

CHURCH WEDDING AT LITTLE RIVER

Brilliant Nuptial Event Tomorrow In South Christian.

MARRIED THIS WEEK

Holiday Season Ushers In A Busy Time For Hymen.

Charlie McGee, of Bennettstown, and Miss Fannie Johnson, of near Roaring Spring, will be married at Little River Baptist church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Jas. L. Dotson, pastor of the church. The wedding march will be played by Miss Mary Nance. The attendants will be: Misses Elizabeth McGee, Maggie McGee, May McGee, Eva Luttrell, Messrs. Sol Johnson, Will McGee, Emmett Cunningham and Willie Pendleton.

The bridal party will be given a wedding supper at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Perry Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. McGee will go to house-keeping on the McGee farm, near Bennettstown.

The groom is a son of the late S. J. McGee and is a nephew of Mr. T. D. McGee, of this city. His bride is a very pretty and popular young lady.

Branon-Alexander.

A marriage license was issued Thursday to Finis Eranon and Miss Donie Alexander. The young people live in the Consolation neighborhood and the wedding will take place tomorrow.

Walker-Darling.

A license was issued Gordon Walker and Miss Norine Darling Thursday. The wedding is scheduled to take place next Wednesday.

Cook-Davis.

E. Cook and Miss Eula Davis, of Bluff Springs, will be married tomorrow afternoon. Esq. Waller Martin will perform the ceremony.

McIntosh-Boyd.

Eugene McIntosh and Miss Susan Boyd were married Thursday morning at the Baptist parsonage by Rev. C. M. Thompson.

NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

Monday to be Observed by Banks and Postoffice.

As Christmas day falls on Sunday this year, Monday will be observed as a national holiday. The banks and postoffice will be closed on that day and the city carriers will make only one delivery, the early morning delivery. On account of the anticipated rush, however, the postoffice will be kept open one hour extra on Sunday, from 9 o'clock a.m. until 11. The rural route carriers will make their usual trips.

Partridge Wyandotte Cockerels, pure bred stock, for sale. Apply to JNO. W. GARNETT, R. F. D. 2, Hopkinsville, Ky.

COMING HOME.

Lucian H. Davis Will Arrive From Atlanta Tonight.

Mr. Lucian H. Davis will return home tonight after an absence of three months. Mr. Davis, suffering with an attack of nervous prostration, went to a sanitarium at Marion, Ohio, from which he was discharged much improved about December 1. Since that time he has spent some time at the Pythian Home, Lexington, of which he is a trustee, and more recently has visited his brother, Ross Davis, at Atlanta. Mr. Davis returns home much improved and it is hoped on the road to a permanent restoration to health.

AGED CITIZEN.

Victim of Complication of Diseases.

John W. Richardson, a well known citizen who resided about five miles east of the city, died Thursday night, after an illness of several weeks of a complication of diseases, aged about 70 years. The diseased is survived by several children. His wife preceded him to the grave a year ago. The interment will take place in the family burying ground, near Carl, this morning.

HAS RELATIVES HERE.

Aged Citizen Stricken With Paralysis.

Information was received here yesterday that Mr. Gus Clark, of White Plains, had been stricken with paralysis and that his death was expected at any moment. Mr. Clark is a brother of Esq. H. B. Clark, of Gracey, and an uncle of Messrs. C. R. Geo. M. and Clifford A. Clark, of this city. He is about 80 years old.

WILL BE OF CONCRETE

Meacham Contracting Co. Given a Big Contract.

The Henderson Brewing Co. has awarded the contract for constructing the concrete floors in its basement and first story to the Meacham Contracting Company. All of the girders, beams, etc., of the main floor are also to be of concrete and the top finish is to be of Wisconsin granite. The Meacham company was awarded the work in competition with firms from Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville, and the fact that it was given the work is a tribute to the reputation it has made since coming to Henderson three years ago.—Henderson Journal.

She Was Smothering.

Rockford, Ala.—Mrs. M. C. Peachal, of this place, says: "I was taken with nervous prostration, and had headache, backache, pains in my right side, and smothering spells. I called in physicians to treat my case, but without relief. Finally, I tried Cardui, and it gave perfect satisfaction. I recommend it to every sick woman." Are you weak, tired, worn-out? Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women? Cardui has a record of over fifty years in relieving such troubles, and will certainly benefit you. It prevents those frequent headaches, and keeps you up, and out of bed, feeling fresh and happy. Try Cardui.

BLACKSTONE CLUB.

First Annual Banquet of The City's Newest Literary Club.

The Blackstone Club enjoyed a banquet at Hotel Latham Monday evening, that was a most delightful affair. The club has nine members and covers were laid for ten, Judge J. T. Hanbery being the only guest. All of the members were present, except Hiram Brown, who was absent from the city.

The dinner of seven courses was served in Mr. Noe's best style in the Ordinary at nine o'clock. After this the following program of speeches was carried out:

- AFTER DINNER DELICACIES.
- Remarks. A. H. Clark, Toastmaster.
- The Onus Probandi. Pettus White.
- A Reasonable Doubt. Ira D. Smith.
- Not Guilty. J. Stanley Bassett.
- Some Written Memoranda
- Thereof. George E. Lackey.
- The Fee Simple. H. W. Linton.
- Quantum Meruit. Judge J. T. Hanbery.
- Thought Drafts. Joe McCarroll.
- The Stamp of Approval. John W. Venable.
- A Toast to Blackstone. The Club.
- The curtain falls.

Moved to Nortonville.

Jesse Denton, of the Red Hill neighborhood, has moved to Nortonville to reside. Mr. Denton has had an elegant dwelling erected for his new residence.

VICTORS FOR "WETS."

"Drys" Beaten By Small Majority.

Covington, Ky., Dec. 23.—In a local option election held Wednesday in the town of Erlanger, Ky., the "wets" polled 132 and the "drys" 103 votes.

Erlanger has always been an open town so far as saloons are concerned and had the "drys" carried the day it would have meant no sale of liquor at the fair grounds.

Lost by a lady who get off the Dixie Flyer Thursday night, a mink muff. Finder please leave with Mrs. Will Kimmons and receive reward.

When you want fire, tornado, life or bond insurance in the... Oldest and Strongest Companies, see H. D. WALLACE, office up stairs, over Anderson -- Fowler drug store, corner Ninth and Main, or

SENDING GIFTS

"I'm in a mess again, girls," said young Mrs. Allison plaintively. She examined the points of her scissors with a critical eye, preparatory to cutting a buttonhole. "Gracious, Celeste!" cried the fluffy-haired blonde. "Has there ever been a day of your life that you haven't been in hot water about something?" "I doubt it," returned the object of the inquiry, with gloomy resignation. "Isn't it wonderful that through it all I retain my glowing and hopeful disposition?" "Hum!" commented the fluffy haired blonde, with a suspicious frown. "What have you been up to now?" "Me! Why, nothing," said young Mrs. Allison, the innocence of a babe overspreading her countenance. "It wasn't me, this time! I wasn't even trying an experiment! How can you be so cruel as to accuse me?" "Tell us about it," urged the girl in the fur-trimmed gown. "I will," returned young Mrs. Allison, "and perhaps you can offer some advice."

"Fred has a second cousin, eighteen or twenty times removed, who got married last week. I never saw her, but of course a cousin is a cousin. Fred's family are all away, so his mother wrote me, inclosing a check and her own and Father Allison's cards, and asked me to get this cousin a wedding present or to add the amount to the value of our own prospective gift and send it all in one."

"The latter suggestion appealed to me, so I selected a nice, heavy silver bread tray, and inclosed all our names in the envelope. Then just as I was leaving the store it occurred to me that I hadn't sent Cora Norrell's baby anything yet, though of course I had written her. The baby is 2 months old, you know, and Cora has been very ill since then with pneumonia. So I picked out a sweet little spoon, and wrote on one of my own cards, and left it with Cora's address."

Mrs. Allison bit off her thread and then sighed.

"Well?" demanded the girl in the fur-trimmed gown.

"Ten days later," resumed the story teller, "I had a note from Cora's sister, saying that Cora was still unable to write letters, but that she wished to thank me and my husband's family for our kind thoughtfulness, for the spoon was charming."

"It occurred to me that her gratitude was a bit spread out, but I supposed Fred's mother must have sent flowers or something to her, though I hadn't supposed they knew each other. Anyway, I soon forgot all about it until this morning. Then the postman left me a gushing letter from the bride, Fred's cousin, eighteen times removed."

"The fact that I didn't know her at all, she said, made it all the lovelier of me to send her such a beautiful wedding gift, with such a clever little poem. She should always feel, she added that I was just as truly her own dear, eccentric cousin as if I had been born into the family."

The fluffy-haired blonde laughed suddenly, and young Mrs. Allison nodded in response to her look of enlightenment.

"It took me about three minutes to see light on the subject," said young Mrs. Allison. "At the end of that time I realized that the jeweler had mixed these envelopes. Our four names had gone in state with that poor innocent little infant's spoon!"

The other members of the sewing circle laughed delightedly, but young Mrs. Allison still frowned. "The worst is yet to come," she assured them. "When I left the card that was to have gone with the spoon, I wrote on it: 'My dear girl, how sorry I am! Do get over it soon, and I'll come when I can.' Now, I ask you all," she wailed, "if you call that a poem?" "She gave you the benefit of poetic license," suggested the fluffy-haired blonde. "But what are you going to do about it—change jewelers or send your own presents hereafter?" "Neither," returned young Mrs. Allison, with growing equanimity. "I have merely decided to swear off on buying wedding gifts for my husband's cousins."

It Had Been Pulled. Minnick—I see that they have found in Egypt the mummy of a man whose right leg is nearly a foot longer than the left one.

Sinnick—Important as evidence that they had church fairs in ancient Egypt.—Browning's Magazine.

Realism. "That actress sheds real tears at every performance." "Yes, she is moved by her deep sympathy for the manager's distress when he gives up real money."

Got Her Interested. "Our cook has been with us three months now." "How do you account for that?" "She's reading a continued story in the magazine we subscribe to."

Not a Closed Incident. He—She has a pretty mouth. She—Yes, by that's a mere inci-

AFTER

January 1st, 1911, TERMS Cash Only and One Price to Everybody.

This method will make it possible for us to sell goods at a greatly reduced price and you will receive the benefit. We will maintain no costly system of bookkeeping and suffer no losses from bad accounts. When you buy from us, you will not be paying your pro rata of accumulating bad debts. Patronize us and save money.

Planters HARDWARE GO.

Incorporated

BEFORE YOU BUY...

LOOK---

At Our Line of Overcoats $12.50 to $20.00

Don't Forget the Pants---Always

$2.98

"THE STORE FOR MEN."

Irving Roseborough Co.,

Incorporated.

BY ART

MILLINERY SHOP

We are prepared as never before to serve our friends and patrons in their gift buying.

GIFT SUGGESTIONS:

Willow Plumes, French Plumes, Corsage Bouquets, Motor Veils, Ladies' and Children's Hats to suit every one.

START YOUR SHOPPING NOW.

MISS FANNIE R. ROGERS

WHAT ABOUT

The Dining Room?

Now is the time to surprise the good housekeeper with some of these pieces:

Dining Tables, Mahogany or Oak; Sideboards, China Cabinets, Serving Tables, Buffets, Dining Chairs.

WALLER & TRICE

Vaughan's Grove, of pneumonia.

on your subscription? You know

"Isn't it absurd?" commented the newspaper