FARMERS FRIGTENED

Over Dog's Bite And Have Mad-Stone Applied.

Canine Supposed to Be Suffering From Hydrophobia and Was Promptly Killed.

Sam and Dick Watts, farmers who live about half way between Sinking Fork and Gracey, were bitten by a dog supposed to be suffering from hydrophobia one day last week.

The animal came to the Watts residence and one of the men patted him on the head when the canine bit his hand. The dog was then confined in an outhouse. Later the other brother came to the house, and, he too, was bitten by the animal. The dog was kept confined and the next day he showed distinct signs of hydrophobia and was killed.

The Watts brothers were naturally very much frightened and both of them went to Paducah, where a mad-stone was applied to the wounds.

KING OF ENGLAND

Badly Scored By The Rev. Joseph Parker, D. D.

The King A Beer Brewer And Violator Of The Sabbath.

London, March 7.—There was a striking scene in the City Temple yesterday when, during the course of his sermon, the Rev. Joseph Parker, D. D., the minister, administered a pointed rebuke to King Edward, which was loudly applauded by the congregation. Having alluded to public houses as "trapdoors of hell," Dr. Parker referred to the King's recent brewing of beer while visiting Lord Burton. "Pray for me," said the divine, "that I may speak delicately, loyally. If the King brews beer, what can be wrong in the subject drinking it? What the King does is likely to be imitated by others. His Majesty is more than a man and must regard all questions from a kingly point of view. If the King goes to a Sunday concert, as he did recently, he deals a deadly blow to the Englishman's Sunday. The King cannot attend a nonconformist place of worship, but he can go to a Sunday concert."

This remark called forth cries of "Shame," and Dr. Parker continued: "If the King, who is the head of the church and defender of the faith, can violate the English Sunday, what can the people do but follow in his steps? I would rather give a great sum in gold than appear to be disloyal; but I cannot be disloyal to Christ, and it is better that these things should be said."

Danger of Colds and La Grippe.

The greatest danger from colds and la grippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous malady. It will cure a cold or an attack of la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.
