CAPT. L. D. HOCKERSMITH'S Served With Gen. Morgan In Every Engagement Until Their Capture and Thrilling Escape at Columbus.

Capt. Lorenzo Dow Hockersmith was born in Lawrenceburg, Anderson county, Ky., November 9, 1833. His father was a Pennsylvania Dutchman and his mother was Scotch-Irish. At the age of 9 years he moved with his parents to Louisville. Here he worked with his father as a painter. Soon tiring of this trade he served as an apprentice with Chas. P. Weaver, then a brick contractor, and later Mayor of Louisville.

In 1855 he came to Madisonville and while in the employment of W. O. Hall married his daughter, Miss Mary Hall. He and his fiancée were attending a Methodist conference at Russellville when they were wedded, the Rev. W. W. Cooke, father of Dayton Cooke, of Madisonville, performed the ceremony.

From Madisonville young Hockersmith went to Dixon and while working at his trade there the war between the States broke out. His sympathies being with the South, he, with Col. Adam Johnson and Amphis Owen, joined the Confederate army. Hockersmith and his companions became members of the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry, part of Gen. John H. Morgan's famous command, and later Hockersmith became Captain of Company C, succeeding Capt. Walls, who lost his life in an engagement in Tennessee. At the close of the war he was a Lieutenant Colonel.

At Gen. Morgan's Wedding.

Capt. Hockersmith joined Gen. Morgan at Paris, Tenn., and was present at the marriage of Gen. Morgan and Miss Ready at Murfreesboro. Capt. Hockersmith was an escort at the wedding.

From then on he was with Morgan in every engagement, until they were captured and escaped from the Columbus penitentiary. He was one of the dashing 100 who followed Col. Bob Martin near Black Shops, Tenn. With these picked men Col. Martin dashed upon a detachment of 6,000 Federals, and they thinking Morgan's whole brigade was upon them, not discovering their mistake until it was too late, fled in confusion, leaving supplies and ammunition behind.

When Gen. Morgan determined on his raid into Ohio and Indiana in the summer of 1862 Capt. Hockersmith and his company were ready for the undertaking. They crossed the river at Brandenburg on July 20, and the consternation produced by the entry of the raiders into the enemy's country is still recalled.

Captured in Ohio.

From the time Morgan and his men crossed the river there was scarcely a day that there was not more or less fighting. After twelve days of marching and fighting a part of the command of which Capt. Hockersmith was a member was captured at Cheshire, O., and in a few days Gen. Morgan and the remainder of the command were taken prisoners at Buffington Island by the Federals and thrown into prison at Johnson's Island. The prisoners gave the Federals so much trouble that the commissioned officers were removed to the penitentiary at Columbus. Gen. Morgan had been taken there when first captured.

Capt. Hockersmith was assigned to a cell on the ground floor and Gen. Morgan occupied an upper cell. The Captain, being a brickmason, began to use his knowledge of construction and discovered by tapping the floor that there was a hollow place underneath. He confided his knowledge to his friends, and, securing a knife, began to excavate around the bricks and in a short time discovered that the hollow sound produced by tapping the floor was real and that an underground tunnel was directly under his cell. He at once confided his discovery to Capt. Magee, Sheldon, Taylor, Hines and Col. Dick Morgan, who was a brother of Gen. Morgan, Digging To Liberty.

The work of digging to liberty began on the night of November 2, 1863, and on the night of the 28th of the same month the escape was made. In order that Gen. Morgan should escape his brother, Dick Morgan, exchanged cells with the General and remained behind. The men passed the guards and joined the army of the South and all lived to the close of the war, except Gen. Morgan, who was killed at Greenville, Tenn.

Of the men who made their escape from the Columbus penitentiary that November night in 1863, Capt. Hockersmith, the man who planned the escape, was the last survivor and was the last of the seventy men who were in the prison at the time, with the exception of Gen. Basil Duke, of Louisville, Lieut. Col. Coleman, of Lexington, who died January 24, last, was one of the number.

Built Two Churches.

Capt. Hockersmith was not only a soldier, but was a man well beloved by all citizens of Madisonville. He was a member of the Methodist church and erected two churches for this congregation on the same site, building the second structure and when that became too small for the congregation, erecting a third. A fourth building now stands on this site. He was a member of the Masonic order and often presided over the meetings of the order. He was a member of Rizzpah Patrol, of this city, and although very feeble, would often attend the meetings of the Shrine.

Capt. Hockersmith leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. Laura Hayes and William J. Hockersmith, of this city, and Mrs. Effie Tutt, of New Mexico, says a Madisonville dispatch. The burial was Saturday.

DO NOT THROW GARBAGE IN STREET OR ALLEY.

The streets and alleys of Hopkinsville were created for the purpose of giving the public the privilege of passage over same and not for the public purpose of dumping garbage and litter that may accumulate on your individual premises, so bear in mind that it is a violation of the law to throw garbage into the streets or alleys and while you will be expected to move all filth, which is apt to create nuisance, off of your premises, you must see that it is cared for according to law so that it will injure no one else.

R. W. CRAWLEY, Sanitary Officer.

Why is it? Of the 57,000 varieties of things about women's ways that it is impossible for a man to understand," said a quiet observer, "I will mention only one. Why is it that women button on their coats the other way from the way in which a man buttons on his coat? A man's coat is so made that the buttons come on the left side or half of the garment, when it is buttoned. In a woman's coat, the buttons come on the right side. When a woman puts on a man's overcoat the first thing she says is always this: 'Why, it buttons on the wrong way!' Of course, the man thinks that the woman's way is wrong, and the only thing that is certain about it is that the man's coat buttons on one side and the woman's on the other."—New York Courier Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Bravest Are The Belgians.

At the international congress of women, at The Hague, Friday, a peace resolution was offered and passed.

In moving the final resolution, Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer, president of the Hungarian Woman's suffrage association, requested that all delegates stand one minute in silent prayer for peace. Mile. Hamer of the Belgian delegation asked permission to utter a few words.

When this was granted she addressed her audience with this dramatic exclamation.

"I am a Belgian before everything and I cannot think as you do. There can be no peace without justice. The war must continue until the Belgians wrongs have been righted. There must be no mediation except at the bar of justice."

General sympathy for the Belgians caused part of the audience to break into cheers.

On the motion of Miss Florence Holbrook of Chicago, the word "justice" was inserted in the resolution, which reads:

The international congress of women, of different nations, creeds, classes and parties, is united in expressing sympathy with the suffering of all, whatever their nationality, who are fighting for their country, or who are laboring under the burden of war. Since the mass of the people of each of the countries now warring believe themselves to be fighting, not aggressively, but in self defense and for their national existence, it urges the governments of the world to put an end to this bloodshed and to begin peace negotiations; and it emphatically demands that the peace which follows, shall be permanent, and therefore, based upon justice and principles which include those adopted by this congress."

Debt Liquidated.

"Well, I've settled that there note I've been owing Jack Gap for so long!" triumphantly stated a prominent citizen of the neighborhood of Rumpus Ridge. "That so?" returned another and equally prominent resident of the same locality. "Where'd you get the money?" "Aw, it didn't take no money! I just snot Gap."—Judge.

Have You Made Your Will?

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, farmers are advised strongly to make their wills. Stories are told of farmers who, because of their neglect in this matter, have brought great expense to their estates, thus depriving their heirs of funds which were needlessly spent in lawyers' fees and other expenses, simply because the deceased neglected to leave definite word as to his intentions and desires.

Hopson-Cowherd.

At a luncheon given by Miss Laura Coleman, at Gracey, last week, the approaching marriage of Miss Emma Leigh Cowherd and Mr. Nick A. Hopson was announced. The wedding is June 9. The bride-to-be is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Cowherd.

Death Due to Paralysis.

H. Clay Ligon, of Fulton county, died at the Western State Hospital Sunday of general paralysis, aged 89 years. He was received here about a year ago. The remains were shipped to Fulton for interment.

The Letter "E."

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, says the Charleston Gazette, forever in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time. For some reason, he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, so we will call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war, always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no editors, devils nor news.

McGehee-Booth.

Mr. Bryant McGehee and Miss Mahal Booth were married at Clarksville Saturday. The bride is an attractive and popular young lady of St. Bethlehem, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Booth. Mr. McGehee is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McGehee, of this city and the general manager of the Seiz Shoe Store.
