the trees.
