HALLOWEEN A DAY LATE

The College Girls Will Receive At Bethel Next Monday Evening.

Halloween will be observed by the young ladies of Bethel College Monday evening instead of this evening, the real date for the ghosts to walk. All things considered, Monday evening was considered the better time and school will be taught today and the usual weekly holiday will be Monday. President Peterson and the faculty are planning to give the young ladies a most enjoyable time. It will be the first reception since school opened and a large number of invitations have been sent out. A delegation of 25 or 30 young men from Bethel College, Russellville, is expected. An interesting musical program will precede the social exercises.

Shooting Women.

DEFENDS NEW LAW

Attorney General Garnett Says Compensation Act Insurance Is Cheapest.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 28.—Attorney General James Garnett, chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board, has written a letter to W. P. Dickerson, secretary of the Manufacturers and Shippers' Association, in which he draws striking comparisons of the cost of insurance against liability for the industrial accidents between the State workmen's compensation plan and policies in indemnity companies. He ascribes the difference in favor of the State plan to the difference in overhead expenses and the accumulations for reserve and profits to stockholders, and declares that 50 per cent. of the premiums paid indemnity companies goes to these expenses.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE

To Dr. Powell By Member Of Another Congregation.

(Cadiz Record) As a member of another religious body, the writer feels that he is in an attitude to say a word regarding Dr. Lewis Powell, of Hopkinsville, that a member of his own denomination might hesitate to say. Seldom has a visiting minister made so profound an impression in so short a time as did this consecrated, unassuming man of God. He came with a message, and delivered it with the simplicity of a child, and yet with the power of a "master in Israel." In the church house, on the street, in the business houses and court house, with a "Sam Jones" directness and power, he told men of their open and secret sins, and with burning zeal called them to repentance. Men who heard the Gospel message may go on in their sins, but on down the years, as they come and go, Powell's denunciations of wrong, and his appeals for the right, will be indelibly stamped upon their minds and hearts. We congratulate the Methodist congregation of Hopkinsville on their good fortune, and citizenship of that cultured city, on having such a power for good among them. The Cadiz "latch-string" hangs long and low for this man who "told us of our sins."

VICK'S Group and SALVE FOR ALL COLD TROUBLES

A number of notable articles appear in the Wide World Magazine for November. Her Highness the Ranee of Sarawak continues her interesting "Adventures in Sarawak," which are most excellently illustrated with photographs. Capt. F. W. Morton-Marshall writes of his "Trip to the Kolachi Glacier," and there is a very good account of Mr. Johann Koren's solitary hunt in the wilds of Siberia to secure specimens for the authorities of Yale University. Mr. Koren's little vessel was wrecked in the ice, and he and two other castaways endured terrible experiences. "Two Years in Guatemala" makes interesting reading, while "Moose-Hunting in New Brunswick," by Sir T. H. G. Esmonde, will tingle the blood of every reader who happens to be a hunter. Stories of pure adventure like "The Phantom Brigands," "The Bishop's Visit," "The Fur-Buyer's Peril," and "Real Life Romances" will be read with real enjoyment by all who can appreciate the perilous. The magazine is, as usual, most excellently illustrated.

A GERMAN HOBSON

Young Naval Captain Who Sank Three British Cruisers.

Capt. Ljeut. Otto von Weddigen, commander of the submarine U9, is the naval hero of Germany. His was the daring exploit which resulted in the destruction of three British cruisers in the North Sea—the Cressy, the Pogue, and the Aboukir—a feat which shocked all England and made her people tremble momentarily in doubt about her navy. Von Weddigen is only thirty-two years of age, but his name rings through Germany, and Great Britain's enormous navy has not in this war produced a hero whose fame compares with that of the German.

Von Weddigen was 200 miles from his base of supplies, having traveled most of that distance under water when he sighted the three cruisers. He found them in a triangle, and after taking a last sight at them dove. He worked within less than a mile of each.

From a depth of about twelve feet he loosed a torpedo at one ship, which he later learned was the Aboukir. She went down in a few moments and her men were in the water. The Cressy and the Hogue hurried to the scene, their commanders evidently believing an accident had happened to the Aboukir. He loosed another torpedo at the Hogue and she keeled over. Too late the British commander found out the cause. Another torpedo caught the Cressy, and within thirty minutes from the time the first shot was fired, the three were wrecks and their men were struggling in the sea.
