Obituary.

At ten o'clock Tuesday morning, Nov. 19, 1901, the angel of death entered the home of Mr. John Wood and claimed for its victim his beautiful daughter, Minnie. She was 18 years old, just entering upon the broad ocean of life's duties. At the time of her death she was a member of the Sinking Fork Baptist church, with which she had united about three years ago.

Thus has passed from this life, to the heavenly, one of the purest and noblest of girls, kind and affectionate, patient and never complaining.

"No one knew her but to love her.
"No one named her but to praise."

The losing of a loved one seems to bring heaven nearer to us, making it dearer and richer, for do we not then possess a more earnest desire and longing to meet our dear ones in that mansion which Christ has gone to prepare?

In paying this tribute to the memory of one so active and useful, so cheerful and full of blessing, who seemed not to live for herself, but those nearer and dear to her, as well as a large circle of friends in whose hearts her memory is lovingly and sacredly enshrined, and in whose affections her angelic smiles and worthy deeds will long remain green and fresh, it is not strange that grief lies heavily around many a hearthstone and a community in mourning and refusing to be comforted.

Death comes at any time to pluck from our family circle brightest flowers, that are budding on earth but are carried forth to bloom in heaven. She has gone from among us where there is no pain, no sorrowing or weeping, but eternal happiness forever more. She is soaring higher and higher, and finding broader fields of usefulness in the work of that life, which she has been called to fill.

Be comforted fond sisters, brothers, loving mother and father in the sweet consolation that she has gone to a better Home, a Home not built with hands. And Oh! that beautiful thought that she will be waiting and watching for you on that Golden Shore.

May God's blessings rest and forever abide with the loved ones she has left behind.

"Tis hard to break the tender cord.
When love has bound the heart;
Tis hard, so hard to speak the words
We must forever part.

"Dearest loved one we have hid thee,
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory we will cherish
Till we meet thy heavenly face.
