NASHVILLE BOY

Invents and Flies a Non-Falling Aeroplane With Unique Feature.

Everett D. Brewer, a Nashville boy, has invented and constructed an aeroplane in which he made a trip over the city of Nashville Saturday at an elevation of 3,600 feet, says the Tennessean.

Some new features in the aeroplane are fully covered by patents and the youthful inventor claims it is the only air machine in existence that cannot fall to earth, unless some important part, such as the planes or body, breaks. It is automatically controlled by the shifting of the planes, and the success of the invention was brought out strongly Saturday in a high wind before the few friends and curious strangers who witnessed the flights.

With the exception of the motor and propeller, the aeroplane was constructed entirely by Brewer, who is an employe of the R. G. Dunn company, of this city, and a mechanic of no mean ability. In the flights Saturday Wright motor and propellers had been fitted to the machine, which rose without a hitch and skimmed the air at the rate of fifty miles an hour.

One of the unique features included in the machine is that it can be guided upon the ground like an automobile, a new departure, as all aeroplanes heretofore were unable to guide their course after lighting and were liable to crash into anything that stood before them. The Brewer machine can be run in complete circles after lighting if necessary to escape some object upon the ground.

The machine is fifty-five feet in length and is twenty-eight feet across, having four planes, each measuring ten by fourteen feet.

British naval and military forces in Hong Kong usually number 7,000 men.

DUMPING GROUND

To Be Secured For The City Outside City Limits.

The Council meeting Friday night was unimportant, taken up mostly with discussion of sanitation. An order was made forbidding the dumping of garbage anywhere in the city limits and the city engineer was instructed to secure a dumping place outside the city.

A new license to sell liquors was granted to White & Jackson, upon their promise to comply strictly with all laws in the future. Their license was recently revoked when a poker outfit was located on their premises.

NONNENBRUCHE POTASH MINES.

Twelve billion dollars' worth of potash deposits are almost within the grasp of the French army in Alsace and will pass into the possession of France when Mulhausen is retaken. This acquisition alone, if it can be achieved, will largely compensate France for its huge war expenditure.

The deposits are of world-wide repute and are known as the Nonnenbruche mines. They are situated on a strategic road from Thann to Mulhausen.

Potash was discovered there in 1904 and was exploited by a German syndicate. Thus, by seizing the deposits, France will not impoverish the conquered province of Alsace. The Nonnenbruche yield was the cause of a grave potash dispute between the United States and Germany a few years ago.

HE THOUGHT THEM HIGH.

"Where is your high school?" asked the stranger in town.

"Which one?" asked the pompous-looking citizen addressed.

"Why, have you more than one high school?"

"Oh, yes, we have two schools, each three stories high."

When Anybody Finds a Cure He Is Generally Willing To Tell His Neighbor

¶ The willingness of one neighbor to tell another neighbor in a private way of the benefit received from Peruna, explains the popularity of Peruna more than all the advertising that has been done.

¶ The fear of the publicity undoubtedly prevents the majority of such people from writing a testimonial to be used in the newspaper. But in spite of that we are receiving fine testimonials continually.

ANEMIA—Mrs. E. A. DeWitt, Marengo, Ohio, says: "I believe Peruna to be the best tonic. I recommend it for any run-down condition of the system."

SPRING COLDS—Mrs. Rhoda Stufflebeam, Bunch, Iowa: "A spring cold I took settled on my lungs. Coughed. Could not sleep. We feared consumption. Thanks to Peruna, I am a well woman today."

CATARRH—Mrs. Sadie Allen, Joseph, Oregon: "My little boy is entirely cured of catarrh of the ears by Peruna. Am thankful for your good advice."

SPRING TONIC—Mrs. Wm. McRoberts, Brown Valley, Minn.: "Taken in spring Peruna tones up the system, acts as a tonic. I consider Peruna a whole family medicine chest."

¶ How did they hear of Peruna?

¶ Simply because one neighbor is always willing to tell another one he has found a cure. Neighborly conversation of grateful patients has done more for Peruna than advertising. Much more.

Victim of a Painless Ache.

An East side couple, accompanied by their four-year-old marvel, started for a motion picture show the other night. On the way the little boy said: "Oh, mamma, I've got a tummy ache." Mother then suggested that they should return home at once, without seeing the movie. The little fellow thought better of it. "My tummy aches," he amended, "but it doesn't hurt."—Kansas City Star.

Deductive Reasoning.

"Mamma, what's a bookworm?" asked small Eloise. "A person who loves to collect and study books, dear," was the reply. A few days later a woman called whose fingers were decorated with innumerable rings. "Oh, mamma," exclaimed Eloise, "look at Mrs. Smith's rings! She must be a ring-worm."

Easy-Going Monarch.

Lord mayors have changed with the times. Dignity has succeeded impudence. One recalls a lord mayor who entertained Charles II and "toasted" so well and so unwisely that when his royal guest left he "pursued him hastily, and catching him fast by the hand, cried out with a vehement oath and accent, 'Sir, you shall stay and take t'other bottle.' The airy monarch looked kindly at him, and with a smile repeated this line of the old song, 'He that's drunk is as great as a king,' and immediately turned back and completed with his landlord." Charles was ever sportman before king!—London Chronicle.

Got Him At Last.

Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Chief of the Army Staff and a former Kentuckian, reached Bluff, Utah, Saturday, accompanied by Tse-Ne-Gat, a Piute Indian outlaw, and his family, who had aided him in evading capture. Gen. Scott, single-handed, accomplished the task when posses had failed.

Big Success.

Nearly 2,000,000 persons attended the San Francisco exposition in the first month, according to figures given out.
