"THE FORTUNE TELLER"

Was Received By a Large and Enthusiastic Audience.

The large crowd at the Opera House Tuesday night thoroughly appreciated the production of "The Fortune Teller." Miss Grace Orr Myers in the leading role of Musette sustained her part beyond expectation. The range and power of her voice is simply wonderful. Henry Turpin, as the Gypsy, has, perhaps, the most powerful voice ever heard here, and called for round after round of applause. James McElhern, as the ballet master, was a general favorite. We congratulate Manager Ennis on the selection of his second high class entertainment.

Frightful Suff ring Relieved

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food, C. G. Grayson, of Lula, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pill, "with the result," he writes, "that I was cured." A FEW NOTES ON EXPOSURE

Pointers on First Step in Picture-Taking Which May Be of Value to Amateur Photographer.

The unknown quantity in photography for the amateur, the pit into which we all stumble at first, and some of us all the time, is the question of proper exposure of the negative, says Recreation. We may have the finest lenses, the most expensive of cameras, all the latest ideas in dark-room fixtures and apparatus, but if our knowledge of exposure is of the hit or miss kind we shall never, except by accident, produce passable pictures.

The plate or films which we are able to buy have, luckily, a great latitude in exposure, that is, they are so prepared that within fairly reasonable limits a fairly good negative can be obtained from an under, as well as from an over-exposure. But it must be remembered that an under-exposure negative will only give us hard prints, showing the shadows without detail, and the high lights too strong, with a consequent unbalanced look. An over-exposed negative, on the other hand, will yield a flat-looking print, with both shadows and high lights dull and lifeless. We can to considerable extent remedy an over-exposed negative by suitable reduction, but it is not easy for a beginner. An under-exposed negative can only be improved by a lot of hand work, masking, etc., hence it is always best to err on the side of over exposure. But better still, it is to get correct exposure—or normal, as it is sometimes called—in the first instance. This is easily accomplished if we make use of one of the many exposure meters that inventive minds have produced for amateur photographers. An exposure meter or time measure is really a most useful instrument to the beginner, especially when exposure is a consideration, for it will save lots of spoiled plates and much weariness of spirit. They can be bought from ten cents up to two or three dollars, the more expensive ones being, as in most cases, the most reliable and the best in the end. An exposure meter is, however, not absolutely necessary if we will but experiment a little at the start and make notes of our results.

Artificial and Natural Silk.

Several processes are now employed in Germany, Switzerland and France for the manufacture of artificial silk, and one of the German associations is said to be negotiating for the establishment of a factory in the United States. In one of the latest processes cellulose dissolved in ammoniated oxid of copper is directly separated from this solution in the form of threads by the aid of an acid. Under the microscope all artificial silks are said to differ from natural silks by possessing thicker threads. The artificial silks are also distended by water, the threads increasing from one-third to one-half in thickness, while natural silks do not perceptibly distend when wet. Artificial silk is used instead of straw for making hats. It serves well for passementeries and embroideries, and produces an excellent quality if imitation human hair.

Kind of Men Who Make Doctors.

A reason for the cheerful temperament which characterizes so many doctors probably is to be found in the type of the man entering the medical profession, says the Indian Medical Record. The nervous, the timid, the dyspeptic, and the invalid do not readily take to the doctor's calling. Only those endowed with strong and virile temperaments are fitted for the profession or likely to embrace it. It is because medical men are, as a class, of a peculiar and virile nature that they are cheerful and resourceful.

Marry or Stay in Jail.

In some parts of Siam girls who reach a certain age without marrying are placed in a privileged class, under the special care of the king, who binds himself to find husbands for them all. His method is simplicity itself. A prisoner in any of the Siamese jails may gain pardon and release by marrying one of the ineligible class. Whether he is already married or not is of no consequence, for in Siam a man is not restricted to one wife, but still, many prisoners prefer jail.

COUNTY COMMITTEE

Of Tobacco Growers Makes Important Announcement

At a meeting of the Christian county committee of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Protective Association, which took place in the city court room Monday, Oct. 23, important business was transacted.

First, it was decided to have a mass meeting at the court house at 10 o'clock a. m., November 6, the first Monday, to which meeting the public, especially those interested in tobacco, and most especially the colored people who raise tobacco, are most cordially invited and urged to attend. Speakers will be on hand for the occasion to address the audience. Also the county committee will make a public report of progress in organization of the county.

Second. On this same day, Nov. 6, an organization of the colored people interested in tobacco will be effected, consequently, it is desired that they all be present.

Third. The committee deemed it advisable to appoint a time for the closing of the books.

While the association wants everyone who raises, owns, or controls tobacco to be one of its members, yet it feels that it must have a basis on which to work, must know what tobacco it has and what tobacco it has not under its control.

In order not to shut anyone out, due notice is hereby given.

The date set for the closing of books is Saturday night, November 11th.

Still further, that no one may fail to have an opportunity to come in, there will be a representative of the county committee at the polls of every voting precinct in the county on Nov. 7, election day. Although at the last meeting the reports were incomplete it was estimated very conservatively that 65 per cent. of the present crop is already pledged, with every prospect that a large percentage of the balance will be pledged.

Let us all join together and take part in the greatest victory of modern or ancient times!

Let none of us lend a hand toward attempting to cut the throat of the best financial friend we ever had by selling our tobacco to the trust.

HOPKINSVILLE POSTOFFICE.

Something of Its Personnel and Its Business.

A BUILDING NEEDED.

Our People Will Not Pull For What They Might Get.

Some idea of how the business of the Hopkinsville postoffice has grown can be formed by knowing how many it takes to conduct it. There are six people in the office besides Major Breathitt. Mr. Gus Breathitt is assistant postmaster and the clerks are: Miss Eva Royalty, Messrs. L. W. Guthrie, Millard T. Bartley, Elbert Turner and W. E. Williamson.

We are not able to give the percentage of increase since Major Breathitt first took charge of the office, but it must be great. Not many years ago the postmaster and two assistants did the work, though it kept them quite busy and the hours of work were much longer.

It is now an office of the second class and salaries are, with two exceptions, fully one hundred per cent. higher than formerly. It is safe to say that with a less force Major Breathitt would not be able to render the efficient service he is giving our people without working his assistants much longer hours than are required by the postoffice department. The hours of service are regulated by the department, as Uncle Sam does not believe in making slaves of those who serve him.

In addition to the inside people there are 4 carriers. These carriers receive more money for their work than the postmaster fifteen years ago. Their hours of service are likewise regulated by the department. Nothing stops them on their rounds, they are indifferent to weather conditions and if one wants a day off occasionally or gets sick, a regular substitute is always on hand to relieve him of his work.

Messrs. A. C. Overshiner and Thomas Callard are two of the five city letter carriers, and our people are well pleased with their prompt work. There are three colored carriers, namely: Peter Boyd, J. T. Whitney and Wm. Knight, substitute. These colored men are on to their job and are faithful and prompt.

Several years ago, while Dr. Clardy was in Congress from this district, a move was put on foot to secure an appropriation for a government building, and it looked for awhile as if we would eventually have it; and we believe that if our people had taken the proper steps and expended the necessary energy in that direction we would have gotten it. All are agreed that we ought to have it and it is to be hoped that before the lapse of many more years will get it.
