A Good Name.

Sam Brown he kept a great big store.
And advertised his goods.
Till in a dozen years or more
He wasn't in the woods.

Not much was Sam. He had a wad
Of comfortable size.
As do the great majority
Of men who advertise.

Now, when a man has made his wad,
He buys a horse or two,
Or three or four, and tries them out
To see what they can do.

Sam had a dozen, but on one
He set his heart and pile,
And trained him for the County Race
To do the fastest mile.

Sam called him "advertising," and
His friends all asked why he
Should give a horse a name like that.
And Sam said they would see.

They laughed at him and at his horse,
And gaped the name he had,
But Sam, he never said a word,
Though sometimes he looked sad.

Well, by and by the race came off,
And Sam's horse won, hands down,
And what Sam gathered in on bets
Almost broke up the town.

"You see, dear friends," Sam grinned
At them,
While emptying out their skins,
"I called him 'Advertising,' for
I know that always wins."

A Real Wonderland.

South Dakota, with its rich silver mines, bonanza farms, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mount City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed near death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhausting coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs. Clapp, "when I began giving Dr. King's New Discovery, the great medicine, that saved his life and completely cured him. Railroad Development.

Now that the Nashville & Huntsville railway is almost an assured fact for Nashville, through the reduction of that city's subscription from $75,000 to $50,000 by special agreement of the promoters, it seems that railroads will be built thick and fast. The Nashville & Mt. Pleasant Interurban is already under way and a charter has been filed this week for the Nashville, Shelbyville & Decatur railway, projected to extend from Nashville through Murfreesboro, Shelbyville and Fayetteville, Tenn. to Huntsville, Ala. The proposed line is 116 miles in length and will open up one of the richest countries in Middle Tennessee, which means the world, so far as the fertility of the soil is concerned.

BECKHAM FOR PRESIDENT

Major Sanders, of Louisville, Makes the Nomination in the N. Y. Sun.

The New York Sun prints a column communication from Maj. D. W. Sanders, of Louisville, nominating Gov. Beckham, of Kentucky, for President of the United States on the Democratic ticket. In his statement of the case Major Sanders says in part:

"Governor Beckham has displayed qualities in his administration of State government which show most clearly and distinctly that he is a man of unquestionable integrity, free from intrigue, determined to give to his State the best administration under the laws within his power. He has shown more statesmanship, more tact, more diplomacy and more firmness in the maintenance of a principle and an execution of duties devolving upon him as the Governor of the State than any other man who has presided in that office for the last fifty years.

"No man has the confidence of the people of Kentucky to a greater extent than Governor Beckham. It is true he is a young man of most wonderful faculties—evenly balanced fully developed, and it may be safely said of him that egotism, vanity and selfishness constitute no part of his predominating characteristics.

Governor Beckham represents the progressive element of the State; he has the hearty and enthusiastic support of the younger members of the Democratic party in all the old Democratic counties, and if the national Democratic convention should honor him by nominating him for President of the United States the entire Democratic party, not only in Kentucky, but throughout the South, would enthusiastically rally round him. Certainly, in the selection of a Democrat from the Southern States Kentucky could afford to present Gov. Beckham as the man who more completely supplies the qualifications required of the Democratic nominee than any other Democrat in the State. Seven years as Governor, the nominee of the Democratic primary throughout the State for United States Senator, which is equivalent to an election in this State, and the statesmanlike ability he has shown in his management of public affairs—all this presents him in my judgement as a commanding figure worthy of the consideration of the Democratic national convention for the nomination for President."—Louisville Times.

Cured of Bright's Disease.

Geo. A. Sherman, Lisbon Red Mills, Lawrence Co., N. Y., writes: "I had kidney disease for many years and had been treated by physicians for twelve years; had taken a well known kidney medicine and other remedies that were recommended but got no relief until I began using Foley's Kidney Cure. The first half bottle relieved me and four bottles have cured me of this terrible disease. Before I began taking Foley's Kidney Cure I had to make water about every fifteen minutes, day and night, and passed a brick-dust substance, and sometimes a slimy substance. I believe I would have died if I had not taken Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by J. H. Orme.

A Sunny Disposition.

A very charming old lady says that if she had the power to choose the best from all the good things in life, she would not ask for wealth, because of its responsibilities; she would not ask for beauty because of its strain on character; she would not ask for health, glorious as the treasure is, nor for genius; but she would pray for a sunny disposition, as the boon which confers more happiness upon its owner and more happiness upon those with whom one comes in contact, than any other which falls to the lot of any human creature.

Most people would see nothing worth while in this poor woman's life, says Success; some would even commit suicide were they situated as she is; yet she manages to find something beautiful, something worth treasuring up in the memory even in her darkest days of sorrow.

Her experience ought to shame those of us who complain of our infinitely better lot in life.

If children were properly trained to see the uncommon in the common, to find beauty where other people see only ugliness; if they were trained to find their enjoyment in the little experiences of life, we should not have the great seething unrest and discontent which we now find among all classes.

The trouble is, we emphasize the wrong thing. If it were a little better off, if we had what our neighbors have, we think we should be happy. Yet we know perfectly well that many of the most miserable people in the world are rich.

Every man owes it to his fellow men to go about with a bright, cheerful, hopeful, optimistic, radiating face, radiating sunshine, joy, hope, instead of blackness and despair. The human face ought to be a splendid picture, attractive, radiant with beauty joy and hope. It is every man's duty to radiate encouragement.

Think what it would mean if every body were to go about with a bright cheerful face, and regard it as almost criminal to be seen with a discouraged, gloomy, sour, melancholy expression. What a mighty current of uplifting, encouraging power would come to all of us if everybody regarded this sunshine radiation as a sacred duty!

You have no more right to poison any thought by projecting discouraged, gloomy thoughts into my mind than you have to scatter thistle seeds in my garden.—Exchange.

Gone to Washington.

William Jenkins, the blacksmith at Lisman, went to Washington, D. C., last week to take out a patent on an invention he had made. Mr. Jenkins has been at work on the device for a year or more, but he has guarded it well, only a few of his nearest relatives having seen it, and nothing is known of it except that it is to be used for railroad purposes. Its inventor thinks it will be worth a fortune to him.—Providence Enterprise.

"INCORPORATED"

Expensive Child's Play by Last Legislature.

Of all the acts of folly committed by recent Legislatures of Kentucky the one requiring incorporated concerns to put the word "incorporated" on all stationary used, put it into every advertisement, etc., is the worst.

Many business houses have lost hundreds of dollars by the word being omitted, and often it was done by the negligence of the printers. But the business men, though entirely innocent of any intention of evading the law, have had to pay the penalty.

There never has been a bigger piece of foolishness put into the Statutes of Kentucky. If anyone has ever been benefited in the least by such a law we have not heard of it. It is nothing but child's play, but it is the most expensive toy that the world has ever known. Every intelligent person would like to see the law repealed and the press of the State owes it to the people to use every effort to have it wiped off the Statutes when the next Legislature meets. No doubt it will be done.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

A Railway Yarn.

A few days ago Mr. John Parrish received a marked copy of an Evansville, Ind., paper containing an article somewhat ancient, but the event will probably be recalled by some of the older inhabitants of Harrodsburg. About a quarter of a century ago a little railroad extended from this city to old Harrodsburg Junction, and Capt. J. A. Tomlinson was the conductor on the only train run on the road. It is supposed that the incident referred to in the article to the London Tid-Bits, occurred at that time. Following is the article from Tid-Bits:

"Do you use the block system on this road?" inquired a passenger in a train in Kentucky.

"No, sir," replied the conductor, "we have no use for it."

"Do you use the electric or pneumatic signals?"

"No, sir."

"Have you a double track?"

"No."

"I see you have no breakmen. How do you flag the rear of your train if you are stopped from any cause between stations?"

"We don't flag."

"Indeed! What a way to run a railroad! A man takes his life in his hand when he rides on it. This is criminally reckless!"

"See here, mister! If you don't like this railroad you can get off and walk. I am the president of this road and its sole owner. I am also the board of directors, treasurer, general manager, superintendent, paymaster, track master, general passenger agent, general freight agent, conductor, brakeman and boss. This is the Great Western Railroad of Kentucky, six miles long, with terminal at Harrodsburg and Harrodsburg Junction. This is the only train on the road of any kind and ahead of us is the only engine. We never have collisions. The engineer does his own firing, and runs the repair shop and roundhouse all by himself. He and I run this here railway. It keeps us pretty busy, but we've always got time to stop and eject a sassy passenger. So you want to behave yourself to go through with us or you will have your baggage set off here by the hay stack.—Harrodsburg Democrat.
