SHORTAGE OF FISH

DELAYS THE MAIL

Scarcity Causes Curtailment of Motive Power by Which Mail Is Carried in Alaska.

Shortage of fish is interfering with the mail in Alaska. On account of their scarcity, the motive power by which the mail is carried in that cold territory is curtailed. An abundance of fish, according to a report to the post office department, is essential to the prompt delivery across the region of ice and snow, and a necessary supply is not to be had.

The mail carrier out from Anchorage, Alaska, wrote to the department under the date of March 25, 1918:

"Your letter of February 27, 1918, is at hand, and I notice the late arrivals of mail as indicated in same. The whole trouble is on account of my dogs. I was unable, and still am, to get fish for them as it is not to be obtained in the country. The dogs I use on this mail are wolf dogs that have been worked on fish all their lives. It is almost impossible to change from a fish diet to cooked food and work them. I have done the best I could to keep this mail moving and have had to stop and rest my dogs several times while the mail was in transit as they would not stand it. . . . All of the late mails were caused on that account. . . . I have managed, however, to keep this end (Seward Anchorage) running on schedule time and believe in a satisfactory manner owing to the fact that I am on this run myself, drive one of my own teams and I have been able to keep it going somehow. . . . The mail is moving now better. Our dogs are getting so they stand up under cooked food."

Mark Twain's Democracy.

When Mark Twain published his "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," he made a laughing stock of evil institutions, and of the deluded mortals who uphold them. He put himself on record in a way that really did not need the events of today to vindicate.

"There is plenty good enough material for a republic," he said, "in the most degraded people that ever existed—even in the Russians—plenty of manhood in them—even in the Germans, if one could but force it out of its timid and suspicious privacy, to overthrow and trample in the mud any throne that was ever set up and any nobility that ever supported it."

At a Very Early Date.

An early English visitor to Boston recorded that "you no sooner enter a taphouse than you find a constable at your elbow who prescribes the quantity you may drink." He also mentioned getting for fourpence "a quart of cider spiced and sweetened with sugar."

Needless to Copy Others.

To do anything because others do it, and not because the thing is good, or kind, or honest in its own right, is to resign all moral control and captaincy upon yourself, and go post haste to the devil with the greatest number.—Stevenson.

Van Speederley—I'd like you to meet my wife, old top. I think that a bold, dashing fellow like you could get her away from me.

MR. MONTAVILLE FLOWERS

Mr. Flowers is one of America's most conspicuous orators. Prominent in educational and political fields as well as the Chautauqua world, he has achieved the highest possible success in presenting his message to the people. "The Rebuilding of the Temple," his latest lecture, is a study of the reconstruction of civilization after the world war; a fundamental discussion of peace and progress with special reference to the duties and policies of the United States in its relations with the world powers. Mr. Flowers is a master of oratory and with all the sincerity and zeal of the times sounds in behalf of the nation the alarm of war to arouse the citizens to a realization of the impending danger and the necessity for self-preservation and national defense. Mr. Flowers is president of the International Lyceum Association and presided over the sessions of the recent national conference of lecturers and Chautauqua managers held in Washington and addressed by members of the cabinet, foreign Ambassadors and Government officials on all the phases of the war and what should be presented to the people in the Chautauquas this season on that subject. Hear Mr. Flowers without fail at the Chautauqua.

SOLDIERS OF WOMAN'S LAND ARMY

The comforts and pleasures of social life have been foregone by many patriotic girls who are now busy tilling the soil to raise bountiful crops for Uncle Sam. These two farmerettes riding their teams back to the barn after a strenuous day's work in the fields are members of the New Jersey division of the Woman's Land Army of America.

SAYS NAVY WAS TOO SAFE; WANTED HUBBY IN ARMY.

(By International News Service.)

Pittsburg, Pa., June 4.—"I'll sign a release for him to join the army, but not the navy. It is too safe." So declared Mrs. John Bendthson, when she appeared in court against her husband, charged with non-support. After much argument Mrs. Bendthson was convinced that the navy was as dangerous as the army and she signed her husband's release.

Kentucky's quota of 25,000 nurses called for is 497. They are wanted for Red Cross work abroad.

SOLD LOVE POWDERS.

(By International News Service.)

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—Mrs. Emma Bracken, thirty, of this city, was arrested here following a report that she was offering for sale a so-called "love powder" that would enable women to win the affections of any man they sought. The direct charge against the woman is fortune telling.

Mrs. Woodson Moss, of Winchester, jumped out of a window and killed herself.
