Bad Doings Sure To Come In 1914.

New York, Nov. 25. - A Paris cable to the World says: Among Mme. Thebe's predictions for 1914 are: "The planet Mar will predominate with war always menacing. "England will suffer critical perils in India. "London will be threatened by floods, a terrible catastrophe taking place as a result of the inundations which will arouse the pity of the whole civilized world. "Portugal is to see a restoration of the monarchy. "Austria will be sorely tried with rioting; there will be bloodshed and fire in the streets of Vienna; the situation will be even worse than that in Hungary, and the Austro-Hungarian dynasty will be in grave peril. "Germany will experience a severe upheaval, bringing profound changes in the character of her national life. "Italy will witness a new Pope who will be friendlier to the monarchy. "It will be the good fortune of Russia to promote peace in the Balkans. "France is to be afflicted with scandals, riots, bloodshed and industrial troubles in the northeast. "Paris will have a favorable year. "No disaster is prophesied for America."

THE RE-AWAKENED SPARK

By PHIL CONANT.

Young and charming, Mrs. Curtis sat in the extreme corner of the big double box which was slowly filling with Mrs. Potter's guests and looked over the great audience with languid interest. Among all the distinguished folk in the box none was so charming an object upon which to gaze as young Mrs. Curtis. The gods had endowed her with great beauty and that subtle charm which may be called personality or a half dozen other things. The box was now all but filled. One lone seat remained and it happened to be beside Mrs. Curtis. "Oh, dear," said Mrs. Potter, a little impatiently. "How dreadful. And there was a ripple of laughter as Mr. Curtis gravely seated himself beside his wife. Her fan trembled just perceptibly and the eyes still scanning the audience were unseeing eyes. "Inasmuch as we are on dress parade and in full public view," he said, leaning over and whispering in her ear, "it might be best to act it out and display enough decent interest in each other so as not to gratify the fierce longing for scandal which pervades the kind hearts about us."

"You are quite right," she replied coldly. "I did not expect you. I thought you started for Mexico today." "I decided to defer it until tomorrow," he replied. "If it were possible for you to smile pleasantly—not at me, you know, but at somebody in the audience, it might serve to lessen the interest of the dear friends about us."

"If you could think of some subject for sustained conversation it might be easier," she said. "I will," he answered sharply, turning toward her. "I will tell you the story of a great love and its unhappy end." "The hero was but an unformed boy, thrown into the realities of life early because he happened to have been born into the hothouse atmosphere of money and society. He thought he was mature, experienced and even blase, when really he was more ignorant himself than the commonest clod. "Well, this pathetically unequipped hero fell in love with the heroine, of course. Yes, he truly fell in love. He hardly knew it at the time, for he was a selfish young animal and little understood what love really meant. Perhaps it was more desire than love. Anyway he won the heroine. "And then, you see, trouble began. He was a primitive sort of animal and his real civilization only began to be foreshadowed when he married the heroine. He demanded everything, gave little, and thought less. And all the time he knew that she loved him. And he loved her, too, more blindly and passionately every moment that he did the very things to kill her love. "Of course the end was bound to come. There were bickerings and scenes and there was brutal indifference and exasperating slights. "And finally the crash came. The bitter things he said in answer to the bitter things she said rankled in his heart until he no longer could stand it, and he determined to go away and forget. So the hero and the heroine agreed to disagree and the hero was to have left for Mexico today—and never trouble the heroine more."

"And why did he not go?" asked the woman. "He went to the train and boarded it," the man replied, regarding her steadily, "but the flood gates of his memory opened and the tide of his great love swept over him and the knowledge that there was to be this box party came to him, and he knew she would be here—and the hunger of his heart drove him to leave the train to come here and see her once more, if only from a distance. And he is a boy no longer, but a man who has put away boyish things forever. "The heroine," said the woman very softly, "was also very young and had never been taught many things she should have known. She never knew about tact and—and that sort of thing. She also had a great love which grew with the years, but did not know how to express it."

"Don't you think the hero might have another chance—that they might start over again?" he said eagerly. "The smile she turned toward him was so soft and womanly that the face of the woman was transformed."

3:00 p. m. Sermon—"Gone Astray." Solo. Chorus.

3:00 p. m. Sermon—"The Scriptural Heart: Its Change and Purity." Solo. Chorus. Illustrated hymn service.

Tomorrow is a day to be remembered as a high day in the history of the Ninth Street Church. A unique feature of the meetings was noted yesterday. This is a kindergarten for the care of very small children, who otherwise might distract the attention of their mothers from the service of the afternoon. This kindergarten is kept by the Loyal Daughters of the Ninth Street Bible School, and mothers are invited to make free use of it.

SUSTAINED AND REVERSED

Was Judge Hanbery By Court of Appeals This Week.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 25.—The court of appeals today handed down a decision in the case of Volney Gamble's administrator against the L. & N. railroad company and Mason & Hanger, which went up from Christian county. Gamble while working for Mason and Hanger, contractors who were revising the track of the L. & N. near Crofton, was killed by a train. At the trial the jury returned a joint verdict against the defendants for $7,500.

In the opinion today the appellate court affirms the judgment against the L. & N. railroad company but reverses it as to the Mason & Hanger company, thereby releasing them from all liability.

IMMENSE TANK

Completed By W. R. Brumfield at His Vegetable Farm.

An immense water tank has just been completed on the vegetable farm of W. R. Brumfield, near the city. A large silo forms the base of the tank. The walls are six inches thick, 35 feet in diameter and 12 feet high. The water tank is 30 feet in height and was pumped full of water last Thursday. The pump is run by a steam engine and the water is brought from the river. Mr. Brumfield, who is one of the largest vegetable farmers in Kentucky, is arranging to take water over his entire farm and will hereafter bid defiance to drouths. His tank holds 25,000 gallons of water.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering with great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than I have for six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists. A WAGON LOAD Of Sweetness Sold On The Streets Wednesday.

A most unusual thing was seen on Main street Wednesday afternoon when E. Bradley, of Trenton, arrived with a two-horse wagon load of honey, packed in 5-pound tin cans. When Mr. Bradley was asked how many pounds he brought in he said there was 2,700 or 2,800 pounds. He sold his load to the different grocers.

Unable To Come.

November 26th, 1913. Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Public Roads, Frankfort, Ky. Office of Robert C. Terrell, Commissioner of Public Roads, Mr. F. K. Yost, Chairman Good Roads Committee H. B. M. A., Hopkinsville, Ky. Dear Sir: Yours of the 25th. inst. to hand and contents noted. I appreciate very much the cordial invitation extended me to be in your County the week of December 2nd to 6th, and regret very much that I will be unable to be with you at this time, but as I have an examination scheduled for December 3rd, and am leaving here on the 5th, to attend the American Road Builder's Association, where I am scheduled for an address, it will be impossible for me to make arrangements to be with you.

I am much interested in the split log drag as a road implement, and am sure that your County will be much benefited by Mr. King's lectures. We will indeed be glad to follow up this work and will send you copies of our split log drag bulletin for distribution and have an engineer make demonstration at various points in the County from time to time as interests would warrant. With best wishes for the success of your undertaking, I am Yours truly Robert C. Terrell Com. of Public Roads.

THREE WOMEN TESTIFY

To the Merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life.

Streator, Ill.—"I shall always praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound wherever I go. It has done me so much good at Change of Life, and it has also helped my daughter. It is one of the grandest medicines for women that can be bought. I shall try to induce others to try it."—Mrs. J. H. CAMPBELL, 206 N. Second St., W. S., Streator, Illinois. Philadelphia, Pa.—"It was at the 'Change of Life' that I turned to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, using it as a tonic to build up my system, with beneficial results."—Mrs. SARA HAYWARD, 1825 W. Venango St., (Tioga) Phila., Pa. San Francisco, Cal.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for many years whenever I would feel bad. I have gone through the Change of Life without any troubles and thank the Compound for it. I recommend it to young girls and to women of all ages."—Mrs. C. BARRIE, 305 25th St., San Francisco, Cal. The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of George Dabney, Janitor of the Court House.

Fat, jovial and accommodating George Dabney, the colored janitor of the court house since the Democrats took possession of the temple of justice four years ago, died last Thursday morning of acute indigestion. Wednesday he asked County Clerk Stowe to call a physician as he was not feeling right. Before the physician arrived he went out of the office into the corridor of the court house and when Mr. Stowe went to him he said he believed he was going to die. He was taken to his home on the West side and suffered greatly all night. He was no better Thursday morning and died at 9:50. He was a Democrat and had served four years as janitor lacking one month. George Tandy, colored, has been appointed to fill his place.

Warned The Lawyers.

Some excitement was caused Thursday, when Judge Hanbery, hearing the case against the Imperial Tobacco Company at Morganfield, called the lawyers for both sides into his office and warned them that there must be no tampering with the jury.
