

A Vote For Stanley And the Democratic Ticket Is a Vote To Endorse Woodrow Wilson. Help Win a Democratic Victory To-day By 40,000 Majority

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

An Outside View.

Tuesday the electors of Kentucky will choose a governor and other state officials. There should be no hesitancy in the minds of the voters as to their duty.

Mr. Stanley, the democratic nominee, is a national figure. In his long services in congress he rose to be ranked among statesmen of the lower house. He was a useful servant to his country and he added luster to his native state which has sent so many illustrious men to the national councils. The election of Stanley to the governorship will make Kentucky once again prominent in the public eye.

But the choice of Stanley is more than a matter of state pride; it is a duty. No man could be chosen as chief executive of the commonwealth who is better trained or better equipped in the art of statecraft. With his breadth of view, his keen grasp of large and intricate affairs, he is brilliantly endowed to initiate a comprehensive policy for the state to pursue. With his ready and convincing eloquence, he is able to carry away any opposition on the swift tide of his enthusiastic presentation of his cause.

Mr. Stanley is his own platform and happily the party of the state has enunciated a program with which he is in hearty sympathy and which elicits his earnest support. The platform on which he stands is one of the most comprehensive and progressive ever offered to the democracy of the state. Its successful carrying out will mean a new era of growth and development and prosperity for the old state.

There is no doubt of the outcome Tuesday. The only question is how large the majority will be. The larger the vote cast for A. O. Stanley the more Kentuckians will honor themselves and honor their state.—Evansville Courier.

Now that it is all over, we may as well confess that some of our recent editorials were syndicated from Democratic headquarters, and freely used because great editorial minds often run in the same channels. From now on the boys will be left on their own mental resources. But it is easy to write up a victory.

incorporated with $10,000 capital stock under the company name of Blakey, Bass & Barnett.

Churchill H. Blakey, son of Dr. T. W. Blakey, is the head of the firm and President of the company. He has had two years of experience in the accounting department of the Planters Bank and brings to the business a good commercial training and a successful business experience.

Oscar Bass, Treasurer for the Forbes Company for the last year or more, will be Secretary and Treasurer and give a portion of his time to his new interests, but will retain his present position.

Guy Barnett will be Vice President and practical manager in the store, of which he has been department manager for three years. Mr. Barnett has had other experience in the jewelry business and is a graduate of a leading horological institute. He is especially adept in engraving, his work attracting attention everywhere it is seen. As a watchmaker and jeweler he is splendidly endowed to handle all kinds of work.

All three of the young men are capable and promising young business men and the company is strong in every way and will at once take rank with the substantial Main street concerns.

Mr. Blakey will give his personal attention to the sales department of the business.

WOODROW WILSON

RESIGNS FROM FORCE

To Accept a More Lucrative Position With Knoxville Store.

GENERAL REGRET EXPRESSED

Garland Jones, at Present Sergeant of Police At L. & N. Station.

Garland W. Jones, for the last seven years a member of the police force of Hopkinsville and at present Sergeant of Police with assignment to the sub-station at the L. & N. depot, has resigned his position and will accept a position as house detective in the Anderson-Dulin-Varnell Co's. store at Knoxville, Tenn., at a salary far in excess of what he has received here. Sergt. Jones is one of the best and most faithful officers who has ever served the city. Intelligent, alert, conscientious and capable, he has been attentive, reliable and loyal to the city's interests at all times. His departure will be a distinct loss to the service. Mr. Jas. H. Anderson, the head of the Knoxville concern, knows and appreciates his worth, as he formerly worked in the Anderson store here before he became a police officer in the turbulent times that created a demand for true and courageous officers.

CHURCH CONFERENCE.

The Methodist church at Herndon will have a church conference meeting to-morrow night at 7:00 o'clock. All members are requested to attend the roll call.

WILLSON'S BIG EFFORT

Closed The Campaign For The Local Republicans.

HAD BIG CROWD YESTERDAY

But His Speech Was Not of a Character to Make Votes.

Former Governor A. E. Willson, of Louisville, closed the campaign here yesterday afternoon for the Republican state ticket, addressing a large crowd in the Tabernacle.

Prior to the speaking the Third Regiment Band played at several points on the streets and a big effort was made to arouse enthusiasm for Morrow and the ticket.

Gov. Willson's address was made up largely of a defense of his own administration and in re-iterating the campaign charges made by other Republican speakers on the Democratic party. Many Democrats heard him in respectful silence and members of his own party at times gave him generous applause, but his speech here made no votes for the Republican ticket.

BOUGHT A STORE.

STANLEY GIVES LIE

To Campaign Charges Published Recently in The Louisville Herald

THAT HE ADVISED DISORDER

The Closing Rally in Louisville Was a Great Success in All Ways.

The Democratic campaign in Louisville was brought to a close at a monster rally staged at the Masonic theater Saturday night.

Besides A. O. Stanley, nominee for governor, others to speak were United States Senators Ollie James of Kentucky, and J. Ham Lewis, of Illinois, and Congressman Heflin of Alabama.

A plea for the endorsement of the Wilson administration through voting for Stanley was voiced by the distinguished visitors. Stanley replied to charges published in the Republican press.

As a result of the efforts of these campaigners it is asserted the Democracy of the state is solidly lined up for the battle of the ballots today and that, although confidence is predominant, there will be rolled up a majority for Stanley and the rest of the ticket of between 35,000 and 45,000.

Importance is attached to Stanley's statement delivered at Cynthiana, repudiating the charge made by opposing interests that he had incited the tobacco men to disorder and lawlessness in 1908.

Stanley went minutely into the story of the events surrounding the charges, and gave the lie direct to Augustus Willson and E. A. Jonas, former owner of a Henderson paper, and now on the Louisville Herald, saying:

"The farmers of Harrison county," said Stanley, "held a meeting there to preserve an open market for their tobacco crop. I was at home at the bedside of a sick wife when the chairman of the Burley Tobacco society wired me that my help was needed to save the tobacco pool. I hurried to the meeting, and I counseled law and order. I preferred not a pound of tobacco sold rather than have the citizens disregard the law."

"Shortly after this meeting, while at Washington, I heard that I had been credited with the statement that I had urged you to 'raise tobacco or raise hell.' This was repeated by E. A. Jonas, a wretched and irresponsible writer whom I treat with all the contempt he deserves. I hurried home, and with proof in the form of affidavits from many men on that stage, proved the falsity of these charges. This statement has now been repeated by Jonas and endorsed by Willson, and I call on you to witness that it is a willful, malicious and deliberate lie."

Stanley called on his audience, which numbered 1,000 to raise its hands to show who was present at that meeting. Hundreds of hands went up.

"I introduced you," shouted a voice.

"We didn't hear you say it," declared others. Stanley affirmed that he had always contended to the farmers that lawlessness destroys tobacco societies.

SERBIAN'S HARD PRESSED

Invaders Narrowing The Gap Through Which Serbians Hope to Escape.

AUSTRIANS GUARDING FLANK

Anglo-French Fleet Resumes Bombardment of Bulgarian Ports on Aegean Sea.

London, Nov. 1.—The Serbian fortress of Pirot, described as the key to Nish, is in the hands of the Bulgarians, while the Austro-Germans from the north are endeavoring to form a ring around Graguyevatz, where the Serbian arsenal is situated.

The Austrians are attacking Montenegro to remove, if possible, the danger of an enemy army on their flank.

The Anglo-French troops are firmly establishing themselves along the southern end of the Nish railway, and crossing into Bulgaria, have occupied the hills surrounding Strumitza, although the capture of that town, which has been reported, is not officially confirmed.

The allied fleets, too, have again bombarded the Bulgarian towns on the Aegean sea.

Reports continue to circulate, chiefly from German sources, of a Russian army which is to march across Rumania to the rescue. But of the British and French reinforcements no news has been received.

Italy already has undertaken a general offensive, and there is talk of another offensive on the western front. The Germans seem to have anticipated this, as on Saturday night they launched a general attack in Champagne over a front of five miles in an unsuccessful effort to recover ground recently lost to the French.

Despite the coming of winter, there has been more activity on the Russian front. True, there has been a lull in the fighting in Courland, where the Germans have apparently failed to take Riga or Dvinsk or to improve to any marked degree their position. It is believed that they are preparing for another drive. It must be made soon, as snow is already falling, and the movement of heavy artillery is becoming more difficult.

FOOT BALL.

High school defeated Bell High at Adams, Tenn. Saturday by the easy score of 26 to 13. Moseley, Breathitt and Brown made the touchdowns, the last named running across two. Brown and Moseley starred.

Owensboro defeated Paducah in the championship serial Saturday with a lone touchdown by Tanner.

SPEAKING LAST NIGHT.

The Democrats closed the local speaking campaign last night with a big rally at the Court House with stirring speeches by W. R. Howell, Judge J. T. Hanbery, Judge C. H. Bush, Judge Walter Knight and John C. Duffy.

The Germans have sentenced another woman to death at Verviers, Belgium, along with eight men. Her name is Anna Benazet and she is accused of giving information to the French government.
