For Malaria, Chills and Fever

THE BEST PRESCRIPTION IS

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The formula is plainly printed on every bottle—hence you know just what you are taking when you take Grove's. Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called Tasteless Chill Tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

HARRISON ON THE COLONIES.

Again Throws Out the Hint He Doesn't Agree With Admiration.

At the Columbia club banquet Gen. Harrison responded to the sentiment of "Hail Columbia." He had furnished advance copies of his speech but included the following paragraphs which were not included in the advanced copy. "It has been recently said that our fathers organized a misshapen nation. If these limitations and reservations apply to all lands that become a part of our public domain and to all peoples whose allegiance we accept. Now, whatever the professors of aesthetics may tell us about beauty in the abstract, we know that in nature and mechanics and in formative statecraft such a principle has chiefly to do with an intended use. That which accomplishes the designed use is not misshapen. Orators are misshapen eagles, as all of us have found when we tried to soar! And so, before we condemn our constitution as misshapen, if it carries its general limitations and its reservations of personal rights to all lands over which its sway extends and to all people who owe allegiance to the government it organizes, we must assume that the men of 1776 and of 1777 contemplated the governing of lands and peoples with that absolutism against which so much cost and care they had defended themselves. That is to beg the question. But it is not my purpose to press upon you my views upon this great constitutional question. Though many of you may hold another view. I do not doubt that the republican liberty to differ on a constitutional question survives in the Columbia club."

ARMOURS BUY SALT ABROAD.

Send to Portugal to Escape the High Price of the Trust in America.

A large shipment of salt from Lisbon, Portugal, for the Armour Packing company has just begun to arrive in Kansas City. Thirty-five cars have reached there and twenty-five cars are on the way. Each car is loaded with from thirty-five to forty tons of the salt, all in bulk. The purchase abroad of this enormous quantity of salt by the Armour company was provoked by the high prices demanded by the salt trust in this country. Salt might have been bought from the Hutchinson (Kas.) companies. The Armour company uses about fifteen carloads a week. James Ferrell, purchasing agent for the company, said:

"Prices are now $6 a ton, a figure so high that we were forced to do something desperate to escape the payment of it. Instead of buying salt at a point 210 miles from Kansas City we have sent more than 5,000 miles to another country for it, and after paying steamer and freight rates and a custom duty of 8 cents a hundred, we are still able to save money. This shows what an outrageous profit the salt trust makes in this country."

CENTURY POEM.

Read by Edison Markham in New York.

We stand here at the end of mighty years, And a great wonder rushes on the heart. While cities rose and blossomed into dust, While shadowy lines of kings were blown to air, What was the purpose brooding on the world Through the large leisure of the centuries? And what the end—failure or victory? Lo! man has laid his scepter on the stars, And sent his spell upon the continents; The heavens confess their secrets, and the stones, Silent as God, publish their mystery. Man calls the lightnings from their secret place To crumple up the spaces of the world, And snatch the jewels from the dying hours, The wild white smoking horses of the sea Are startled by his thunders; the world powers Crowd round to be the lackeys of the king. His hand has torn the veil of the great law— The law that was made before the worlds, before That far first whisper on the ancient deep, The law that swings Arcturus on the north And hurls the soul of man upon the way, But what avail, O builders of the world, Unless ye build a safety for the soul? Man has put harness on Leviathan And hooks in his incorrigible jaws, And yet the perils of the street remain. Out of the whirlwind of the cities rise Lean Hunger and the Worm of Misery, The heartbreak and the cry of mortal tears. But, hark! the bugles blowing on the peaks! And, hark! a murmur as of many feet, The cry of captains, the divine alarm; Look, the last son of Time comes hurrying on, The strong, young Titan of Democracy; With swinging step he takes the open road, In love with the winds that beat his hairy breast Baring his sunburnt strength to all the world. He casts his eyes around with Jovian glance, Searches the tracks of the old tradition, scans With rebel heart the books of pedigree, Peers into the face of Privilege and cries: "Why are you halting in the path of man? Is it your shoulder bears the human load? "Do you draw down the reins of the sweet heaven And keep the green things growing? * * * Back to hell." We know at last the future is secure; God is descending from eternity, And all things, good and evil, build the road, Yes, down in the thick of things the men of greed Are thumping the inhospitable clay. By wondrous toils the men without the dream, Led onward by a soothing unaware, Are laying the foundations of the dream— The kingdom of fraternity foretold.
