He vainly tried to put out the flames, burning his hands severely, and then started in a run for a pond 200 or 300 yards away. He reached the pond and plunged in just in time to save himself. He was painfully burned about the legs and body, but his injuries are not dangerous.	WILL VISIT PARK. Crowd From Pembroke and Some From This City. Dr. J. R.
