REGULAR KILLING

This Time Occurred at Pembroke Saturday Night.

Claude Bradshaw Jailed Charged With Murdering Dan Butler.

The usual Saturday night negro killing occurred this time near Pembroke.

The dead body of a negro named Dan Butler was found on the railroad track Sunday morning. He had been killed and placed on the track. Two bullet holes were in his head and his skull was crushed where the car wheel had struck the head and knocked it out of the way.

Claude Bradshaw, another negro, was last seen with the victim and was first to report the finding of the body.

Bradshaw was examined and stated that Butler left him at midnight and said he was going to Mat Enoch's, and that he (Bradshaw) staid in Hollis' undertaking shop in Pembroke, and found the body as he was going home about day.

Mr. F. C. Hollis contradicted this story, saying no one stayed in his shop, and that he was up about day and saw no one about.

The coroner's jury returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury, summoned to look into the cause of the death of Dan Butler, who was found dead one mile and a half south of Pembroke, on the east side of the railroad track. We find that there are two bullet holes in his head, one taking effect above the right eye and the other behind the right ear. We further find that some one had killed him and put him on the track. One bullet passed through his head. We find $4.30 on his person and a pistol lying near him. His age was 30 years. He leaves a wife and two children. We further find that Claud Bradshaw was the first man to find him and the last seen with him last night. We charge him with the murder of Dan Butler."

The coroner thereupon arrested Bradshaw and brought him to jail. His trial is set for next Thursday.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Rabid Dog Attacks Mrs. Hayes East of City.

The wife of Mr. A. C. Hayes, who lives a few miles East of the city, narrowly escaped being bitten by a rabid dog a few evenings ago.

A dog belonging to a neighbor became afflicted with the rabies and left home. Although a sharp look-out had been kept for the canine, he was not heard of until he made his appearance at Mr. Hayes' house about dark. Mrs. Hayes was standing at the front gate and the dog made a rush for her. She shut the gate just in time to prevent the animal from seizing her. Mrs. Hayes ran into the house and barred the doors. The dog succeeded in getting into the yard but was shot and killed by Mr. Hayes before he had time to do any damage. As the animal had been roaming in the woods for several days it is feared that he bit stock, and trouble may yet result.

BALDHEADED CLUB.

President Claggett Adopts a Roosevelt Ruling.

Col. Ed Buchanan Explains the Water Cure as Used By the Army.

It looked like old times to see President Claggett presiding over the Baldheaded Club once more last Saturday night.

As heretofore reported, the factional fight that threatened the disruption of the club was brought to a peaceable end at a recent meeting and by general consent Col. Claggett was elected President in a spirit of compromise.

Now that there was no longer any danger of bloodshed, the meeting this time again took on the old air of a pleasant social reunion. President Claggett was arrayed in purple and finelinen when he took the chair at exactly the hour of midnight. That is to say, he had on a linen collar and a purple necktie. Of course he wore some other articles of apparel, but these were the most conspicuous features of his attire.

"I see," said the President, "that President Roosevelt has issued an order muzzling Gen. Funston, to keep him from talking his fool head off, telling how he captured Aguinaldo and ended the war in the Philippines. I give Teddy credit for originating a clever idea, and I shall adopt it myself if I find it necessary, in running this club. Those of you who are in the habit of exercising your vocal organs while this body is in session, would do well to ponder seriously on this manifesto number One."

Col. H. W. Tibbs moved that a committee be appointed to investigate how many if any of the five candidates for appellate judge were bald. Col. Walter Southall said he knew them all and to the best of his knowledge and belief at least half of the five were third degree members of the Knights of the Shining Pate.

The President appointed on the committee Cols. Walter Kelly, Albert Kelly, Wallace Kelly and M. D. Kelly.

Col. Henry Abernathy moved that the sittings of the committee be held at Kelly's Station, but the motion failed to receive a second.

Col. Ed Buchanan, a veteran of the Philippine war, was called upon to explain the "water cure" practiced on the Filipinos by the American soldiers.

Col. Buchanan readily consented and began by asking Col. Mat Starling to kindly step forward and be used as an object lesson. Col. Starling begged to be excused and said he would prefer to see some one else take it.

Col. Buchanan then called for some one to volunteer his stomach, but all seemed reluctant to oblige him. Finally he said that while water was generally used, he had telephoned for a keg of cool beer to be used on this occasion. This announcement brought so many volunteers to the front that several members narrowly escaped being run over and seriously hurt. Col. Ed Gaither fell down in the stampede and broke a ten dollar bill. Col. Martin Davis stepped on Col. Bill Cooper's corn and caused him to break one or more of the ten commandments. Finding it difficult to make a selection, or even to get the beer safely through the crowd in the aisle, the Colonel finally decided to depict the horrors of the cure in words only, which he proceeded to do, though his talk was not closely followed by all of his hearers. He told how the nozzle of a syringe was inserted into the mouth of the native, who was held fast to prevent struggling, and the liquid was pumped into his stomach until he consented to tell all he knew, or would be too full for utterance," as a famous Grecian humorist used to say in 428 B. C. His description of the sufferings of the victim when water was used was so graphic and pathetic that several members shed barn tiers.

When Col. Buchanan had told all he knew, which took about 11 minutes, Col. Joe Twyman reported that Mr. Harry Bryan was in the ante room claiming the right to join the club as a baldheaded man.

President Claggett appointed a committee of five to examine into the applicant's qualifications for membership. He named Cols. Jas. West, Byron West, G. U. West, R. D. West and P. E. West. They reported that Mr. Bryan was not bald but had merely shaved his head and that the committee had advised him to go west and tarry in Cadiz until his hair could grow. There being no further business before the club, the session was brought to a close.
