MAY CONTINUE TREATMENT

Those Who Have Been Inoculated With Friedmann Vaccine Can Keep Up.

New York, July 4.—To meet the cases of such tuberculosis sufferers were treated in various hospitals in the city with the Friedmann vaccine during Dr. F. F. Friedmann's stay here, and who desire to continue it through the prescribed course, the Board of Health has lifted the ban against the remedy to allow further administrators, provided it is done in designated institutions.

The general prohibition of the use of the remedy is not lessened.

WITHDRAWS.

Thomas S. Torian No Longer In Race For Jailer.

TO DEMOCRATS OF CHRISTIAN CO.: When I announced myself a candidate for the office of Jailer of Christian County, Kentucky, on the Democratic ticket, subject to the action of the primary in August, next, I expected to not only continue in the race, but that I would win the nomination.

Business having come up which makes it impractical for me to make the two races that will be necessary to win the office, (as I thoroughly believe that I could have won the nomination and that the Democratic ticket will be successful this fall,) but having the interest of my party at heart, and knowing that on account of business interests that I cannot give the time to the two races that it would demand and do justice to myself and my party, I have decided to withdraw from the race.

I thank my friends for the interest they have taken in my race and for the assurances they have given me that I would win.

T. S. TORIAN.

TORRID WEATHER

Continues, But Local Showers Give Relief.

Humanity is beginning to get used to 100 degree temperatures. Local showers in several sections have furnished some relief during the day and the past three or four nights were cool enough for everybody to catch up from sleep lost last week.

Weather observer Randle reported Tuesday's maximum as 100 degrees and the minimum 70.

Taken altogether, while it is "hot enough for you," we think nobody has room to complain of what the weather clerk has been handing out, for what would summer be without heat? Don't kick. Be a philosopher and grin and bear what you can't help.

BUILDINGS REMOVED

And Site For Postoffice Building Is Ready.

The beautiful site for the post-office building is now clear of buildings and the Government can go to work excavating the first of next week if desired.

The main part of the Ducker house was gotten into the street Monday and will reach Bryan street in a few days. Everything that has to go will be out of the way by Monday and the report will be sent to the proper department by the postmaster. The trees on the premises are all to be left standing by order of the architectural department.

Fortune's Pet

Cast of Characters:
Guy Frances.....Guy Hedlund
Mr. Frances.....Alex Francis
Edith Perry.....Barbara Tennant
Mrs. Perry.....Julia Stuart
Joe Burns, of the Underworld,
J. W. Johnson
Chambermaid.....Milly Bright

In one of the wealthy neighborhoods of the city, a widower and a widow were neighbors. The widow had a beautiful little daughter and the widower had a little son. These two children quarreled on every possible occasion. This naturally caused heated discussion between the two parents.

The young man, grown, became a popular "good fellow" at the club. His father tells him that he can either stop his loafing or he can expect no more assistance from him.

To prove to the laughing crowd of bachelors that he is really made of the right stuff, Guy signs a contract to go out into the world without a penny and earn $10,000 in a year's time. He makes a good start by he is given $500 and Miss Edith engaged him as her butler.

At the Perry home, Guy is doing fairly well until his love for Miss Edith is discovered. This causes his immediate dismissal.

That night two thieves invade the Perry home. The first is Guy. He is stealing a photo of Miss Edith, which had been standing before him in the dining room for weeks. As he is preparing to leave, he is startled by hearing a struggle. Rushing into the next room he finds Joe Burns gagging the maid. There is a terrific struggle, but Burns escapes, with the erstwhile butler in close pursuit.

Guy calls a policeman to his assistance and trails Joe to the dive in the slums where the gang meets. Here the entire band of toughs is rounded up. Guy receives a very large reward, enough to give him his $10,000 and then some.

Reporting at the club on the night when he is due to show his $10,000 which had been earned, Guy gave taking a position in a fashionable hotel as a bell boy. He gets his place the day of the great motor boat races, and his first ten cent tip is from Miss Edith Perry, owner of the "Lightning Edith," a very fast boat, which is generally picked as the sure winner.

Comedy is injected into the plot by the love of one of the chambermaids for Guy, but she is the means of bringing him to bigger things.

Joe Burns, an underworld leader, considered a reliable business man, makes the acquaintance of Miss Perry in the hotel. He plans to bribe the man who is going to drive her boat, and then he has one of his gang bet very heavily against the "Lightning Edith."

The chambermaid overhears the plot, and tells Guy, who follows Joe and sees the money change hands. When the crooked driver takes his place in the fast motor boat, Guy surprises him and throwing him into the river, after an exciting struggle, takes charge of the boat himself, driving it to victory. For this the boys a real shock by producing a roll that was big enough to choke a cow. He was explaining to his father and the rest of the gathering how he had secured all this real money, and produced the photo of the girl with whom he had fallen in love, which he displayed for his father's approval. Imagine the surprise of both father and son when it was discovered that this was the same girl who had at one time lived so close to them, and with whom Guy had always fought as a youngster.

The father and boy hurried to the home of the Perrys and Mr. Francis entered first. At first Mrs. Perry refused to see her old enemy, but finally consented to have him come in. Then came the real surprise when the former butler was introduced as the little chap who had caused the early differences between the widow and widower. There is a happy ending when both young and old decide that this is a pretty fair little world after all.

"OLD GLORY"

Will Wave In The Breezes For A Year Or Two.

The Government wants some of the bone and sinew of Christian and adjoining counties and Old Glory is now seen every day as it waves in the recruiting station opened up in Monyon building, up stairs. Capt. A. J. Soots, in charge of the station, called Thursday and stated that he expects to remain here for from a year and a-half to two years. He is wanting to enlist as many men, both white and colored, as he can get. Capt. Soots came here from Evansville, where he did a good work in obtaining recruits. He is an affable, jovial man and has been in the army for thirteen years or more.

REV. E. H. BULL

Overcome By Heat While Preaching Last Sunday.

In a letter from Mrs. E. H. Bull to a friend here this week she stated that Mr. Bull, while preaching last Sunday morning, was overcome with heat and fell to the floor.

Mr. Bull was pastor of the First Presbyterian church here for nearly seven years and accepted a call to the Presbyterian church at Remington, Ind., three years ago.

BEST BILL

Ever Presented By The Rex Next Monday.

The representation of the life of Christ at The Rex Theatre next Monday and at night will doubtless be seen by more of the adult population than any other moving picture that has ever been thrown upon canvas in Hopkinsville. "From The Manger to The Cross" is a presentation that does not require careful study of a printed synopsis to keep pace with the pictures. Everybody knows the life of the Savior too well for that.

But something of the preparation for letting the world "know more about Jesus," as was desired by Greeks, will be interesting to many.

To produce this great film required more than 80,000 photographs and the majority of the scenes were in the open streets of Jerusalem and the surrounding country. "The Raising of Lazarus" was taken at Bethany. Mr. Bland, who personates the Lord, actually submitted to the scourging in order to make that picture more realistic. The crucifixion scene was very trying to Mr. Bland. After being fastened to the cross it was raised and dropped into the hole which had been dug for it.

This scene was photographed on Mount Calvary, the spot, so far as can be determined, where the Son of God gave up his life for the sins of the world. The costumes of the leading participants in the great presentation were made by tailors of Cairo, Egypt. Eight months of artistic study were necessary to make the different scenes what they should be. Forty actors were employed, to say nothing of the hundreds of supernumeraries or the droves of camels and sheep. The building of the temple took a month's work but only ten minutes were required to photograph all the scenes in the building and in a short time it was razed to the ground.

The manager of The Rex was, fortunately, just in time to secure this magnificent production, but it cost a large sum of money to book it. He very accommodatingly yielded to the ladies of the Eastern Star lodge to let them assist in the presentation. The ladies will of course do everything they can in securing large attendances.

Owing to the heavy expense of securing this great 5 reel presentation it is absolutely necessary to advance the price of admission to 25 cents.

CIVIC LEAGUE

Meets at Methodist Church Tomorrow Afternoon.

One of the important matters that will be considered by the Civic League at its meeting tomorrow afternoon will be united charities. The meeting will be held at the Methodist church, at 4:30. A second cleaning-up was at one time being considered by the officials, but we have heard of no definite action as yet.

GOOD MELON CROP.

Southern Melons On Market But Home Grows a Month Off.

The prospects are very promising for a good crop of watermelons this year. A long spell of dry weather is said to be best for watermelons. Raising melons for the market is gradually becoming part of a farmer's product, for he never fails to get rid of either fresh watermelons or cantaloupes, as people prefer them to those shipped here from the South. Georgia melons have been on the market for several days, but the home grows will not be ripe until the last of this month or the first week in August.

Purely Personal.

Mrs. E. C. Evans, of Paducah, is visiting her sister, Mrs. O. H. Anderson. Mrs. Edward Jewell, of Troy, Ohio, is also the guest of Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. J. A. Stevens, of Nashville, visited Mrs. E. H. Clark this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Thurmond, of Springfield, Tenn., visited the family John Thurmond, Virginia and Eighteenth streets, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winn are visiting Mr. Winn's parents at Glasgow.

Mrs. Walter Shaw, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. V. Elgin.

Mr. C. J. Pope has rented the Monroe Buidard cottage on South Virginia street and will move into it next week.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Mr. M. V. Owen Thrown Out of Buggy, Injury Slight.

What came near being a serious accident occurred in front of the Opera House yesterday morning.

Van Dulin, Jr., collector for the Forbes Mfg. Co., was going up Main street, which had just been sprinkled, when the front wheels of the auto struck the buggy of Mr. M. V. Owen, knocking the horse down, and throwing Mr. Owen out on to the street. Mr. Owen fortunately sustained no serious injury. Though his head hit the street, the fall did not break the skin. The buggy was not injured excepting the breaking of a shaft. The damage to the car is considerable, both front wheels being twisted, one mud shield damaged and one of the lamps broken.

Mr. Dulin says that in trying to avoid striking a buggy coming down the incline, the street being so slick from sprinkling, his machine skidded into Mr. Owen's buggy, which he was powerless to prevent.

Wants To Preach.

Representative Barkley is making strong effort to get Doyle Story, of Calvert City, Ky., out of the army that he may answer a "call" to preach. Story is attached to an infantry regiment in Texas. He wrote Judge Barkley that he made a mistake in joining the army, that his forte is that of preacher instead of a fighter. This appeal impressed Judge Barkley, the latter says, and he will try to have the young man released. Story's father, B. K. Story, has written Judge Barkley, urging him to obtain the son's release.

Where The Weed Goes.

Smokers puffed into space 7,707,000,000 cigars and 14,012,000,000 cigarettes during the year just closed. This was 217,000,000 cigars and 2,790,000,000 cigarettes more than ever before had been consumed in a single year. Patrons of the pipe used 403,200,000 pounds of tobacco, or 3,400,000 pounds more than the consumption of 1912. Users of snuff disposed of 33,200,000 pounds—an increase of more than 3,000,000 pounds over the previous year.

After 12 Years.
