ALL TIRED OUT.

Hundreds More in Hopkinsville in the Same Plight.

Tired all the time; Weary and worn out night and day. Back aches; side aches. All on account of the kidneys. Must help them at their work. A Hopkinsville citizen shows you how.

John J. Basford, cooper of 766 E. Ninth street, says: "My back used to be so lame and sore at times that when I bent it was all I could do to straighten up again. The pains were always with me and I could not stand for any length of time without feeling them. I doctored at one time but did not obtain the slightest benefit. My attention was called to an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills and I determined to try them. I got a box at Thomas & Trahern's drug store and after using them a few days I could not help but notice a marked improvement in my condition. My health is better than it has been in years. I give all the credit to Doan's Kidney Pills and strongly recommend them to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York; soleagents for the United States.

COM. BOOTH-TUCKER

SALVATION ARMY LEADER TO RETURN TO ENGLAND.

Has Had Eighteen Years of Successful Work in the United States—Growth of the Army Under His Efforts.

Commander Booth-Tucker, who for the last 19 years has had charge of Salvation Army work in this country, is to leave the States for England, where he is to take up work of an international character. Doubtless the change to different scenes will be an acceptable one, as the sorrow for his wife and co-worker is yet fresh, it being but a comparatively short time ago Mrs. Booth-Tucker, whilst traveling in the interests of the army, was killed in a railroad accident.

Booth-Tucker (Frederick St. George de Lautour) was born in India in 1853. In 1881, after holding several government positions, he resigned to join the Salvation Army. From 1882-91 he had charge of the work in India, and from 1891-96 labored in London. In the latter year he came to the United States, and ever since has been Salvation Army commander of this country, his wife, Consul Emma Booth-Tucker, until her sad death having equal authority with her husband in the United States work of the Salvation Army.

In the period spent by the Booth-Tuckers in labors here, a marvelous amount of work has been accomplished, and America should remember with gratitude these zealous workers for social betterment. Though pauperdom is less appalling in America than Europe, the poor we, too, have always with us, and the Booth-Tuckers here attacked poverty with weapons that proved adequate. They worked effectively in combating the evils of over-crowding, the many problems dealing with the city poor. Commander Booth-Tucker, in a most excellent monograph on the social relief work of the Salvation Army in the United States, gives a report of the work attempted and accomplished in his late field of labor.

He estimates that in prosperous times the United States has at least 3,000,000 paupers, and that this number is alarmingly increased in seasons of business depression. In dealing with the "submerged" in America, the Army worked on these different lines—shelters for homeless men; shelters for homeless women; homes for girls working in stores and offices; homes for children; rescue homes for fallen women; slum posts for slum visitation and meetings; slum day nurseries for infants; cheap food depots and cent meals; cheap clothing and second-hand stores; salvage brigades for collection of household and office waste; woodyards; employment bureaus; Knights of Hope for prison visitation and ex-criminals; medical relief, including free hospital and dispensaries; summer outings for the poor; penny ice-wagons; Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners; missing friends and inquiry department; farm colonies for the poor. Of a truth, a comprehensive plan of battle.

The shelters for homeless men number about 50, are located in New York, San Francisco, and the large cities lying between these distant points. Ten cents will buy a man a good warm bed for a night, and five cents more give him a room to himself. Hot and cold baths, wash-tubs and reading rooms are free to the lodgers—a contrast to the usual lodging house. There is not such urgent need for similar shelters for women, and but three such have been opened by the army, one in New York, one in San Francisco, and one in Chicago. The homes for artisans not infrequently take in those that found the cheaper shelters a turning-point in their lives towards reform and a higher standard of living, and in several cities exist Salvation Army homes of this class. The Army has homes for orphans and destitute children in New York and San Francisco, and is making one of its farm colonies an agricultural school, where little ones may learn to become self-supporting and home owners.

Booth-Tucker has brought together "the landless man and the manless land," and his farm-colonies are, perhaps, the most prominent feature of his work in America. In Colorado, California, and Ohio have been established colonies that have attracted large numbers from the city; and, what is the best part of it, have kept them on the land in spite of forebodings that the city's hold was too strong for the one-time dweller therein to remain content with rural life. Commander Booth-Tucker says of the farm colonies: "There is nothing of a penal character about them. The colonist is not a mere day laborer without any direct interest in the soil. He is not separated from his family. The links of love are strengthened, instead of being relaxed, and he has placed himself in a position of self-reliance."
