FRIGHTFUL STORY

ATROCITIES RELATED BY SERGEANT SUFFERING FROM NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

(By International News Service.)
New York, April 19.—Frightful stories of Hun atrocities against American prisoners are told by Sergeant James D. Enright, of the Medical Enlistment Reserve Corps who has just arrived here from France.

"The boys found two lads with their throats cut from ear to ear one day early in November," he said. "It was too much for them, so they set out for the enemy's trench and brought back several prisoners. A week later we again found three of our men with their eyes gouged out."

"The following day we found another boy whom the Germans had taken prisoner with his head battered into mush. They had placed a bag over his head and had beaten him with the butts of their guns until he was dead. The doughboys grew so mad at these things that a series of raids followed which netted us many prisoners."

"These prisoners were surprised when they saw the size of our forces. The Fatherland is gone now. We are lost," they declared in broken English."

Sergeant Enright was honorably discharged from service because of a nervous breakdown due to overwork in a base hospital directly behind the American line in the Toul sector. He was a member of the Johns Hopkins Hospital unit which preceded General Pershing's expeditionary forces to the battle front, and one of the first Americans to be greeted by the French people in towns within earshot of the cannon's roar.

He has words of high praise for the hospitality of the French people to the American soldiers.

"It was impossible to mess in these French towns," he said. "The people would not let us do it. They would come out of their houses and just ding us in over our objections. Nothing was too good for us and there was more than we could eat."

"To the French girls the Americans were all millionaires. The French soldier gets only six cents a day and the Yanks were so plentifully supplied with money the girls married at them."

PROHIBITION AND WAR HAMPEK DENVER LAWYERS.

(By International News Service.)
Denver, Colo., April 20.—With John Barleycorn off the job and Mars working overtime, Denver lawyers to-day are finding "alim pickings." Law business throughout the entire intermountain region also is reported to be discouraging from the viewpoint of counsellors. A census just completed by the Denver Bar Association shows that more than fifty local attorneys have either gone into military service or chosen something besides law for their vocations. The April Calendar for the District Court is the lightest in twenty years. The criminal division of this court has been working little more than half time since Denver went on the water wagon.

COLORADO NOW "BONE DRY," SAYS W. DILLON.

(By International News Service.)
Chicago, April 20.—Prohibition actually does prohibit, and dry States are far more prosperous than wet States.

This was the message delivered to the Irish Fellowship Club here by William Dillon, of Colorado, brother of John Dillon, new leader of the Irish Nationalist party.

Mr. Dillon said Colorado business men never would allow the State to go wet again.

"I advise the liquor interests everywhere to fight against women suffrage for the women will put booze out of business eventually," he declared.

ANOTHER HUN SLAP BY CHANGE OF STREET NAMES.

(By International News Service.)
Portland, Ore., April 19.—Here's another German defeat.

City officials announced that names of six streets in an addition laid out by a German will be changed.

Karl street will be changed to Pershing, Rhone to Joffre, Frederick to Haig, Rhine to Foch, Frankfurt to Albert (for the King of Belgium), and Bismarck to Emmanuel (for the King of Italy.)

PITTSBURG BOYS HONORED.

(By International News Service.)
Pittsburgh, April 20.—Pittsburgh boys who have gone to war were signally honored to-day when a number of trees were planted by the Keystone Association for Historical Research. Many Civil War songs were included in a patriotic programme.

UNLUCKY NUMBER "13" PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN ACTS OF PRESIDENT.

(By International News Service.)
Washington, April 20.—Another reason has been discovered for the real air of mystery that always cloaks the number 13.

In the latest report of the Attorney General concerning pardons granted Federal prisoners by the President the fateful figures predominate. For instance, 94 persons were granted permission, upon serving their sentences, to enjoy civil rights again. The combination of 9 and 4 makes 13. The President also restored the rights of citizenship to 13 deserters from the army and navy. The total number of pardon applications granted by him was 328, and these numbers if taken separately and added combine into the old and gloomy 13.

Now then, if one still has doubts concerning the fatalistic features of the number, it might be added that the President denied 41 applications. Reverse that—and what have you?
