TRUE TO ITS DEAD MATE

Female Turtle Deposited Eggs by the Side of Partner Killed While Travelling on Highway.

No faunal fable is this tale of the devotion of a big snapping turtle to her mate, but it is vouched for by two good men and true, Frank Geer and Clifford Barr of the borough of Jewett City, says a Griswold (Conn.) dispatch.

The two young men were riding along the road near Butt's ridge recently, when they spied an enormous turtle blocking the way. In order to prevent the 40-pounder from slipping back into the swamp, the young fellows held him by the tail till they could decide what to do.

As they had nothing in the shape of a weapon, it was planned that Barr should stand upon the turtle's back while Geer went to a farmhouse half a mile away to borrow an ax. These measures suited the young men but the turtle objected strenuously and set off toward the swamp. However, Barr was able to retain his footing on the shell until Geer returned, when a few blows of the ax ended the big fellow's career.

The young men were going on a business errand, so determined to leave the cadaver of the turtle in a grain sack beside the road till their return.

When they came back a few hours later they were amazed to see the turtle's mate gliding off, after having laid 21 big, white eggs in a hole which she had dug beside the sack containing her consort's "remains." It was evident by her actions that she realized in some instinctive way that something was wrong. She managed to escape, but Geer and Barr have the 21 eggs and Papa Turtle.

MISINFORMED INFANT.

"My last baby, Brigadier, is only a little over two months old," stated a prominent Arkansawyer, "but last night he suddenly set up straight on his maw's lap and says he, 'The war will end in August.'"

"What a remarkable child, to be able to talk at such an early age!" commented the schoolteacher.

"Huh! If he's going to talk at all he ort to talk sense. I've got a bet up with Hamp Sankey that the war won't end before Christmas."—Kansas City Star.

HE WON'T HAVE TO.

Old Gentleman (at his daughter's wedding)—My dear, I don't see how I am to get along without you.

Bride—Oh, that's all right, pa. Since the ceremony was performed my husband has confessed that he hasn't enough saved to start house-keeping, so you won't lose me, after all.

WELL EXEMPTED.

"I see they have decided not to draft the blanket Indians."

"Just as well. They would be continually running to cover."

STRICTLY BUSINESS.

"Does our hostess play bridge what?"

"No; she doesn't play it, she works it."

IMPOSSIBILITY.

"I understand his wife is an impossible creature."

"Quite so. She is his intellectual inferior."

WILLING TO SELL.

Gertie—You ought to get something for that cold, Bertie.

Bertie—Well, how much will you give me?—Shute.

HOME-GROWN SEED IS THE SUREST AND BEST SELECT SEED CORN

ENOUGH FOR TWO YEARS

For 1918 Plantings and to Insure Adapted Seed for 1919

WHERE?

In the field from standing stalks of a variety that has "made good" and become locally adapted.

HOW?

Pick best ears from plants showing best yields in fair competition with neighboring plants. Storm-proof plants with hanging ears give best seed. Long ears with large, uniform kernels are the best. Avoid sappy ears heavy with water.

WHEN?

As soon as ears are ripe and hard—before heavy frosts or autumn rains injure the kernels for seed. The day the ears are selected they should be hung where they will become thoroughly dry in a few days.

WHY?

It pays. Field selection of seed corn is one of the surest and best practices on the farm. Proper care of seed corn pays well. Tests show that properly cared for seed corn has yielded eighteen bushels more per acre than crib-stored seed from the same field.

Some Advancement.

However, the assurance from the photographers' convention that wedding group pictures are still in vogue do not indicate that civilization has advanced. The bridegroom no longer puts a cigar in his mouth and she no longer puts a picture in hers.

Working 24 Hours a Day.

A Chicago plumber has been credited for leading a double life. By day he plies his trade, and by night he was a robber. We don't know much about the robber business, but we have had some experience with plumbers, so we arise to ask the question where his double life comes in.—Grit.
