GROSS INSULT AVENGED.

Jno. T. Goode Shoots to Death Lindsey Leavell, a Negro.

INSULTED HIS WIFE.

Was Slain While Digging Potatoes at R. K. McCrae's, Jr.

Lindsey Leavell, a negro who lived at R. K. McCrae's, near Pembroke, was shot and killed by John T. Goode, a farmer living on an adjoining farm, Saturday morning. Goode at once came to town and gave himself up. He remained in jail while the grand jury investigated the case the same day. After hearing several witnesses the grand jury voted not to indict and Mr. Goode was released.

According to the story told by Goode and others, Leavell and another negro were hauling a load of fertilizer by Goode's home Friday. They stopped the wagon and while the other negro held the team Leavell went into the house, after one of the small children had told him that their father was from home. Leavell made offensive and indecent remarks to Mrs. Goode, who was alone with her children, and grossly insulted her.

He then went to the orchard and helped himself to apples and Mrs. Goode taking her baby in her arms fled to the house of a neighbor. The negroes then got into the wagon and drove away. When Mr. Goode returned home that night his wife told him what had happened.

Early the next morning he took his gun and went to Mr. McCrae's and told him he had come to kill Leavell, who was digging potatoes near the house. He then went to Leavell and told him he had come to kill him. Leavell protested, saying the other negro was the guilty one, but Mr. Goode told him he was the man he was after, and without further ado opened fire. The first shot was caught by a basket Leavell threw up to ward off the load. He broke to run and the second shot struck his side and he fell. Mr. Goode then reloaded the gun and fired the third time into his face. In spite of these terrible wounds, Leavell lived several hours—the gun was loaded with No. 7 shot. The other negro was feeding hogs near by and ran away during the tragedy. Leavell's body was buried Sunday.

New City Directory.

Responding to the many urgent appeals for a new city directory to succeed our Volume II of some years since, we have decided to get out Volume III this fall and have secured the services of Mr. Toles Thornton, a competent compiler of long experience, to superintend the work of census taking, etc. The volume will be very comprehensive and complete in every detail—a strictly up-to-date city directory—bound in board covers and published for subscribers only, at cost of work. Advertising spaces will be so arranged as to give every manufacturing, commercial and professional firm and individual in the city and suburbs an opportunity to assist in "boosting" our growing city. Rates for space made known at office of publication, 212 South Main street, or upon application to census takers when they call.

Citizens will aid us greatly by leaving at their homes full information as to names, occupations, etc., of members of the family, boarders or servants living upon their premises. With your kindly assistance, we will publish a book creditable to all concerned, and the city as well.

Two negro rape fiends were taken from a train 18 miles out of Mobile, Ala., and lynched by a mob of 45 masked men.

AMUSEMENTS.

The play of "Julius Caesar," in which Charles B. Hanford will appear at Holland's opera house on Friday, October 12, is one which presents such a variety of opportunities that every legitimate actor finds in it a stellar part. Some of the great players select the role of Brutus as the one best calculated to display their powers. Others choose the more subtly and intellectual Cassius. Mr. Hanford makes the eloquent Marc Antony the central figure. Several reasons led Mr. Hanford to that choice. When he played the part with the Booth-Barrett combination he scored an instantaneous hit. When he decided to engage in a starring tour he was closely identified with the part in the public mind. To have selected either of the other roles would have been to challenge comparison with two men whose greatness made them incomparable and it would also have compelled another player to assume the part with which Mr. Hanford had become brilliantly identified.

"Simple Simon Simple."

Elbert Hubbard says, "If you wish to be miserable you must think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you and what people think of you." The American people say, in no small voice, that if you want to be happy, you must enjoy yourself, and to enjoy yourself you must see "Simple Simon Simple," Nixon & Rimmerman's extravaganza, which will be here very soon.

Took Bloodhounds.

Officers Miller and McCord left the city yesterday morning in response to a call at Slaughter'sville.

A tobacco barn and crop of tobacco was burned at that place early yesterday morning. The fire was the work of an incendiary and the officers carried the bloodhounds with them.

COUNCIL HOLDS BUSY SESSION

Reports the Principal Order of Business For Evening.

SEVERAL ORDINANCES.

Final Settlement Reported In the Tax Collector's Back Business.

The October meeting of the City Council was held Friday night with the Mayor presiding and all the Councilmen present except Mr. Ware, who was absent from the city.

The usual reports of the city officers were approved and filed.

Mr. J. T. Hanbery, attorney for John H. Bell, appeared and reported that all formalities in regard to the annexation of Bell's addition to the city had been complied with and asked that the court order be entered of record. The order was made by unanimous vote. This adds about 36 acres to the city on the south side. Mr. M. C. Forbes asked that Hopper street, the new street alongside his wagon factory, be graded and that a fire plug be put in on same. The matters were referred to the proper committees.

Henry C. Myers was given permission to open a saloon on Sixth street on October 15.

Messrs. H. W. Tibbs, L. B. Cayce, L. H. McKee and C. A. Brackrogge, a committee, from the National Fraternal Union, asked permission to hold a carnival at Mercer Park from October 15 to 20, which was granted. No confetti will be allowed to be sold or thrown. The usual privileges were granted free of charge.

Chairman Twyman reported that the street committee would remove the cobble stones in Woodard alley and replace them with crushed stone and Health Officer Woodard was directed to condemn as nuisances the sources of filth abutting on the alley.

The paving ordinance on the northern frontage of the South Kentucky College campus was given its second passage. An ordinance was also passed ordering a concrete pavement in front of the Postell property on Sixth street, the pavement to be reduced in width if the owner desires it.

An ordinance was passed regulating the operation of automobiles in the city.

Requests for arc lights on West 15th street, Elm street and other streets were referred to the corporations committee.

A formal request from the I. C. to be allowed to fence their right of way in the city, was referred to the special committee on bridges.

Councilman Jackson brought up the matter of opening a street from Elm street to North Main and the City Engineer was directed to make a survey through the Means property and a committee composed of Councilmen Jackson and Davis was appointed to ascertain the probable cost and report at the next meeting.

The committee appointed to apportion the tax settlement check of $2,201.50, reported that $1,113.69 of the amount had been assigned to the General Fund, $723.04 to the School Fund and $364.79 to the Sinking Fund. Trustee J. P. Braden, of the School Board, appeared and reported that the School Board had accepted the apportionment and the committee's action was approved.

Mayor Meacham reported that the Fidelity Company bonding the police force had retired from Kentucky and had canceled the bonds of the policemen and that all of them on duty had given good personal bonds.

The new bond of Chief Ellis Roper for $2,500 was approved by the council. The others had been approved by the mayor, as required by law, for $1,000 each.

The mayor reported that a case of selling liquor on Sunday had come to notice, a claim of sickness being the alleged cause. An employe had made the sale, the owner claimed, without his knowledge or consent. A fine of $27.50 had been confessed and the mayor said in view of the mitigating circumstances he would not ask that the license be revoked, as he had been assured that the offense would not be repeated.

An ordinance was passed repealing the ordinance prohibiting the policemen from giving any bond other than fidelity bonds, in view of the fact that all such companies have retired from the state.

ARM BROKEN.

Hopkinsville Boy Badly Injured in Louisville.

Mr. Ed. Walpole, the popular young miller, happened to a serious accident last week in Louisville, where he was employed in a large mill establishment. He was attending to some of the machinery when he got his arm caught, breaking it between the elbow and the wrist. Walpole, night watchman at the Crescent Mills, and is a most excellent young man and his many friends here will greatly regret to hear of the accident. Mr. Walpole is now in a Louisville hospital, but will be brought to this city as soon as he is able so stand the trip, where he will remain until he fully recovers.
