The Evansville Courier's 'Hero Fund' to buy a home for the mother of James B. Gresham, has reached $1,854.

It is not all one way by any means. A few survivors have been picked up from two U-boats sunk by a British patrol boat off the Shetland islands a few days ago.

An additional supply of eggs, valued at $1,000,000, which had not been reported to the federal authorities as prescribed by law, was discovered in storage by secret service agents in New York. The value of the eggs found so far is placed at $3,294,433.

The rumor that Germans have attempted to occupy Finland are now denied. Revolutionists are attempting to overthrow the government on empty stomachs, as they have appealed to President Wilson, saying they are facing starvation.

Ten of the eleven editorial paragraphs in one of our exchanges were taken from the Kentuckian's editorial column, an unusual compliment, but this paper doesn't care what becomes of its paragraphs after they are used once. If the boys like 'em they are welcome to 'em.

The Italians and the Austro-Germans are in battle array along the Piave river from the hilly region in the north to the Adriatic sea—the Italians on the western side and the enemy along the eastern bank. The Italians have been reinforced by British batteries and are entrenched in strong positions which apparently cannot be taken except through heavy losses.

Queen Liliuokalani, the former colored sovereign of the Hawaiian islands, died Monday. With the death of Queen Liliuokalani has passed the last vestige of royalty in the Hawaiian islands. The eighth and last monarch to hold sway over the entire insular group, she reigned for only two years and that brief flicker of sovereignty was entirely extinguished more than twenty years ago in a revolution which led to the annexation of the islands to the United States. But notwithstanding her effacement from public affairs, Queen Liliuokalani never abandoned her royal pose nor lost the affection of her former subjects, and continued to her death a most interesting personality. She was born Sept. 2, 1838, in Honolulu. Her name was Lydia Kamakaha. In her memoirs, "Hawaii's History by Hawaii's Queen," she traced her ancestry back to the foundation of the Kamehameha dynasty, and claimed relationship to the royal family of the five sovereigns of that name. On Jan. 6, 1895, just two years after being deposed, Liliuokalani was arrested on the charge of being a participant in a plot to overturn the existing government and resume her sovereignty. Eight days later she formally renounced all claim to the throne. After nine months' confinement in her former palace, she and forty-eight others were pardoned, and when, on August 12, 1898, Hawaii became a territory of the United States, she declared her fealty to the country that had adopted her. The later years of her life Liliuokalani remained quietly at home. She had ceased to reign as a sovereign monarch, but she still reigned as queen in the hearts of her people, the native Hawaiians, who venerated her and paid her court as though she still sat upon the throne. She was a composer of hundreds of Hawaiian songs, some of which became popular in the United States.

COAL JOBBERS

Permitted Fifteen Per Cent. Profit on Fuel Bought at High Prices.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Temporary relief from the coal shortage existing in many sections was seen today in a new order of the Fuel Administration granting permission to jobbers to take a small profit margin on coal they had purchased at high prices prior to the fixing of Government rates.

Under the direction of the State Fuel Administration the coal will be allotted to communities where shortage is most marked. Jobbers will be allowed a margin of 15 per cent. profit above the cost at which they made contracts with mines. Until today thousands of tons had been held by wholesalers because loss was inevitable if sales were made at the small margin allowed over Government-fixed prices.

Theaters May Pay War Tax For Their Patrons.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Moving picture theaters and other amusement places may pay the war tax of 1 cent for each 10 cents' admission charge without collecting it from patrons. Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper so ruled. The ruling was in response to queries whether it was legal for a theater to advertise:

"Admission still 10 cents. We pay your war tax."

Ed Shinnick to The Rescue.

That was a mean "shot" Charlie Meacham, of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, made at the editor of the Mayfield Messenger when he said:

"Editor Jim Lemon, who was here from Mayfield the other day went home and said in his paper that Christian county was Republican by 11,000 majority, but usually goes Democratic. When we saw him it was early in the morning and he didn't seem to be in such a condition as that."

Every member of the Kentucky Press Association will know this for a mere insinuation. They know the Jim Lemon is so excruciatingly "dry" that he has a holy horror of taking an occasional bath.—Shelbyville Record.

To Save Juice.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Faced by the realization that coal production cannot keep pace with the present rate of consumption, the fuel administration is ready if necessary to guarantee supplies only to domestic users and industries either necessary to the war or absolutely vital to the public. It is estimated that limiting the use of electric advertising to two and a quarter hours nightly will save half the fuel devoted to this purpose. In a statement accompanying today's order it was estimated it might become necessary to eliminate electric signs entirely.

The order makes an exception for signs used by small merchants for purposes of directing the public to their places of business. If these are not unreasonably large they may be kept lighted while the place is open for business.

Takes His Own Life.

Cal Carner, aged 40, a farmer of Caldwell county, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. He resided with his mother and sister. The cause of the act is unknown.

CITY TAXES

Under Section 3400 of the Kentucky Statutes, interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum is now being added to all unpaid city taxes. This interest has been running since October 1, 1917, on taxes for the year 1917, and if said taxes are paid now very little interest will have to be paid. On all city taxes for the year 1917, which remain unpaid on the first day of December, 1917, an additional penalty of 6 per centum will be added.

The city officials have no desire to inflict the payment of interest and penalties on the tax payers, but the law makes it my duty to collect the interest and penalty above mentioned if taxes are not paid before the dates on which said interest and penalty, under the law, are added.

Persons, firms and corporations who have not paid their city taxes are requested to settle same now and thereby escape the payment of future interest and penalty. This October 8th, 1917. W. R. WICKS, Commissioner of Finance City of Hopkinsville, Ky.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD
IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the price of 3 Weekly. No other newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half way into its third year, and whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking-affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN (Tri-weekly) together for one year for $2.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Value of Honey. "Honey, one of the most nutritious and delicate of foods, should be eaten more than it is," writes a cooking expert. "Bought in the comb, it is bound to be unadulterated, and will keep one free from sore throat and bronchial troubles. Honey has been used as a cosmetic. The result is a finer textured complexion, a glowing color, a young, fresh look."

REPUTATION

Unyielding adherence to principles gives character to a financial institution and safeguards the interests entrusted to it; but it is the individual method employed in business dealings which distinguishes a bank and establishes its reputation. We are proud of ours.
