WON IN A WALK.

McCreary Nominated For Senator on First Ballot.

Harmonious Caucus and Plan From Madison County Received Sixty-Two Votes

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9.—Ex Gov. James B. McCreary received the Democratic caucus nomination for United States Senator by a vote of 62 to 37 to-night. This nomination is practically equivalent to an election.

The vote was 62 for McCreary and 37 for Cantrill, there being ninety-nine in the caucus. Mr. McCreary to-night expressed special gratification that not a man who had pledged his vote had gone back upon him when the test came, and Judge Cantrill has reason to feel proud of the handsome compliment paid him.

For forty years Mr. McCreary has been prominent in Kentucky. He first came into notice in 1862, when he assisted in raising the Eleventh Kentucky Cavalry for the Confederate Army. In this regiment he subsequently became Lieutenant-Colonel, a rank he held at the close of war. He served with distinction in the Army of the Tennessee under Gens. Morgan and Bragg, and under Breckinridge in Virginia, and surrendered with his regiment at Appomattox.

He entered politics, in 1866, being chosen to represent Madison County in the Kentucky Legislature. In 1875 he was elected Governor on the Democratic ticket. After retiring from the executive office he went to the Forty-ninth Congress, and was reelected to the Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second, Fifty-third, and Fifty-fourth Congresses. For twelve years he was a member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Mr. McCreary was appointed by the President of the United States one of the five Commissioners to represent the United States at the International Monetary Conference in 1891. In the conference he distinguished himself as an advocate of bimetalism.

A flock of sheep belonging to Mr. G. R. Cayce, four miles South of the city, was attacked by dogs last Wednesday night. Six sheep were killed, two were so badly injured that they will die, and four others were pretty badly torn up, but will recover. The dogs succeeded in making their escape.

MUCH WHEAT KILLED.

And the Crop is Already Cut Short.

The wheat throughout this section is in bad condition, the hard freezes and sudden thaws having resulted in leaving much of it dead on top of the ground. Farmers are of the opinion that the crop has already been cut short and conditions must greatly improve if anything like an average yield is obtained.

Mr. James J. Bumpus, an old citizen of Hopkinsville, now of Cincinnati, spent Sunday in the city.

DR. JAS. RODMAN,

The Able Physician and Upright Man, is Dead.

Passed Away Suddenly Friday Morning of Heart Failure—Funeral Sunday.

Dr. James Rodman, for many years Hopkinsville's foremost physician and most prominent citizen, died very suddenly of heart failure at 1:50 o'clock Friday morning, at his home on South Main street.

The day before he seemed to be in his usual health, and he was on the streets mingling with his friends. After supper he called on one of his neighbors and was in the best of spirits. Before going to bed, he told his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Rodman, that he felt nervous, and she gave him some medicine. At 1:30 he awoke Mrs. Rodman in the adjoining room and called to her to bring him a drink of water. After drinking the water he closed his eyes and became quiet. Mrs. Rodman sat by him and rubbed his hands and at 1:50 his stillness alarmed her and she discovered that he was lifeless. He had peacefully passed away without warning.

Mrs. Rodman, who was alone in the house, hastily summoned physicians and friends by telephone. They soon arrived and found that the end had come.

His only son, Rev. Thomas Rodman, who is a student in the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, and his daughter, Mrs. W. H. H. Southerland, of Washington, arrived as soon as possible and were present at the funeral services Sunday. His wife died Dec. 20, 1894.

Dr. Rodman was a member of the distinguished Bluegrass family of that name. He was born in Henry county, Ky., March 6, 1829.

After receiving a classical education, he read medicine with his brother, Dr. Hugh Rodman, of Frankfort, and graduated from the medical department of the Louisville University. Soon thereafter he came to Hopkinsville and practiced medicine three years. Later he returned to Henry county and thence went to Frankfort, where in 1860 he erected the first building for the Peeble Minded Institute. In 1863 he was made Superintendent of the recently rebuilt Western Asylum, being elected by the commissioners. He held this position uninterruptedly for 26 years, refusing another reappointment in 1889. During all that time he made the asylum a model institution of its kind. It was never disturbed by troubles of any kind, but his remarkable executive ability and purity of character, gave to the asylum a higher standing for efficiency than has ever been enjoyed by any other similar institution in the State. It fact few if any asylums anywhere have ever been more wisely, prudently and faithfully managed than was the Western Asylum under its ablest and greatest superintendent.

Since his retirement from active business, he had been a consulting physician in exceptional cases, and

HOWARD TRIAL.

Taking of Testimony Began at Frankfort Last Saturday.

Defense Entered a General Exception to the Evidence of Z. T. Thomasson.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—Taking of testimony began in the Howard case to-day. Z. T. Thomasson told of seeing Goebel shot, and detailed his calculations regarding the celebrated hackberry tree. He also told of the arrival of the armed men from the mountains. The defense entered a general exception to this testimony.

Eph Lillard said that several days before the shooting he had seen men from the mountains about the capitol who were armed and "looking for trouble." The morning of the shooting capitol square was clear, and both he and Goebel thought this indicated danger. As he was about to enter the capitol he heard a shot, saw Goebel fall and then heard three or four shots in rapid succession. It would have been impossible, he said, for one man to have fired all the shots, as Colonel Chinn has testified.

Lillard said he had been looking for an attack every day after the mountaineers arrived. They looked threateningly at him several times on the street when alone.

Colonel Jack Chinn told in detail the story of the trip from the hotel to the capitol the morning of the killing. He said when he heard the shot he surveyed the grounds in an endeavor to find where it came from but could not see any person or smoke. He saw one window in the office of the secretary of State, the only sign of life about the side of the executive building toward which he was looking.

Bowman Gaines said when he heard that a shot had struck Goebel he started for home, and as he passed the executive building he saw a man hurry from the basement and climb over the fence near the northeast corner. That was James Howard. Howard went hurriedly away from the State house, moving between a walk and a run. The cross examination of Gaines failed to shake his story.

This afternoon Counsel Scott devoted his time to bringing up variations between Gaines' testimony on this occasion and at the former trial.

Jack Chinn was recalled by the prosecution and identified the clothing worn by Goebel on the day of the shooting. Each piece was passed around to the jury for inspection.

Fair and Cold.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (Special).—For Kentucky: continued cold to-night and day.

gave much of his time to looking after his large financial interests.

He spent his winters generally in Washington with his daughter, and she and the two grand-daughters spent the summers here with him.

His health had been failing for several years, but no one supposed that his death was to be soon. A few weeks ago when his former first assistant physician in the asylum, Dr. B. W. Stone, died, he was much depressed and to a close friend remarked:

"My old friends are nearly all gone. I am getting lonesome."

And thus he passed away, a physician of the highest attainments in his profession; a close and intelligent student of public affairs, whose information was wide upon a great variety of subjects; a public official whose long and useful life was above reproach, whose character was upright, honest and without suspicion.

He was a consistent member of the Baptist church, and though his piety was less demonstrative than some, his religion was deeper and more lasting. In his heart there was much of the milk of human kindness, and his charity was great and well bestowed. He aided many deserving young men, and his judgment was so correct and unerring that he seldom made a mistake in selecting worthy objects for his assistance.

His death creates a vacancy in the community that will not be filled. His great mind, his noble heart, his high character, his honesty of purpose are seldom found in one man. His friends, his church and his family will miss him, but the public also will suffer from the loss of this leader of men and this exemplary and patriotic citizen.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the interment took place at Hopewell Cemetery. Dr. C. H. Nash, his pastor, was assisted by Dr. W. L. Nourse, of the Presbyterian church.

There were four honorary pallbearers—Messrs. John Stites, H. C. Gant, E. M. Plack and Nat Gaither. The active pallbearers were Drs. B. F. Eager, T. W. Blakey and F. M. Stites, and Messrs. John B. Trice, W. W. Trice, H. D. Wallace, J. B. Russell and J. W. Downer.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Husband of Supposed Suicide Taken Into Custody.

Stewart Wilcox, col., of near Guthrie, whose wife and child were found dead in a well a few days ago, has been arrested on suspicion of having murdered them.

It was believed at the time of the finding of the dead bodies that the woman, who was slightly demented, had thrown her child into the well and then jumped in herself.

Since the supposed suicide, however, the authorities have been investigating and some strong circumstantial evidence has been discovered, it is claimed, that creates suspicion of murder.

Wilcox is in jail at Clarksville.
