WHY MEN MARRY.

An editor sent out circular letters to a large number of married men subscribers the other day and asked them why they married. Here are some of the answers:

I didn't intend to do it.

Because I did not have the experience I have now.

I married to get even with her mother, but never have.

That's what I've been trying for 11 years to find out.

I yearned for company. Now we have it all the time.

I thought it would be cheaper than a breach of promise suit.

Because Sarah told me that five other men had proposed to her.

That's the same fool question my friends ask me.

I wanted a companion of the opposite sex. N. B. She is still opposite.

The old man was going to give me his foot, so I took his daughter's hand.

Because I asked her to have me she said she would; I think she's got me.

Because I thought she was one among a thousand; now I think she is a thousand among one.

I was lonesome and melancholy and wanted some one to make me lively. She makes me very lively.

I have exhausted all the figures in the arithmetic to find an answer to your question; between multiplication and division in the family and distraction in addition, the answer is hard to arrive at.

Devoured by Worms.

Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inanition, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much the surprise and joy of the mother. 25c at R. C. Hardwick's.
