TEST COWS FOR BUTTERFAT

Easy Matter to Determine Which Animals Are Worth Keeping by Keeping Record of Feed Given.

The Babcock tester can be used by a farmer to determine the amount of butterfat produced by each cow of his herd. If a record is kept of the amount of food given each cow, it is an easy matter to decide which animals are worth keeping. A cow may give a large flow of this milk for three or four months.

Pipette, Holding 17.5cc. Milk and Test Bottle for Milk, Used in Babcock Test.

For the remainder of her lactation period she may give only a small flow. Another cow may give a fairly small amount of rich milk during her entire lactation period. The first cow will likely be given credit by the farmer for being a very good producer when, as a matter of fact, she may not be nearly as profitable to keep as the second cow. Three things are necessary to enable a farmer to determine whether or not a cow is profitable. Total pounds of milk given in a year; the percentage of butter fat in the milk; and the value of feed consumed.

GOOD PLAN FOR INBREEDING

Animals Used for Purpose Should Be as Near Perfect as is Possible—Watch Hogs Closely.

(By DR. R. H. WILLIAMS, Animal Husbandman, Arizona Experiment Station.)
It makes a difference in inbreeding whether one is handling purebred or grade stock. By inbreeding we mean the breeding together of animals of a common blood. I would advise you to use animals for inbreeding that are as nearly perfect as possible. Theoretically, if you have perfect animals, the only logical thing to do is to inbreed because it is simply impossible to secure evil results from inbreeding with such animals.

Perfect animals are a rarity. Ordinarily it is wise to inbreed the offspring on the sire where the sire is a good registered animal and the dam an ordinary scrub. Care should be exercised, however, not to follow this more than once, as inbreeding is a two-edged sword which must be handled with the greatest care. The sire may be bred to a second generation of high with good results, but this is not recommended.

It would not be as much inbreeding to use a sire on his granddaughter or brother and sister as to use a sire on his daughter, but breeders have used both methods with good and evil results. Hogs will stand inbreeding less than any other kind of farm animal, and on this account must be watched closely.

VALUE OF MANURE SPREADER

Saving of Labor is Only One of Many Advantages Offered by the Use of the Implement.

Most farmers believe that the greatest value to be derived from a manure spreader is in the saving of labor. As a matter of fact, this is only one of the advantages offered by the use of such an implement. Another advantage which is even more important in many ways, is the fact that manure scattered evenly and rather thinly over a wide area will give very much more return per ton than where scattered irregularly and on the thinner places, as is usually done when distributed from a wagon.

This increased return is due to the fact that there is less loss in fermentation when put on thinly, and also to the fact that a considerable share of the value of manure comes from the addition of beneficial bacteria to the soil, so that when this takes place over a wide area it is much more beneficial than when limited to a small area.

Alfalfa is slowly but surely spreading. Where a few years ago this good feed could not be found, now many places are visible from the road. So it will be fields.

Mrs. John Drew Better.

McLeansboro, Ill.—"About five years ago," said Mrs. John L. Drew, of this place, "I was afflicted with pains and irregularity every month. I suffered continually, was weak and despondent, and unable to do my housework. I took Cardui, and in one month, I felt like a new woman and worked hard all summer. I am now in perfect health, and recommend Cardui to all suffering women." Every day, during the past 50 years, Cardui has been steadily forging a road as a result of its proven value in female troubles. It relieves headache, backache, womanly misery and puts fresh strength into weary bones. Try it.—Advertisement.

Drake in Offenburg.

Offenburg, near the edge of the Black forest, upon which bombs have been dropped by a hostile airman, has a remarkable connection with England. It is not necessary to insist upon the story that it was founded by Otto, an "English" king, in the year 690. Some maintain that the name of the place simply means "open town." But in the market place stands (unless it has been "strafed" since the war began) a statue of—Sir Francis Drake! It is not, however, as naval hero that Offenburg honors Drake, but as the introducer into Europe of the potato. While the figure holds a map of South America in the right hand, the left clasps a flourishing potato plant, with fine "Kartoffeln" attached.—London Chronicle.

Helping Your Child.

Let them do all they can for themselves—carry their own water, fill their own jugs, wash up, arrange their own rooms, clean their boots and clothes, lay the table. Believe me, that unimportant as these things may seem, they are a hundred times more important than a knowledge of French or of history. These things train the children to simplicity, to work and to self dependence. If you can add work on the land, if it be but a kitchen garden, that will be well. Believe me, that without that condition there is no possibility of a moral education, a Christian education or a consciousness of the fact that men are not naturally divided into the classes of masters and slaves, but that they are all brothers and equals.—Leo Tolstoy.

Black Cats Overrun Island.

"The Island of Black Cats" is a name applied to Chatham Island in the Pacific ocean, about 730 miles west of the coast of Ecuador. It is overrun with black cats; indeed, cats of no other color are seen there. These animals live in the crevices of the lava foundation near the coast, and subsist by catching fish and crabs, instead of rats and mice.

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock Blood Bitters, the family system tonic. Price $1.00. Advertisement.

"You don't see deaf-and-dumbness, you pickle-headed fool; you hear it!"

She—"It may be that; but it looks to me more like true and lasting jealousy."
