The deadlock of the powers, in Peking, on the question of the amount of indemnity that shall be demanded of China, is causing the administration to realize that it has been placing too much confidence in Li Hung Chang, that crookedest of all Chinamen. Commissioner Rockhill has asked for new instructions and the administration is in a quandary as to what to say to him.

The Louisville Dispatch is no more. Last week it ceased publication and an order will be made in the near future to sell all the machinery. It was brought into existence at a time and under circumstances that warranted the opinion that it would flourish and become a powerful journal, a true advocate of Democratic principles; but from the very start its management mistook its real purpose and mission and turned its energies loose on the Courier-Journal instead of the common enemy; later on it left its party and used all its powers to bring about disunion and Republican victory. It died in shame, poverty and infamy—the logical result of treachery. We have no tears to shed.

We publish the names of our paid subscribers each week, for the reason it is a receipt to ones who pay, and furthermore, it furnishes our advertisers with the class of people who are supporting the paper. It may look like occupying space for a little purpose, but many people like it, and we know it has been a great advantage to us. In to-day's paper about fifty names appear.

It is now time for the stockmen to advertise their stock. In our judgment the newspaper that reaches the people is the very best medium. Bills do but little towards advertising, as they are rarely ever seen but a few miles from home; their purpose in the main is to set forth terms. The News, read by 5,000 people every week, is ready to tell the story. If you have good stock, worthy and desirable advertise in this paper.
