GUNCOTTON IN GREAT DEMAND

Much of This Deadly Explosive is Used in Torpedoes by the Warring Nations.

Guncotton is used in enormous quantities for charging torpedoes and mines. Its base is raw cotton waste such as is used in cleaning machinery. This is soaked for several hours in baths of nitric and sulphuric acid, and it is then passed between massive steel rollers. These expel every trace of acid which has not been absorbed by the cotton. Through continual soakings in water the acid-charged cotton is reduced to a mass resembling paper pulp, and it is then ready to be molded into various shapes and sizes. Disks, cylinders, squares and tubes of guncotton are produced, according to the shape of the implement in which it is to be used.

Intense shock or heat explodes guncotton, and its power can be gauged from the fact that it is the force which blows great holes in ships through the agency of mines and torpedoes. The advantages of guncotton for military purposes are that it can stay for any length of time in water without injury; its explosions are unattended by smoke, and it ignites at a temperature half that required to explode gunpowder.

A peculiar characteristic of gun-cotton is that a brick of it, when wet, may be placed on a bed of hot coals, and as the moisture dries out the cotton will flake and burn quietly.
If dry originally, however, the gun-cotton will explode with terrible force at about 320 degrees of heat.

HIS DIMES RETURNED TO HIM

How a Kansan Proved Honesty of Stranded Harvesters Is Told by Eastern Journal.

"Bread scattered on the waters" is beginning to return to a Hutchinson man who lent a helping hand to harvesters stranded in Hutchinson.

Each day for nearly a week Walter Jordan, a wealthy Hutchinson man, distributed ten-cent pieces among a large number of harvest hands gathered here awaiting work. He asked no questions, but gave each man a dime.

Jordan repeated it daily during the rush last week. The harvest now has started, and most of these men are working in the wheat fields.
The mail is beginning to bring Jordan's dimes back to him. Quite a number have been sent back to him by the harvesters, who are now repaying him from their first earnings. In some cases the men inclosed extra sums for "interest."

Nicholas Bird, commissioner of the board of charities, had a similar experience. Several of the men whom he had assisted are now sending in remittances making repayment. One man whom he had helped leave town, buying a railroad ticket, remitted the full amount, with interest.—New York Sun.

Lemons Save Doctor Bills.

The popularity of lemon seltzer "the morning after" among certain of the masculine folk is now having somewhat of a similar vogue among women. The medical properties of the humble lemon are just becoming widely known. The juice of half a lemon in a cupful of hot water taken immediately after arising in the morning, serves excellently as a liver corrective and is a valuable substitute for calomel and similar drugs. Several slices of lemon in a cupful of tea will often relieve a nervous headache. A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cupful of black coffee is efficacious in relieving bilious headache.

FOLIAGE OF THE SEASONS

Magnificent Color Maturity That Comes With the Advance of the Months.

The foliage of summer is generally mature, green, sober. There is a certain warmth and gaiety about the leaf progress of June and early July, and a vast variety in shades, as well, so that any body of trees and shrubs of varying kinds will display anything from the youngest light yellow leaves of the Norway maples to the deep, even green of the horse chestnut. Toward the first of August the leaves are quite or nearly full grown, and they have settled down to their real work of elaborating food for the trees that bear them.

My water color friend, Little, has discovered in this color maturity another confirmation of his theory that there is a sort of color compensation, a chromatic balance of the seasons, J. Horace McFarland writes in the Countryside Magazine. In spring the air and the ground are cool, though slowly absorbing heat, and the leaves and flowers are warm in hue—there are the really hot colors of the tulips, the yellows of some tree blossoms, and so on. As the season warms, the foliage and flower hues become in general cooler, until in summer we have the deep green of mature leaves, the deep blue of the white dotted sky and the blues and whites of the garden. When cooler nights begin to come the summer foliage is likely to assume hints of brown, the corn takes on the colors of maturity, and we have the decidedly warm-hued chrysanthemums, purple asters, and the like, to compensate. The sharp weather of winter demands all possible heat from nature's color scheme, and we have it in the browned leaf, following the brilliant and not cool hues of autumn, in the corn shock and the bare tree stem, and even in the shadows on the snow.

SURE SIGN

Edyth—Yes, so I did.
Mayme—But I found him quite

FORCE OF HABIT.

"So that gossip woman's club is going to learn to shoot, eh?"
"I believe so."
"Then I'll bet the members will

A DISADVANTAGE.

"Truth," said the readymade philosopher, "is stranger than fiction."
"Yes," replied the cynic; "but it suffers under the disadvantage of seldom being so well expressed."

ITS LOCATION.

"Here's a scientist says he has found radium in ordinary dew."
"Yes, and already automatically stored up in grassy banks."

SNUBBED.

He—That young widow has very taking ways.
She—Yes, I heard she was something of a kleptomaniac.

SO HE COULD.

She—Don't you think there is a change in the weather?
He—Yes; I can even feel the change in my pocket.

QUITE OBVIOUS.

"Why, captain, are you making your boat hug the shore?"
"Because I am embracing an opportunity."
