THE MASTER KEY

head doubtfully as he related how much dynamite had been planted and how Wilkerson's men were actually too nervous to work any longer.

They Saw Man After Man Come Down the Hill Till Only Wilkerson Was Left.

"He has to fix the fuses and fire the shots himself," he said. True enough, they saw man after man come down the hill till only Wilkerson was left.

Ruth noticed that he worked rapidly and with an occasional glance down toward Mrs. Darnell, who stood near a big rock shading her eyes against the evening sun.

At last the work was apparently done, and Wilkerson waved his arms. At that signal there was a general rush for cover.

Then the man straightened himself up as if master of the demons hidden at his feet, and waved his hand to the woman watching him from below; then he stooped.

An instant later there was a terrific explosion, and a smoky gap appeared halfway up the hillside.

At the foot of the slope lay the body of Wilkerson, tossed there as one might toss an old hat. The smoke on the hill eddied and swirled.

No one stirred. There were a dozen other unexploded shots in that hillside, any one of which would likely bring the timpling crest downward.

With white faces they held their breath. Wilkerson's body twitched slightly, the only moving thing in that amphitheater.

Then there was a wild scream, filled with terror, with passion, with flaming and awful desire, and Jean Darnell ran over the rubble toward the smoking hill, crying:

"Harry! Harry!" A dozen men started to run to drag her back, and a hundred voices muttered warnings that held them in their tracks.

Jean reached the body and flung herself on it; then she rose and stared up at the great rocky crest.

Did she hear the roar of voices calling to her to flee while there was time? Did she see the death that hung above her. If she did she despised it.

In this final cataclysm her wild heart broke through the bonds of this selfish existence and flung her a full passioned sacrifice on the body of the man who had loved her and given her his all—honor and life!

In the quick silence they who watched heard a single, full throated cry:

"Harry! Harry!" Then the mountain roared into the air, and the avalanche of rock poured over the two lovers in wave after wave till it had buried them forever.

And as explosion after explosion rocked the earth and filled the evening sky with lurid debris Ruth struggled from Sir Donald's detaining grasp and fled into the arms of John Dorr, where she clung, sobbing:

"John! John!" Sir Donald looked at John Dorr's transfixed face and heard that cry, meant for lover's ears alone.

Very steadily he turned away and stared up at the terrific cataclysm which had united both the darkling hearted and golden youth.

He found the cook beside him, his gray locks streaming in the gusts of wind from the blasts. He pointed with his stick to a piece of rock that rolled to their feet, and in the dull stillness that followed the terrific uproar he said:

"I really believe, Mr. Kane, that we have uncovered the gold we have looked for so long."

And Tom Kane reached down and picked up the nugget and stared at it. Then he turned to the white faced gentleman beside him.

"The Master Key?" the old man muttered.

"Yes," returned Sir Donald quietly, "it unlocks strange doors."

THE END.

His Bad Taste.

An Atlanta girl is suing a man for $50,000 damages for kissing her hand. We hope she will secure the full amount from the fool who, it seems, did not have sense enough to kiss her pretty lips.—Lexingtonian.

KNOTT AGAINST STATE WIDE

Louisville Editor Against Prohibition And Won't Support McChesney.

Louisville, Ky., March 10.—The entrance of a sixth Democratic candidate for Governor, H. V. McChesney, on a state-wide prohibition platform, in the race, with the Beckham-Haly backing, caused quite a stir in Louisville.

Anticipating the announcement of McChesney, the Louisville Post, which has for years been the Beckham-Haly organ in Louisville and always a strong local option paper, in a conspicuous first-page editorial Friday, announced it was unalterably opposed to state-wide prohibition as an issue in Kentucky this year, saying the present county unit law satisfied the temperance people.

Knott Against McChesney.

Editor Knott is said to have told Haly he would support him for Governor if he would cut out state-wide prohibition. His intimate friends now say he will support any of the other candidates for Governor, even Stanley, if necessary, to beat McChesney.

The Courier-Journal, Times and Post will oppose McChesney and the Louisville Democratic organization, including Ma or Buschmeyer and the city hall people, Whallen, McGrath and Banker James B. Brown, all of whom were supporters of Beckham in the primary last year, are surprised and incensed at this turn in affairs. They say that but for their support of Beckham, Stanley would have got a big enough majority in Louisville to have won. There are seven circuit judges, a circuit court clerk, commonwealth's attorney and a board of aldermen to elect in Louisville next fall, and the local organization say they could not hope to carry their local ticket to victory under a state-wide prohibition candidate for Governor. They admit that with six candidates for Governor in the primary, McChesney might get a plurality even if he got not more than 30,000 votes in a total vote of about 150,000.

Platform Convention Talk.

On account of the grave probability that, in a field of six, the winner, whoever he may be, might get only a small plurality of the total vote, there is much talk of plans of eliminating some of the candidates before the date of the August primary. However, the process of elimination, it is admitted, will be difficult.

There is now more talk of holding a convention before the primary than ever before. It is known that one or two of the present candidates would not care for the nomination at all on a state-wide platform. Therefore, if a state convention should declare for state-wide prohibition, these men would be automatically eliminated, and if the convention should declare against state-wide, McChesney would be certainly eliminated.

Of the other candidates, Cherry, while saying he has always voted for local option and opposed the open saloon, declares Kentucky should at present stand on its county unit law, which has put the saloon out of 106 counties and the other counties under this law can also put them out. Stanley also declares for the present county unit law. Newman has declared he would favor giving the people a chance to vote on prohibition if they want it. Bosworth and McDermott have made no public declaration on the subject.

Pioneer Veterinarians.

The classical Greeks had veterinarians. But veterinary medicine and surgery did not originate with the Greeks. So far as we know to the contrary, it had its start with the Egyptians, the wonderful people who seem to have originated most of the useful arts that are here today.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

PITTSBURG TEAM AT DAWSON SPRINGS

Forty-Five Pirates at Watering Place to Practice.

Dawson Springs, Ky., March 9.—Forty-five players of the Pittsburgh Pirates and newspaper men arrived here at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

A large crowd, despite the cold weather, was at the station to greet them. The city was decorated for the Pirates and the Woodmen and everything was in readiness for the ball team. Several of the boys arrived earlier in the day, and these lined up at the station and shook hands with the other players as they stepped from the train.

Fred Clark went out to Pirate Park and was pleased with the running track and training shed. Today the team will begin practice in earnest. It was the intention to play a game for the entertainment of the visiting Woodmen but raw weather will change this program.

WOMAN BORN, MARRIES

AND DIES IN SAME ROOM.

Columbia, Tenn., March 10.—To be born, live for over eighty-three years, marry and die all in the same room of the same house, is given to but few people, but that is the record of Mr. Carrie A. White, widow of the late Thomas White of Campbell station, who was buried Monday. Mrs. White was a daughter of the late John Campbell, one of the pioneer settlers of the southern section of the county, and she inherited the place where she lived and died from her father. It has been in the family over 100 years without a single paper having been recorded during that period covering the land.

Billiard Tables Rest on Rock. Billiard tables, supported on solid rock are among the novel features of a 36-room concrete residence located on one of the islands of the San Juan archipelago in Puget sound. Each table rests on a massive concrete base which extends through an opening in the floor and has its footing on bed-rock, and is therefore as solid and as free from vibration as if it were a part of the island itself.—Popular Mechanics.

Goes To Governor.

The "Night Riding" Bill making night riding a felony in Tennessee only needs Gov. Rye's signature to become a law.

Coughs, Cold Stiff Neck Neuralgia

Especially in the piercing pain of neuralgia or the dull throb of headache is Sloan's Liniment wonderfully relieving. Laid lightly on the part where the pain is felt, it gives at once a feeling of comfort and ease that is most welcome to the overwrought sufferer.

Hear What Others Say:

"There are no Liniments that equal Sloan's. My husband has neuralgia very often, he rubs Sloan's on his face and that is the last of it."—Mrs. V. J. Brown, Route 1, Box 131, Holly, Pa.

"I have used Sloan's Liniment for family use for years and would not be without it. We have raised a family of ten children and have used it for croup and all lung trouble; also, as an antiseptic for wounds, of which children have a great many, it can't be beat. My wife sprained her ankle last summer and it was in bad shape. Sloan's Liniment applied enabled her to be as good as ever in a week. I have used it several times for sprains and rheumatism."—John Neucumb, R. R. No. 2, Keokuk, Iowa.

The Ford is lighter than any other car of its size and power. Yet stronger, sturdier, longer lasting. Vanadium steel, that's why. Vanadium is the hardest, strongest, toughest steel made. It is the only steel that is hard and tough at the same time. It is the highest priced steel that is used in automobile construction. Yet the Ford is very low in price. Its quality, terms, price and small cost of operation and upkeep, less than two cents a mile, have made it the universal necessity in town and country.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.
