MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

Prominent Factors in The Busy Life of the Pearl City.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 83

Lives in Another County But Is a Hopkinsville Business Men.

JOHN W. KEELING.

Hopkinsville's business interests are gradually being extended into the surrounding country and even into adjacent counties. Hopkinsville merchants are liberal advertisers in the papers of Cadiz, Princeton, Elkton, Trenton and other near-by towns and the people of our neighboring counties do a great deal of business in Hopkinsville. One of these who lives just over the county line, at Fairview, can almost be claimed as a Hopkinsville man, but at any rate he is one of the city's liveliest business men, in a line of business in which he was a pioneer something like 15 years ago. He is known as "Keeling the Strawberry Man," but is better known by his fruits than by his features to many of the people of Hopkinsville.

His business career is a remarkable one and shows that there are other branches of soil-tilling besides raising tobacco that can be made very profitable in this part of Kentucky. John W. Keeling was born near Elkton, Todd county, Dec. 12, 1869, on a farm. He has spent nearly all of his life on a farm. When he reached man's estate, after receiving a good common school education, he found himself a poor young man without capital, but applied himself to farming with such success that he became the owner of a small farm near Fairview, which has since been increased to 275 acres. He was in the habit of doing his trading in Hopkinsville and his attention was attracted to the strawberries displayed for sale by Italian fruit dealers, that had them shipped in from other markets. He had a good strawberry patch of his own, with more berries at times than he could use, but the idea of converting them into money had never occurred to him before. He tried it the next year and found that his berries were gobbled up like hot cakes as he retailed them to housekeepers. He planted bigger beds and prepared for real business and by degrees has increased to 15 acres and now sells only to dealers. He has tried out many varieties, but has finally settled upon six choice varieties, ripening in succession from May 10 to June 25. He does not tell what varieties these originally were. Under the scientific cultivation of this disciple of Luther Burbank, his berries soon become "Keeling Berries," and have created a demand so great that Mr. Keeling now supplies eleven of the grocers of Hopkinsville with his berries daily throughout the season. He comes in every morning in his auto truck, with his berries classified into three grades and packed in quart boxes. Some years he has gathered 1,600 gallons to the acre and 10,000 gallons is not an unusual crop for him. He has become a standard authority on berries. Of recent years he has added raspberries and blackberries and has a nursery for small fruits. He is gradually getting into other lines of truck farming, raising some vegetables for the market.

This with his general farming, his stock raising and small dairy serve to keep him on the jump, but he is a hustler and makes a success of them all. His dairy especially is getting to be a profitable branch of his business. He sells the cream from a nice herd of jerseys to dealers in this city.

Recently Mr. Keeling has taken an active interest in the formation of the Pembroke Strawberry Growers Association, in which he is a director. He has put 5 acres of berries into this organization for export next year. He has also found time to be a member of the fiscal court of Todd county and at least one member of that body is imbued with the real Hopkinsville spirit of enterprise.

Mr. Keeling is a member of the Methodist church and of the Masonic order.

He is an all-round good and useful citizen.

Spain in 1915 imported 1,200,000 tons of coal.

THE KENTUCKIAN'S PAGE OF OUR PRESIDENTS

A High Toned Educational Page. A Feature Page with a Contest and a $15.00 Cash Prize Tied on to the End of it.

Unique in the annals of local newspaper enterprise will be The Kentuckian's "Page of Presidents." It is a high-class educational feature.

Beginning with the "Father of our Country," the gentleman of cherry-tree fame, The Kentuckian will publish accurate pictures, autographs and biographical sketches of each and every president of the United States, including the hero of San Juan Hill, explorer of the wilds of Africa and a Bull Mooser down to William Howard Taft, the man with the perpetual smile. Woodrow Wilson, of course, will be included. The accuracy of these sketches is insured by the fact that they were taken from the congressional library at Washington. To increase interest, thus adding to the educational value of the page, a contest involving a $15 prize will be tied on to the end of it. The prize will be a cash one. Contestants will be called upon to discover an intentionally misspelled word, one in each advertisement on the "Page of Presidents." They will also be called on to answer two or three questions about presidents of the United States.

This page will be interesting to the old as well as the young, and especially will it please the advertiser. It will cause hundreds of readers of The Kentuckian to tell him they read his advertisement. Besides, thousands of these pages are torn from the paper and preserved for future reference, thus further enhancing the value of the advertiser's space.

The new feature will appear in The Kentuckian in a few days. Announcement will be made in The Kentuckian what day it will appear. Everybody is invited to enter the contest, whether they reside in Hopkinsville or outside of Hopkinsville whether in Kentucky or elsewhere—except persons in any way connected with The Kentuckian are barred. Be sure you watch The Kentuckian for these notices.

It provides that a curbing be placed about the graves of her parents in Stewart county, Tenn., and that of her estate, which is in personalty, her two daughters, Misses Jennie and Florence Bush shall each have one third, that the step daughters, Mrs. Lillian Williams, of LaFayette, and Mrs. Lucile Franklin, of Los Angeles, shall receive $200 each and the step son, Howard Bush, shall receive $100. B. Y. P. U. SOCIAL

The members of the B. Y. P. U. of the Second Baptist church enjoyed themselves very much Thursday evening, when they met at the church and delicious refreshments were served and good talks were made by Messrs. Frank Boyd, Joe East, G. C. La Gate, W. J. Powell and Rev. W. R. Goodman. Special music was also arranged.

Waite on The Stand.

Dr. Arthur W. Waite was called to the witness stand in his own defense in his trial for the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, in New York. Waite admitted thefts from fellow-students while at Michigan University, and described them in detail. Waite's narrative became a story of thievery.

Anna Rumsey, supposed pauper, dead in Bristol, Pa., left $5,000.

chant, who, with one or two clerks, does all the work; and in that case the proprietor himself would always be kept at the store and would get no holiday.

These plans are being discussed and something may come of them. Rev. Jessup, of the Christian church, will speak to storekeepers and clerks in the interest of this movement Sunday night. At that time an opportunity will be given for all present to express themselves in regard to this movement.

Miss Eugenia Bankhead.

Miss Eugenia Bankhead, daughter of William B. Bankhead, of Jasper, Ala., who defeated Richard P. Hopson for the Democratic nomination for Congress, will be one of the prettiest buds in Washington's official society next winter. Miss Bankhead is now a schoolgirl in one of the capital's smartest finishing schools and is already known in Washington among the younger set. She is a granddaughter of Senator Bankhead.

Baby Matters.

Mrs. Dolly L. Matters and two co-defendants, charged with conspiracy to foist a spurious heir on the Probate Court of Chicago, were acquitted.

Mrs. J. R. White and little daughter, of the Canton pike, left yesterday for Sturgis to visit the family of Mr. Ed White. They were accompanied by Miss Aileen Stroube, of Howell. On their return they will stop over in Princeton to visit the family of Judge Akin.

CLASH OF TWO KY. FAMILIES

One Killed, Another Wounded, Third Participant is Fugitive.

Lexington, Ky., May 26.—June Kimball was shot and killed and Calvin and George Lacey were seriously wounded when members of the two families met near Clinton in Wayne county yesterday, according to a report reaching here. Rafael Lacey, who also took part in the fight, is being sought by the authorities, the report said.

The fight is said to have started over the settlement or division of some land grazed by the Lacey family on June Kimball's farm. The Kimball and Lacey families are prominent in Wayne county and it is said bad feeling has existed between them for some time.

Prosperity to Be Permanent.

Not only is the present prosperity permanent, but it has been made permanent for the first time in the history of the country. For the first time it is found to rest, not upon special privilege, which might be shifted as new political powers gained control, but upon the firm foundation of American genius, initiative and unflagging industry.

A WEEKLY HOLIDAY.

A movement has been started looking to a weekly holiday or a half holiday for all storekeepers and clerks, during the summer months. Those interested are receiving a good deal of encouragement. There are two plans in view, and the merchants are being interviewed as to which they could favor and agree on.

One plan is for all stores to close on Thursday noon of each week, and give storekeepers and clerks a half holiday. This plan could only be put into operation on condition that all stores close on that afternoon. There is a large sentiment in favor of this plan. It is believed that the people could quickly be educated up to this plan and that it would work no hardship or inconvenience to any one. People could provide all their needs Thursday morning. If all stores were closed no merchant could lose any trade. A majority of merchants would be favorable to this plan on condition that all stores close. Under this plan the people would be asked to help the closing movement by not buying anything on Thursday afternoon. At this writing it seems as if the grocers would have no trouble to get together on this plan, as they are quite willing for it with very few exceptions. There is more diversity of opinion among the dry goods and clothing merchants; however, a majority of them would enter into this plan.

Failing in the above plan there is another which does not promise relief to so many people, but which is still better than none. This plan is to ask all merchants to allow one half their working force a whole holiday each week. Under this plan one half the employees would have a whole holiday every two weeks. This plan is not so favorable to the small mer-
